Ike Addresses Parliament

Goldfine Unable To Clear Checks

Tycoon, Secretary Refuse Details At Probe; Blackmail Is Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine and his financial secretary told House investigators Wednesday they have no idea what happened to $89,035 in guaranteed bank checks bought by Goldfine companies in the early 1940s but never cashed.

They refused to answer detailed questions about another $232,000 worth of checks bought over the last few years but all redeposited at one time last June 25, after the special House subcommittee's investigation had turned to Goldfine.

Subcommittee members called all this "mysterious . . . beyond belief."

The millionaire Boston industrialist, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams, flushed with fury and cried "blackmail" to questions about an indictment—dropped without prosecution—49 years ago.

Charge Abandoned

Rep. Peter F. Mack Jr. (D-Ill) said papers in the committee files show that such an indictment, on a charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case, was brought against Goldfine in 1909 and abandoned the following year, presumably for lack of evidence. Goldfine was 18 at the time.

But Mack withdrew the whole matter when some members joined Goldfine and his lawyers in protesting.

In this third day as a subcommittee witness, Goldfine also denied anew that his favors for Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, led to a soft settlement of a mislabeling case against a Goldfine textile mill.

When it was suggested that "your company was emboldened by Mr. Adams' successful intervention in your behalf to commit even more flagrant violations," Goldfine snapped: "It is not true."

The Goldfine firms' acknowledged habit of converting cash into certified or bank treasurer's checks which sometimes went uncashed for years inspired some committee members to propose a look at income tax returns for the years in question.

Doesn't Have Authority

The subcommittee said the total of the checks bought over the years and listed as uncashed at the start of its inquiry was about $777,000.

The group does not now have authority to examine federal income tax returns, but it could seek permission from Eisenhower to do so.

Goldfine and his tart-tongued blonde secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman, both swore that none of the checks was used in any way to avoid tax liabilities—nor for payments to public officials.

Goldfine referred questions about the $89,035 worth of checks purchased in 1941-43 to Miss Paperman. She testified she had no recollection and no records going that far back.

U.S., Canada Agree On China Trade Harmony

OTTAWA (AP) — The United States and Canada agreed Wednesday, in top-level conversations, on greater cooperation in the fields of trade with Communist China and safeguards against surprise attack.

This twofold development grew out of a series of conversations between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker and conferences among Cabinet subordinates.

A U.S. embargo on trade with Red China has been a sore point in U.S.-Canadian relations and the two governments now have agreed to consult one another on all cases in which their laws on such trade are out of harmony.

While spokesmen for the two countries left details fuzzy, it appeared the agreement will move in the direction of perhaps permitting Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms to sell nonstrategic items to the Chinese Communists.

A case in point is a bid from the Chinese Reds to purchase 1,000 cars from the Ford Motor Co. of Canada.

On disarmament and particularly on safeguards against surprise attack, the President and the Prime Minister agreed to put experts of both the nations to work together, in cooperation with those of other free world countries concerned, to study the problem.

Primarily, the aim is to lay the groundwork for a conference with the Russians on the subject, along lines proposed in correspondence between Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev has accepted the idea of examination by experts of possible systems of supervision and control to prevent surprise attacks. His views were similar to those Eisenhower had expressed earlier.

The effect of Wednesday's agreement will be that Canada and the United States will team up more closely on preparatory work and are publicly announcing their desire to go ahead with negotiations on prevention of surprise aggression.

Cuban Rebels Release Pair

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban rebels released two more kidnaped Americans Wednesday. The U.S. Embassy identified them as Albert M. Ross of Houston, Tex., and James D. Best of New Orleans, both officials of the American-owned Moa Bay Mining Co.

They were landed by a U.S. Navy helicopter at the Guantanamo Naval Base from an undisclosed rebel mountain hideout.

The rebels still hold 30 U.S. sailors and Marines from the Guantanamo base and one Canadian, Richard Sargent of Toronto, a sugar mill manager.

High level U.S. Navy efforts were being made to free the sailors and marines.

There had been hopes at Guantanamo that some of the American servicemen would be freed during the day but none showed up at the naval base.

It was disclosed in Norfolk, Va., that Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the Atlantic fleet and the U.S. Atlantic Command, will fly to Guantanamo Thursday to confer on further negotiations with the rebel command.

Inhumane Attacks

U. S. To Protest Transport Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States said Wednesday that inhumane attacks by Soviet jet fighters forced down an unarmed U.S. Air Force Transport plane in the Soviet Union 12 days ago.

The State Department, describing itself as shocked by the incident, strongly hinted it would fire a formal protest to Moscow.

The department also renewed its demand that the Soviet Union intervene immediately to arrange release of nine U.S. soldiers held by East German Communist authorities for the past 32 days.

The captives were aboard a helicopter which strayed across the East German frontier in a thunderstorm June 7.

Moscow has maintained it has no control over what East Germany does.

Held As Hostages

In a formal note just made public, the department accused the East German Reds of holding the men as hostages in an effort to win U.S. diplomatic recognition of their Moscow-backed regime.

The department said this is an effort to "extort some form of advantage"—a move which it said "cannot be reconciled with the practices of civilized communities."

The State Department's denunciation of the Soviet Union's conduct in the case of the transport plane followed release of the nine-man crew Tuesday. The men were flown to Wiesbaden, an American air base in West Germany. They reported that five of their number parachuted to safety after two jets fired on their transport when it wandered across the Soviet frontier. Four others rode the plane to an emergency landing, escaping seconds before the craft exploded.

The Air Force Tuesday gave this account of what happened:

Two Soviet MIG jet fighters set the unarmed C118 transport afire with their first shots at 15,000 feet. Five crew members took to their parachutes but the other four remained aboard. With the aircraft in flames and headed for a landing with its wheels down, the MIGs made another firing pass on the crippled plane. The burning plane exploded on the ground shortly after the crew members were able to reach safety.

The State Department press officer, Lincoln White, told newsmen the department is collecting pertinent facts, including testimony from the men, before deciding what next step to take.

Plane Shot Down

White said in response to questions that the department learned only Tuesday that the plane, a four-engine type, had been shot down. The Soviet Union had said it had been forced to land.

In demanding release of the nine U.S. airmen in East Germany, the State Department cited comments men made at a news conference arranged by East German authorities in Dresden last Wednesday.

Ike's Brother Is Accused Of 'Mooching'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, was accused in the Senate Wednesday of "mooching on the government for his personal vacation pleasure." The White House denied it.

At issue was the use of three military aircraft to return Dr. Eisenhower and his 19 - year - old daughter Ruth Tuesday from a Wisconsin fishing trip. The Pentagon estimated the cost at about $1,400.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, said the planes were placed at Eisenhower's disposal for the convenience of the government and in order to bring the President's brother back to Washington in time for consultations before he sets out Saturday on a good-will tour of Central America.

The tour had been scheduled to start about July 15 but was advanced in date last Monday, at a time when Dr. Eisenhower was fishing in Wisconsin's Land o'Lakes region.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) told the Senate the planes were not made available for any government purpose.

"The example of the President's brother mooching on the government for his personal vacation pleasure is not a good one," Proxmire said. He called it "a cavalier misuse of the taxpayers' funds."

Dr. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, has been assigned to visit Nicaragua, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador and Panama as head of a U.S. study group. He will confer with Central American officials about economic development and other problems.

Two small planes were dispatched from Ft. Sheridan, Ill., Tuesday to fly the Eisenhower party, their fish and gear, to Wausau, Wis. From there, Eisenhower and his daughter were flown to Washington in a Convair 440 of the Military Air Transport Service.

Plot Against Government Found

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—police said Wednesday they have uncovered a plot to assassinate government ministers and top officials and overthrow the government.

They reported they have arrested 12 persons described as educated young men of society. The names of the ministers and officials marked for assassination were not disclosed.

New Judgeships Measure Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Wednesday urged Congress to quickly approve legislation creating 45 additional judgeships over the country.

Rogers told a House Judiciary subcommittee that the backlog of cases in federal courts is continuing to mount each year.

Under consideration is a bill to create 45 additional judgeships, including three circuit court judges, and to make permanent one temporary judgeship each in New Mexico, the western district of Pennsylvania, the middle district of Tennessee and the district of Utah.

Senate Group Favors 3 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee lined up 10-5 Wednesday in favor of a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Law. President Eisenhower has asked for five years, and the House has so voted.

There was a 7-5 vote in the committee for three years, and three absentees said later they would vote for three years. The committee has 15 members.

The reciprocal trade program, which was begun 24 years ago, has never been extended for more than three years at a time. Eisenhower asked for five years on the grounds that this much time would be needed to conduct trade negotiations with the European Common Market now being formed.

Under the program, the President is authorized to negotiate tariff cuts, on a tit for tat basis, with other nations.

Dangerous Convict Surrenders Meekly

HARTLEY WINTENEY, England (AP)—An escaped convict, so dangerous that troops were called out to track him down, was caught on a bus Wednesday. He surrendered meekly.

Frank Samuel Mitchell, 31, jailed as criminally insane, broke out of Broadmoor Prison Tuesday. He held an elderly couple in their home with an ax until they agreed to help him escape.

Toy Gun Didn't Fool Proprietor

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Harry Kaplowitz is an expert when it comes to toy guns.

Kaplowitz is owner of a 5 and 10 cent store. He was standing at his cash register Tuesday night when he heard a voice: "This is a holdup. Hand over your money."

Glancing over his shoulder, he saw two men, one holding a gun. Kaplowitz drew a .38-caliber revolver from the cash register and turned to face the pair.

"I'll give you a bullet," he said. The men fled.

Later, Kaplowitz told police he wasn't afraid of the gun the men held on him.

"It was one of those plastic guns, just like I sell," he said.

Thor-Able ICBM Fired At Canaveral

Nose Cone Contains Live Mouse; To Hit 6,000 Miles Away

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A mighty Thor-Able rocket with a live mouse in its nose cone blasted off Wednesday night on what could be the first intercontinental flight of a U.S. ballistic weapon.

The two-stage vehicle—a standard Thor missile topped by a radically modified second stage of the Vanguard satellite rocket—was aimed at an impact area 6,000 miles down the South Atlantic test range.

The Air Force hoped that a secret, highly advanced nose cone atop the rocket would shoot through space at intercontinental range and velocity, then survive the red-hot plunge back into the earth's atmosphere.

May Recover Mouse

An attempt will be made to recover the cone and its tiny rider —alive.

So far, U.S. rocket experts have been unable to break through the intercontinental barrier with a ballistic weapon.

The Snark, a jet-propelled craft, has traveled 6,000 miles but not through space. It moves only 600 miles an hour—a snail's pace in comparison with the speed of the ballistic missiles.

A nose cone launched into space last May 18 by the Army's Jupiter rocket survived a 9,000-mile-an-hour plunge back to earth and was recovered intact from the ocean. The flight, however, was over an intermediate range of only about 1,600 miles.

So accurate was the Jupiter shot that ships near the predetermined target area saw the nose cone hit the sea.

The Thor-Able jumped out of a spectacular pool of fire at 9:49 p.m. and was visible about three minutes as it raced across a starry Florida sky.

The first stage appeared to burn out about 2 minutes and 40 seconds after the blastoff and the second stage seemed to ignite as planned.

A team of aero-medical specialists was standing by awaiting news of how the mouse — nicknamed "Mia II" (for "Mouse in Able")—fared during the 30-minute spin through space.

Abandoned Search

A mouse also was placed in the first Thor-Able, but died when the rocket fizzled April 23. The Air Force abandoned its search for the nose cone after telemetric contact was lost.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Force ballistic missile division, has announced that mice and later monkeys will be included in each Thor-Able test.

The fate of the animals will shed more light on the problems that face man before he rockets into space himself.

Little official information was released on Wednesday night's firing because the project is bound by tight security measures.

If Thor-Able behaved as expected, the two stages fell away as their fuel burned out, while the nose cone continued toward target.

Court Acts For Swift Ark. Ruling

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals acted Wednesday to assure an early ruling on whether the Little Rock, Ark., school board must proceed in September with racial integration at Central High School.

Three judges were named by Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner, 90, to hear an appeal from an order by Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley at Little Rock blocking integration there for 30 months.

The judges, without committing themselves to a date, indicated they expect to rule on the case before the fall school term begins.

They are Judges John B. Sanborn, 74, of St. Paul, Minn., and Martin D. Van Oosterhaut, 58, of Orange City, Iowa, Republicans and Harvey M. Johnsen, 63, of Omaha, Neb., a Democrat.

They invited both sides—the Little Rock School Board and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People—to petition for an early hearing and to suggest a convenient date.

Wiley Brandon of Pine Bluff, Ark., an attorney for the NAACP, was in St. Louis for just that purpose. "I take it to mean they will grant an early hearing this summer and they will rule on the . . . before September," Brandon said.

Brandon, in his petition, does not suggest a specific date for hearing, asking merely that it be held at the earliest date practicable.

At Little Rock, Wayne Upton, president of the school board which had asked for suspension of integration, indicated the board would not seek to speed up the appeal. "After all, it's their appeal, not ours," a school board attorney said.

The appeals court deferred action on the NAACP request for a stay on Judge Lemley's order, saying such a ruling "will not terminate this controversy."

Greek Cypriot Is Shot Dead

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A Greek Cypriot was shot dead and three others wounded in a gangland-style shooting in the Nicosia suburb of Kaimakli Wednesday.

Several Cypriots were sipping coffee in front of a coffee shop. A car screeched to a stop. A gunman sprayed them with machine gun fire and drove off. It was all over in seconds.

Asks U.S., Canada To Be Together

Solve Differences President Says To Hearty Reception

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower summoned Canada and the United States Wednesday to solve their differences and "stand together at a pivotal point in history" against the global threat of Communist imperialism.

Hearty, desk-pounding applause greeted him in the Canadian Parliament — often the forum for speeches critical of U.S. policies.

Eisenhower spoke in the vaulted limestone and oak chamber of the House of Commons, as a highlight of his visit to Canada

He recognized that frictions and disagreements have marred relations. But he said that through understanding, common sense and give and take "we can find acceptable solutions to any problems which exist or may arise between us."

No Specific Solutions

He offered no specific solutions.

At one point, the President took what his listeners considered an unmistakeable dig at one idea of Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker—that it could be beneficial if Canada diverted 15 per cent of its trade from the United States to the British Commonwealth.

"I assume that Canada is as interested as we are in the expansion of world trade rather than in its artificial redirection," the President said.

That drew heavy applause from Diefenbaker's opposition, led by Lester B. Pearson.

To reporters who sought his reaction, Diefenbaker remarked: "I never abstract one line out of a speech. I was pleased with the purport of the speech."

In contrast with a small, decidedly unenthusiastic turnout which witnessed the President's arrival from Washington Tuesday, some 10,000 persons showed up when he laid a wreath at the War Memorial at the foot of Parliament Hill Wednesday. They cheered and applauded him.

Eisenhower Beams

So did another thousand or so at the Parliament building.

A warm sun beamed down, and Eisenhower beamed too.

Some of the people were government workers who were given time off. Some were tourists, many from the United States.

Diefenbaker presented the President to Parliament as "a good neighbor and friend." He said problems and differences will be discussed in the days ahead with "the candor of free men, with friendship, understanding, and manly frankness."

The Prime Minister urged a free world economic offensive to extend prosperity everywhere as a challenge to the forces of communism. The United States and Canada, he said, must be as united in economic objectives as in defense.

Eisenhower sounded an old warning in declaring that competition in the economic arena could be the "most bitter and decisive between the free world and Communist imperialism." Canada and the United States, he said, face not only a military threat but also political attacks, and the challenge of a state-controlled economy to the free enterprise system.

Poet Pound Reaches Italy

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Poet Ezra Pound returned to Italy Wednesday, declaring he can't see how anyone can live in America outside a madhouse.

The 72-year-old American made clear he has not changed the views he voiced before and during World War II that the mass of his countrymen are dolts.

Pound was released from a hospital for the insane three months ago after the federal government had dropped treason charges against him for broadcasts he had made on behalf of the Axis during the war. Doctors testified he was unfit ever to stand trial.

Pound, who arrived on the liner Cristoforo Colombo, will live with a married daughter.

16th Air Force In Madrid Goes Into Full Operation

MADRID (AP) — The 16th Air Force of the U.S. Strategic Air Command has gone into full operation, a spokesman said Wednesday.

This spokesman declined to state whether the B47 bombers now at Torrejon and Valenzuela air bases are armed with atomic bombs.

"Draw your own conclusions," he said. "They are capable of carrying atomic weapons."

The start of full operations in Spain meant the start of Operation Reflex already under way at other SAC bases throughout the world.

An Air Force spokesman explained present SAC strategy this way:

"The ideal would be for us to have our planes at all times hovering over the target waiting for the word go. This, of course, is impossible. The next best for us is to always have planes in the air on their way to the target. They reach advance bases we have and call down by radio, 'Do I go to work or not.' If yes, they go on to their target; If not, they come down; spend a few days at the advance base and then go home. Meanwhile, another group is on the way from home base, and so on indefinitely."

The announcement said that under Operation Reflex B47 jet bombers are poised on 24 - hour alert at Torrejon ready to take off on 15 minutes notice.

A spokesman said most flights coming to the Spanish base will come from SAC bases in Florida, but that they could come from any base inside the United States.

The 16th Air Force is commanded by Maj. Gen. Henry K. Mooney.

Oral Drug Has Promise Of Preventing Cancer

LONDON (AP)—A drug taken by mouth shows promise of preventing painful cancer of the bladder.

It is being taken by persons who have been treated successfully for a first attack of bladder cancer but who face the danger of recurrences.

The drug, nicknamed Lactone, is aimed at blocking a chemical reaction which produces a cancer-causing chemical in the urine.

It was developed by Dr. E. Boyland of the Chester Beatty Research Institute here. The treatment is described in an exhibit at the seventh International Cancer Congress and in formal reports.

Lactone seems to be preventing recurrences of bladder cancer and "is to my mind one of the most significant steps reported here," Dr. Milton Friedman of New York City said Wednesday at a news conference.

The drug has not been in use long enough yet, however, to be sure it is effectively preventing new cancer.

Boyland hit upon it in tracing the chemical steps by which bladder cancer can develop in persons exposed to aniline dyes.

By-products from the dyes could react with normal chemicals in the urine to produce potent cancer-causing chemicals, he found.

The same kind of reaction apparently can occur sometimes as a by-product of normal body chemistry. Lactone breaks up this reaction.

Friedman, professor of radiology at New York University College of Medicine, also reported that a balloon treatment for bladder cancer is producing cures in about half of selected cases. By cure is meant freedom of the disease for at least five years.

Mountain Climbers Save Trapped Man

By The Associated Press

ANTONITO, Colo. (AP) — A squad of Army mountain climbing experts Wednesday afternoon rescued an Albuquerque, N.M., businessman from a canyon ledge where he had been trapped for five days.

A companion died before his body was found Tuesday.

John L. Sanders, 35, was lowered 600 feet in a litter to the floor of Conejos Canyon, 30 miles northwest of Antonito. He walked without aid to an ambulance waiting three miles away.

Don Bewley, 22, who was lowered to Sanders' lofty perch with food and water Tuesday, clambered up to the canyon rim on nylon ropes used by the soldiers to reach the shelf.

Sanders, manager of the Securities Acceptance Corp. at Albuquerque, and William E. Garver, 38, New Mexico University auditor, slipped from the rugged canyon lip last Friday night.

Garver was killed in an 800-foot plunge. His broken body was recovered late Tuesday by volunteers who picked their way up the canyon floor to where he had landed in a crevice.

They fell, Garver to the bottom of the canyon and Sanders part way down, while returning from a fishing expedition into the remote Cumbres Mountains on the Colorado-New Mexico border.

A four-man Army mountain climbing team from Fort Carson, Colo., began the perilous 500-foot descent of the canyon face to Sanders' 20-foot wide perch at dawn Wednesday. The soldiers toed in cautiously lest they start a rock slide on Sanders and Bewley.

Sanders was lowered to the canyon floor and walked away with volunteer rescuers in the early afternoon.

Although marooned for five nights in below-freezing temperatures, he appeared to be in good condition. He was suffering from shock and was weak from hunger when Bewley dropped into the lofty perch.

The Fort Carson team, led by Lt. Karl Holzl, 25, of Skokie, Ill., was made up of three specially trained climbers. They are Specialist 3.C. Bruce Hunter, 22, of Seattle, Wash.; Specialist 3.C. Peter Soby, 24, of Canaan, Conn.; and Pfc. Al Lane, 22, of Littleton, N.H.

They carried hundreds of feet of rope and a block and tackle as they edged down the canyon face to Sanders.

Sanders and Garver were returning with two companions, Robert Shafer, 28, and Fred Bowker, 33, both also of Albuquerque, when they became lost Friday night.

Shafer and Bowker searched for the missing pair until Saturday night, then notified authorities.

Passport Ban Is Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department official testified Wednesday that a recent Supreme Court decision wiped out authority to deny passports even to persons known to be spies.

Robert D. Johnson, chief of the passport office's legal division, also said that since the court's ruling on June 16 passports have been issued to approximately 65 applicants who would have been investigated thoroughly under its Communist regulations.

He told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that the court's ruling offered the department no alternative to issuing passports to these applicants.

In its June 16 decision, involving three passport cases, the Supreme Court ruled that passport applications could not be denied to Communists or others because of their beliefs or associations.

President Eisenhower sent legislation to Congress Tuesday asking for authority to deny passports to any Americans whose activities aided communism during the 10 years prior to the filing of the passport application.

Women Picket Line Crossers Get Roses

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Design and development engineers on the picket lines at two nearby plants of the Radio Corp. of America distributed roses Wednesday to women employes who crossed their lines.

A union spokesman said they had stocked up with about 4,000 buds and would pass them out at the Camden plant as well as at Moorestown and Cherry Hill.

The spokesman said the purpose was to show that the engineers were not critical of other employes still on the job.

Cutback In Railroad Services Is Becoming Serious Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — A one-day halt in rail service for 10,000 Boston commuters Wednesday emphasized a growing problem in transportation: The steady cutting back of rail passenger service.

The New Haven Railroad's Old Colony line, 113 years old and showing every bit of it financially, failed to run a single train into Boston's South Station. But the line will start up again Thursday. Rail officials at a meeting here were assured a $900,000 subsidy for the New Haven would pass both houses of the Massachusetts Legislature.

Competition from airplanes and private autos, plus a recession which has cut freight traffic and magnified passenger losses, is causing railroads to get out of the business of hauling people. They'd rather haul freight.

Wednesday, Boston's South Station was, in the words of one railroad official, "as quiet as a Sunday morning down on the farm." Only a few weeks ago the Boston & Albany abandoned its Highland branch, which carried 1,300 commuters into the station.

The fate of South Station, while only temporary, could presage that of other railroad centers, including the greatest of all—New York's Grand Central Station.

Last week, Alfred Perlman, president of the New York Central, told Mayor Wagner of New York City that the Central might turn the huge terminal into a shell by halting all trains 30 miles north of the city line.

Elsewhere throughout the country, passenger trains are being eliminated so rapidly that in Chicago's top rail circles there's the saying, "You can measure the ability of a railroad president by the number of passenger trains he's cut."

Strange things are happening:

You can no longer get from Madison, the capital of Wisconsin, to Milwaukee, the largest city, by train.

You can't get a train in or out of Paducah, Ky., a city of 65,000 people.

Soviet Embassy Gets Two More "Fake" Letters

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Embassy said Wednesday night it has received two more letters from mystery writers claiming to be U.S. airmen.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman quickly branded the new letters fakes in the same category as the first one a week ago carrying a threat to drop an A-bomb in the North Sea off the British coast.

The Soviet Embassy said one new letter came from the writer of the first, who signed himself "W" and said he was a pilot. The other signed "A" identified the writer as a member of the crew.

The new letters attacked U.S. nuclear policy.

All were addressed to Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik.

Although the Russians concede the letters are probably a hoax, the embassy had the Soviet news agency Tass spread word about the letters to British newspapers. Then the Soviet press attache had reporters in to talk about the letters.

The embassy gave photo copies of the letters to Scotland Yard but refused to let reporters or the Yard's experts look at the originals and test the paper and ink in an attempt to trace the writers.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the writers attempted to insert phrases such as "our guys" and other so-called Americanisms but gave themselves away by using them in awkward un-American phrases.

An ex-RAF bandsman last Friday said he had written the first letter containing the bombing threat to draw attention to personal grievances. Later the man recanted his statement.

Bumper Beet Crop Raises Problems

MOSCOW (AP) — A bumper sugar beet crop in the Soviet Union is raising problems.

A decree from the Communist party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers notes an expected beet increase of five to six million tons over last year and a processing plant capacity increase of only one million tons. Farmers are advised to harvest slowly and provide for field storage until processing can catch up.

Charlottesville Planning To Keep Its Schools Open

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Charlottesville, caught between a Federal Court order to desegretate its schools and a State law requiring the closure of any integrated school, has devised a plan it hopes will keep the schools open.

"This program is the best solution we can devise," said City Atty. John S. Battle Jr., when disclosing the plan after a meeting of the school board last night.

In general, the plan calls for keeping Negroes out of white schools on grounds other than race. Battle and the school board hopes the plan will stand up if challenged in court.

As the first step, the school board rezoned Charlottesville for school attendance areas, giving a district to the city's lone Negro elementary school. This district generally covers the Negro residential area around the school, located near the center of the city.

An administrative procedure set up by Battle provides that any child in an elementary grade who lives in a district "served only by a school occupied predominantly by pupils of another race or color shall be enrolled in a school of a neighboring district occupied predominantly by pupils of his own race."

Battle said a three-point plan will apply to a child entering school for the first time, transferring to Charlottesville schools from another district or trying to transfer from one Charlottesville school to another.

Bruce Expenses Exceed Contributions By $18,957

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Campaign expenses totaling $71,967.58 have been reported for James Bruce's unsuccessful bid for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate in Maryland's May 20 primary.

The amount exceeded contributions by $18,957.58 and was the largest expenditure reported individually for any of the candidates for the office.

George P. Mahoney, who ran second to Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in the six-man field, reported $23,797.89 and Dr. Clarence D. Long, who trailed the third-place Bruce, reported $11,080.57.

D'Alesandro expenditures were lumped with those of the four-man "Harmony Ticket," which reported a total of $149,946.37 for candidates for governor, senator, attorney general and comptroller.

Bruce listed a total of $53,010 in contributions to his campaign, including a personal contribution of $10,000. He reported all but $133.74 was spent in general campaign expenses. In addition, he filed with Carroll County Circuit Court a separate report of personal expenses totaling $19,091.32.

Records show four persons contributed $2,500 each to the campaign of the former ambassador to Argentina — Frank Altschul, Howard Bruce, Clinton Davidson and R. G. White. Eight other contributors were listed for $1,000 each. They included W. Fenwick Keyser, Charles Gillet, Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, Robert Lehman, Harold F. Linder, George MacDonald, William D. Pawley, and Frederick W. Richmond.

Other contributions included: Gene Tunney $500, John Roosevelt $100, Bernard F. Gimbel $250, Mrs. Lucius D. Clay $100,, August A. Busch $500, Samuel I. Rosenman $250, George L. Radcliffe $200, and Leslie L. Biffle, two contributions of $250 each.

State Exceeded Authority In Banning Slots

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP) — Two circuit judges ruled Wednesday that the Maryland Legislature overstepped its constitutional bounds in outlawing slot machines at Potomac River casinos last February.

The attorney general's office immediately announced it would appeal the ruling to the Maryland Court of Appeals. The appeal is expected to be taken as soon as the necessary paper work can be completed.

The State's high court recently completed hearing arguments at its regular 1957-58 term but plans to reconvene for the Potomac matter. Meanwhile, the gambling piers can continue their operations which the Legislature said would be illegal as of June 1, 1958.

Judges John B. Gray and Philip H. Dorsey held that the General Assembly "transcended its power" by enacting the anti-slot machine bill at a 30-day session limited by the constitution to consideration of statewide, budgetary and emergency matters.

They said that although the law was under the guise of statewide legislation its only effect was on a few counties and that it therefore fell into a classification of local legislation, which can only be taken up at the 90-day sessions held in odd-numbered years.

The law banned slot machines in any establishment on a navigable river of the State unless such a place could be entered by foot from the Maryland shore.

It hit directly at the waterborne casinos operating off the Virginia shore in the Maryland-owned Potomac opposite Charles and St. Marys counties. The establishments, licensed by Charles and St. Marys counties do a thriving business from Virginia, which outlaws slot machines and the sale of whisky-by-the-drink.

Maryland's Gov. McKeldin, acting on complaints from Virginia authorities, asked the 1958 Maryland Legislature to outlaw the slot machines, which are the main attraction of the casinos.

Said Judges Gray and Dorsey: "We conclude that the General Assembly at its 'short' session transcended its power in passing Chapter 18 and that the same is therefore unconstitutional and void. . ."

State's Income $1,800,000 More Than Anticipated

BALTIMORE (AP)— Marylanders paid $1,800,000 more in income taxes to the state than had been anticipated during the fiscal year which ended July 1, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes reported Wednesday.

A total of $71,856,022 was collected through taxes on income. Individuals paid $51,617,885 at the rate of 2 per cent on their net income.

The rate has gone up to 3 per cent this year and estimates are that the collection will go up $97,149,000.

The tax on corporations, at the rate of 5 per cent, yielded $29,238,138. This was slightly below estimates.

While income taxes went above estimates, those on sales fell below. The sales tax produced $44,347,000.

It also is scheduled to go up from 2 to 3 cents the first of next year.

County To Face Budget Deficit

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County officials face the spectre of deficit spending for the first time.

The unhappy situation for the county administration has come about through emergency expenses and unexpected cuts in revenue.

However, Michael J. Birmingham, county executive, said Wednesday he is opposed to red ink spending and would prefer to trim government services.

The State Income Tax Division has notified the county its share of revenue will be $500,000 less than was expected earlier. And the county figures to lose another half million dollars in revenue because it cut back two cents of its cigaret tax.

The surprise expenses resulted from two crippling snowstorms last winter when about $238,000 was spent for snow removal and other work. Another $30,000 is attributed to spring rainstorm damages.

The administration asked the county council for a contingency surplus of $405,311 in the 1958 budget, but that was trimmed to $242,845.

Accused Slayer Is Arraigned

FERNDALE, Md. (AP) — One of two defendants charged with murdering an Anne Arundel County man was arraigned Wednesday in Police Court here.

John L. Brady, 25, of Upper Marlboro, was ordered held without bail for a preliminary hearing next Wednesday.

Brady and Charles D. Boblit, 24, of Odenton, are accused of murdering William Brooks, 53-year-old plastics worker. Brooks' body was found more than a week ago off an isolated road near his Odenton home.

Brady accompanied officers Tuesday when they searched for the alleged weapon used to beat Brooks. The prisoner pointed out a .12 gauge shotgun near U.S.Route 60 north of Lynchburg, Va.

Brady gave himself up at the U. S. Embassy in Havana, Cuba, a few days after the June 27 slaying, and admitted to authorities in Miami that he had clubbed Brooks. He waived extradition to Maryland.

He told of having fled with Boblit after the beating and abandoning Brooks' car at Lynchburg. Brady reportedly went to Washington and caught a plane for the South.

Gov. Orders Execution Stays For Pair

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today ordered stays of execution for two men who were scheduled to die in the gas chamber during the last week of July.

The governor granted reprieves for murderer Carl Daniel Kier and rapist Gus Merchant. He took the action just before leaving on a month's vacation in Europe with his family.

McKeldin said attorneys for both men had asked him for executive clemency but there is "insufficient time to provide a hearing and to complete certain studies and investigations prior to the date set for execution."

The reprieves were granted until new warrants are issued by the courts setting new dates of execution. The stays were directed to Vernon L. Pepersack, warden of the Maryland Penitentiary where Kier and Merchant are confined in death row.

Since he took office in 1951, McKeldin has considered 18 other appeals for executive clemency. He has intervened 13 times to save the life of a condemned criminal and has permitted four to die. In the 18th case, he ordered an indefinite stay of execution for murderer John Wesley Elliott, pending the outcome of certain investigations and studies being conducted at his direction.

Kier was convicted twice of the brutal slaying of a Baltimore County matron. The Court of Appeals reversed his first conviction and ordered a new trial, but it upheld the second verdict.

The 22-year-old Baltimore handyman was sentenced to die for the first degree murder of Mrs. John H. Bopst Jr. who was beaten and stabbed to death June 12, 1956 at her home on Charles Street Avenue. She was assaulted, beaten on the head and face and stabbed twice.

Kier was first convicted in Baltimore County Circuit Court. His retrial was moved to Frederick County, and he was convicted there last Oct. 8.

Merchant, 22-year-old Glen Burnie laborer, was convicted last Oct. 9 of raping a Glen Burnie woman. He was convicted in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court after the 31-year-old woman identified him as the man who broke into her home last July, threatened her with a butcher knife and attacked her.

Diver Is Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guy W. Murphy Jr., 19, of Cheverly, Md., died in the Washington Hospital Center Wednesday of injuries received at North Beach, Md., on Sunday.

Police said Murphy suffered a broken neck when he dived into shallow water.

Shacklette Feels Relaxed Despite Losing His Post

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baron I. Shacklette didn't sound very much like a man just bounced from a $16,300-a-year job as a top congressional investigator.

"I feel very relaxed," he said by telephone Tuesday from his nearby Waldorf, Md., farm.

"I suppose I should feel very morose," Shacklette added. Then he went on to tell of plans for a vacation which he said would be the first in his 18 years as a federal investigator.

Shacklette's government career came to an abrupt halt Monday after he got caught with what he called "my hi-fi set," including eavesdropping microphone, in a Sheraton - Carlton Hotel room. Next door was a room occupied by the public relations staff of Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

The House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, which has been inquiring into Goldfine's relations with federal agencies, promptly and unanimously accepted Shacklette's resignation. The subcommittee is headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark).

It may be tough for Shacklette, now 48, to get another sleuthing job in the government. He asked a newsman to let him know if he hears of any openings.

Meanwhile, the short, barrel-chested investigator said, he's going to get better acquainted with the inhabitants of his 30-acre farm.

Among them are about 25 Doberman Pinschers and 7 or 8 Scotties, plus a pony and goats. Shacklette and his wife, Charlotte, raise the dogs for sale. They have no children.

Brown - haired and spectacled, Shacklette is a native of Oakland, Calif. He has spent most of his life in the East, however.

His family settled in New York City when he was a boy. He went to Clarkson College of Technology and was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1937. After that came the federal career.

Shacklette reported he was with the Farm Security Administration in the Agriculture Department from 1939 to 1942. Then he joined the Army's Counter - Intelligence Corps and served through 1944.

After his wartime service Shacklette returned to federal civilian jobs including a stint as top investigator for the General Services Administration. From there he went to Capitol Hill, to a House Legal and Monetary Affairs subcommittee headed by Rep. John Blatnik (D-Minn), in January, 1957. In June 1957, he said, Harris drafted him for the Oversight subcommittee. Harris did not then head the subcommittee but was chairman of its parent Commerce Committee.

Shacklette had won a reputation on the hill even before he went on committee payrolls.

Back in the days of 5 per center investigations during the Truman administration, Shacklette says, he helped the congressional inquiry with his work as a GSA man.

Shacklette also credits himself with an assist to Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex), chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee, in a 1956 probe in which it was alleged that Leonard Hall used a big federal nickel plant contract as a lever to bring in campaign funds while Hall headed the Republican National Committee. Hall denied it, but Shacklette says his Eisenhower administration superiors didn't want him around after that.

Seamen on British war vessels were once allowed to own pets, b' t the practice was banned when the Admirality learned that a particular battleship carried an assortment of 1,560 animals, including deer, apes and bears.

Special Crews Keep Bombing Fleet In Air

By BILL SANSING

TINKER AIR FORCE BASE, Okla. (AP)—At a remote air base, a vital bomber of the Strategic Air Command develops major mechanical trouble and can't get into the air. Immediately an order is issued: "Call Tinker."

Minutes later specialized crews here are alerted and soon will wing their way toward one of SAC's 70-odd bases around the world.

Keeping SAC's fleet of bombers and tankers flying requires skill—and a lot of housekeeping.

On the plains near Oklahoma City the Air Force's biggest housekeeper helps keep the big birds aloft by performing major maintenance and supplying parts by the ton.

Everything from windshield wipers to jet engines, averaging 20 million dollars in value on a normal day, are handled by the Oklahoma City Air Materiel Area (OCAMA).

Some 20,000 persons, most of them civilians, work for OCAMA.

Under jurisdiction of the Air Materiel Command, OCAMA overhauls planes and accessories, adminsters contracts and buys for the Air Force.

Last fiscal year its expenditures equaled a little more than 13½ per cent of the total national defense budget or 28 per cent of the entire Air Force allocation.

Because it has the responsibility for major overhaul and the supplying of parts for the B52, B47, KC97 and KC135, OCAMA is the backbone of SAC. Mobile maintenance teams are poised constantly to fly wherever they're needed.

"These men and their equipment can be airborne within 1½ to 2 hours," says Col. Charles E. Jung, deputy commander.

Jung is deputy to Maj. Gen. Thomas P. Gerrity.

Under Gerrity's command, besides the 20,000 persons here, are approximately 1,500 field workers. They include Air Force representatives at factories and in procurement districts at Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

Other OCAMA personnel are at the Air Force's worldwide communication center at Tulsa, Okla. The heart of the center there is on the transceiver control station which duplicates by electrical impulses punch card requisitions that flow in from all over the world.

In a few seconds the cards are rerouted by telephone wire to one of the eight areas for processing.

At OCAMA's communication center here, six transceivers work 24 hours a day churning out requisitions. Telephones and mail supplement the transceivers.

Within hours, even the most minor part is on its way.

OCAMA has contracts valued at nearly 13½ billion dollars, with an uninvoiced balance of about 3½ billion.

Thirty-three friendly nations are served by OCAMA under the mutual security program.

The center keeps tabs on the Air Force's 100,000 or so jet engines. Electronic data processing machines can pinpoint any engine in seconds.

Like other businesses, OCAMA faces increasing costs. In an effort to combat climbing expenditures, Gerrity reduced overhaul time and set a goal of 20 days for the KC97 tanker, a job that formerly took 60 days.

Haskell Martin, deputy of the supply section, says trucks used here are loaded and unloaded in less than a minute for each operation.

The palace of King Minos in ancient Crete was as large as Buckingham palace in London.

French Soldiers Try To Win Hearts Of Moslem People In Algeria

MAKOUDA, Algeria (AP) — About 100 miles east of Algiers, in the rugged Kabylie Mountains, 40,000 French soldiers are trying to win the hearts of the local population for France.

To a number of them, the task appears hopeless.

Daytime, they teach Moslem children French, treat the sick and distribute food.

At night, they set out on patrols to search for nationalist rebels who vow to create an independent Algeria.

Frequently, concentrated fire of French howitzers and mortars sweeps down on sleepy mountain villages where the rebels are reported hiding out. And the following day, special pacification officers again preach the cause of an Algeria that will be forever French.

Most French officers, whose units have been fighting this double battle in the area, agree that the rebellion could have been avoided if the same effort at improving the lot of the population had been made earlier.

"Some of these people never saw a Frenchman in thheir life until my troops moved in," said Gen. Jean Guerin, commander of the 27th Alpine Division.

"They were at the mercy of local village chiefs. To them, France meant paying taxes and getting little or nothing in return."

Guerin pointed with pride to a huge wall map of his area. Colored pins indicated villages where the French have set up schools, town halls, hospitals, administrative areas.

Yet there were many areas where Guerin's men have not managed to penetrate, although his division has been here for two years.

Farm Bureau Group 5 Elects New Officers

The Allegany County Farm Bureau Planning Group 5 celebrated its 12th anniversary with a chicken dinner at Moon's Dining Room Tuesday evening.

Following the dinner, the regular business meeting was held, with Vernon Loar presiding.

An election of officers was held. James Morgan, Shaft, was elected president; Marshall Porter, Eckhart, vice president; Mrs. Ivan Wilson, Midland, secretary; Mrs. Arch Davis, Frostburg, discussion leader; and Mrs. Marshall Porter, Eckhart, publicity chairman.

New Wing At Memorial Hospital Expected To Be In Use By November

Construction on the new two-story addition to the South Wing of Memorial Hospital currently under way will give the institution an "all modern" X-ray and laboratory department.

The project is being handled by the John I. Vandegrift Company at an estimated cost of $130,400. It is hoped the new addition will be in use by November, according to John A. Moberly, superintendent of the hospital.

The X-ray department is under the supervision of Dr. Frank T. Cawley and his associate Dr. Rhett R. Rathbone and will occupy the second floor of the new addition.

The general laboratories will be located on the third floor and will be under the direction of Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, the laboratory director and pathologist.

Provision is also being made in the new section for a radio-isotope laboratory as soon as conditions of the Atomic Energy Commission can be met.

The ground floor of the present south wing is a part of the hospital's dispensary and contains a large well-equipped room for the application of casts and other orthopedic procedures.

The first floor of the present south wing is used for patients and was constructed to take care of patients requiring isolation. When such patients need to be isolated they are kept in this department but due to the advent of modern anti-biotics, the need for isolation facilities has been greatly reduced. When these facilities are not used for isolation cases, they are used for any other general patients.

The need for the new addition and more working space for the X-ray and laboratory departments has been evident for several years. The present location of X-ray department on the main floor of the building is not only crowded, but inconvenient to patients requiring its use.

Back in the 1930s the hospital had a capacity of 130 adults beds, whereas today this figure is more than doubled but the laboratory and X-ray space has never been increased.

Although most of the X-ray equipment will be moved to the new department, the hospital is purchasing a new deep X-ray generator which is manufactured by the Picker X-Ray Corporation and will cost $16,000. This equipment will be serviced out of nearby Altoona, Pa.

Moberly pointed out that the versatility of this Vanguard deep therapy unit is so great that with this single machine the operator can deliver a broad range of radiation qualities and quantities spaning the spectrum from superficial to deep penetration and at the same time utilize the fullest range multi-portal techniques including full 360 degrees rotation without turning the patient.

The department will continue to operate with its present radiographic fluoroscopic tables and in addition the small movable X-ray unit which enables the technicians to take X-rays of persons physically unable to be moved to the department.

The department will include a new dark room for the developing of films, the units of which will be purchased by the hospital in addition to the deep therapy unit. The department will also feature a film viewing room, film file room, waiting rooms, dressing rooms and offices for the radiologist and secretarial work.

The new laboratory will have a large general area, a clean-up and sterilization room and a tissue laboratory.

Moberly said that since Dr. Skitarelic is the only pathologist in Western Maryland all other hospitals send their tissue specimens to Memorial for study.

The department will also have a secretarial office and an office for the pathologist.

The Electro-cardiographic department will be moved from its present location to the new laboratory area.

A new innovation heretofore not available to patients in the tri-state area will be the installation of a radio-isotope laboratory. New basic equipment not included in the construction costs will run $2,500 and will include the following:

A Scaler which records the amount of radioactive isotopes for diagnosis and treatment of patients and a geiger survey meter to follow the course of the isotopes.

Radioactive isotopes are already being used in a number of ways and the most familiar medical use is that of radioactive iodine in the diagnosis of thyroid function. This use, Moberly said will be the main one at the present time. However, at a later date other radioactive materials will be incorporated for use in the new department.

The addition of this new department will enhance the medical facilities to the people of Western Maryland who prior to this time, had to travel to Baltimore and other metropolitan areas for this service.

The new departments will be serviced by an elevator operating from the ground floor of the present hospital dispensary.

One of the main advantages of having the department on the second floor is that approximately 50 per cent of the hospital's patients are located on this level and their transportation to the new departments will not require the use of the already overworked elevators.

Moberly said the entire project is being financed by the $120,000 received from the Ford Foundation. The hospital is using money in reserve to make up the additional construction requirements and also to purchase the new deep therapy, dark room and radio isotope laboratory equipment.

New Council Must Decide Status Of Two Boards

The new Mayor and Council which took office Monday will have to decide whether it will have two important municipal boards returned to their full status.

For over a year the city has had no Recreation Board after its members resigned following disputes with Mayor Roy W. Eves and some councilmen.

With one exception, all of the members of the City Planning and Zoning Commission are serving on expired terms.

Under the city charter, these commissioners serve until successors are appointed, if that action is not taken when the terms expire.

James A. Avirett, local attorney, has been on the planning and zoning commission since 1947. His last appointment was in 1950 when he was named to a five-year term that was to expire on June 1, 1955.

Two other members of the board and the final date of their terms are Albert S. Paye, local engineer, June 1, 1957, and Benjamin O'Rourke, retired railroad brotherhood official, June 1, 1956.

Frank Martin, named last month to fill the unexpired term of Anthony Saeli, whose five-year term will be up in June 1963, is the only one in a proper term.

The planning and zoning commission was established June 1, 1943, and former Mayor Thomas W. Koon was its first chairman.

The objective of the commission was to give the city the advantages of long-range planning in various projects, and also to have a body to study re-zoning and other problems.

The first big job tackled by the commission in 1943 was the flood problem.

The last meeting of the commission was held on October 7, 1957 when the group acted on the location of the Potomac Avenue service building in Mapleside.

The mayor acts as an ex officio member of this board.

As for the recreation board, six members resigned in April 1957 over two issues—the Mayor and Council's refusal to go along with the board's Southview Addition plan and the proposed park-recreation department consolidation that would have placed many of the board's functions under the direct administration of the street commissioner.

Those resigning and the dates of expiration of their terms were: Lacy Cifala, 1957; Albert S. Paye, 1958; James L. Weber, 1959; Florence Yankelevitz, 1960, George Henderson, 1961, and Arch M. Hutcheson, 1962.

J. Monroe Sharer, whose term would have run to 1963, died January 26, 1957.

The action of these persons followed the resignation of Gwynn Fletcher, city recreation director.

Since April 1957, the recreation department has operated without the benefit of a recreation board, as provided in the original law.

Saturday Not Big Shopping Day

NEW YORK (AP)—Saturday is no longer the busiest day of the week for many of the nation's department and specialty stores, a National Retail Merchants Assn. survey showed.

This is particularly true in the case of stores that stay open Monday and Thursday nights. Business on those two days almost invariably tops Saturday.

Bureau Of Census To Make Job Survey

The Bureau of Census will conduct a survey in the Cumberland area next week to determine the number of persons having more than one job.

Last year's survey on the same subject revealed about one in 15 men and one in 40 women held two jobs.

Sharp Rise Noted In City Construction

The value of building permits for the first six months of this year is more than $1,250,000 than for the same period of 1957, according to City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

Figures for the comparative periods were contained in a report of the city's engineering and building departments at Monday's Council session.

Nuzum's report indicated the value of all building permits for the first six months of this vear was $1,912,419.01, while the value of all permits for the same period of 1957 was placed at $649,566 for an increase of $1,262,853.01.

A breakdown of the 1958 report shows 51 new construction permits were issued during the first six months, their value being placed at $1,235,495. The value of permits granted for 35 additions and improvements to existing structures was estimated at $674,524.01, while permits for two dwellings which were moved was set at $2,400.

In comparison, 52 new permits for new construction were approved during the January-June period of 1957, their value being placed at $369,306. A $272,550 value was placed on 28 permits for additions and improvements, while permits for three dwellings moved was estimated at $7,710.

The report by Nuzum also noted that the Engineering Department granted 21 buildings permits last month, nine for new construction and the remaining 12 for additions and improvements. Value of the permits was estimated at $71,734.01. This amount was a decrease of $216,715.99 compared to the value of permits issued in June of 1957 which was placed at $288,450.

Nuzum also reported that four applications for occupancy permits were filed last month, two of which were granted and two referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals after being refused by the city engineer. One of the refused permits is pending action of the appeals board, while the other has been withdrawn, the report states. Ten sewer permits were also granted last month.

Fees collected by the city engineer's office during June amounted to $495.20.

The report also listed extensive surveys and other work undertaken by the city engineering staff last month.

Issues Report

The commissioners appointed to assess benefits or award damages in connection with the closing of portions of streets in the Ridgedale section where a new National Guard armory is to be constructed filed a report Monday with the retiring Mayor and Council. No benefits or damages were deemed necessary, the report stated.

Local Doctor Named To State Council

Dr. Harold W. Eliason, 655 Washington Street, has been reappointed to the Advisory Council on Hospital Construction in Maryland by Governor McKeldin. There are five members of the council.

In another appointment by the governor, Gilbert Miller of Spring Gap was appointed to the State Apple Commission, succeeding E. D. McCain of Frederick, whose term expired.

Screen Completes Insurance Course

Ronald J. Screen, 108 Karns Avenue, a local representative of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, has returned from New York, where he participated in a two-week training course on advanced life underwriting techniques and practices.

Recently he was appointed insurance consultant and is associated with the Cumberland district office managed by Joseph J. Rehak.

Hughes, Cook To Study Possible PSC Changes

Noel Speir Cook and George R. Hughes Jr., members of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly, have been named to a special committee of the Legislative Council to investigate possible changes in the Public Service Commission.

Also appointed to the committee was State Sen. Clifford Friend of Garrett County, with Hughes being designated as chairman of the unit.

The investigating unit was organized by the Judiciary Committee of the Legislative Council as the result of a letter from Hughes concerning rate increases granted the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company since 1952, calling attention to possible changes in the PSC laws regarding the People's Counsel, rate basis and other utility matters.

Their findings are to be reported to the Judiciary Committee, along with recommendations, by next September 1.

Hughes' letter pointed out that the C&A firm had been granted four sizeable rate increases since 1952, the first two of which raised the rate more than 45 per cent above its original level, and the last two adding substantially to the consumer rate.

The corporation's annual return on its rate base nets about 6.5 per cent of its investment, Hughes informed the Legislative Council committee. Each of the increases worked a severe hardship on large numbers of residents of the state's two westernmost counties, Hughes wrote, terming the gas bills during last winter as "out of this world."

Hughes explained that the rate increases were sought by the firm after an intensive campaign for new customers, using the low price of the product as the keynote for the sales drive. The campaign resulted in the securing of many new customers for the utility firm, Hughes said.

His letter stated that he recognized the capability of the PSC's People's Counsel, but also noted that his staff was "woefully" undermanned for the hundreds of cases it handles each year, making it an impossibility for People's Counsel to effectively refute the corporation's arguments in favor of an increase.

Hughes wrote that he thought it advisable to re-examine the Public Service Commission laws, citing the fact that the C&A's annual net profit is 6.5 per cent of its investment, while the consumer rate has been increased nearly 65 per cent since 1952. Such excesses and the system through which it is administered have resulted in increased dissatisfaction with the public utilities laws of Maryland.

Senate Defense Hearings Are Ended Abruptly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee abruptly ended public hearings on defense reorganization Wednesday and prepared to go behind closed doors to tackle the House-passed bill to overhaul the Pentagon.

The final witnesses on the controversial measure were three retired four-star officers. Their conflicting views ranged from a let-well-enough-alone caution to a warning that if Congress doesn't act now it will have to take more drastic steps within two years.

After Adms. Arthur W. Radford and Robert B. Carney and Gen. Carl Spaatz testified, Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said the committee had canceled plans to select some civilian witnesses for later testimony.

Russell said the committee probably would start next week its closed-door consideration of a House bill which would give the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff greater power. President Eisenhower has urged the Senate to remove restrictions the House wrote into the plan he suggested.

Carney, chief of naval operations in 1953-55, said Eisenhower's request for broad powers to reorganize the Defense Department was unnecessary and unwise. He said the request goes "far beyond the requirements for sound military control and management" and sets the stage for many things Congress has opposed in the past.

Radford, also a former chief of naval operations and until last year chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, helped frame the Eisenhower proposals. He said Congress must grant the broad power or be forced to take even more drastic action.

The population of the United States Pacific coast areas is increasing at the rate of three per cent a year. This is about double the national average.

A New Foreign Economic Plan

Reports from Washington are that the administration is getting set to undertake a new foreign economic program which will differ somewhat from the Marshall Plan of a decade ago.

This time Britain and West Germany will be partners of the U. S. in the program. "Underdeveloped nations" will get the major attention.

The program is designed to shore up the Free World's economy. It involves:

Giving new funds and responsibilities to the International Monetary Fund and World Bank with the U. S. putting up less money relatively than other nations; coordinating operations of the Export-Import Bank and Development Loan Fund with the IMF and World Bank more closely; setting up a new International Development Association; increasing resources of the Development Loan Fund; short-term aid to countries with falling commodity prices.

This is roughly the division of responsibility:

IMF would support currencies of countries threatened by temporary balance of payments difficulties; the World Bank would lend more to governments of underdeveloped countries for long-term economic programs; Export-Import would finance private industrial and mining projects, and the Development Loan Fund would grant "soft loans" to politically sensitive spots in the world.

If this program emerges as now planned, it could put the U. S. in a trading position comparable to that of Great Britain from 1850 to 1914, exponents of the proposed set-up say.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

How Far?

Thomas D. Cabot, speaking on behalf of the C.E.D. before the House Ways and Means Committee to extend the Trade Agreements Act, made this arbitrary statement which requires analysis because it has become so fashionable:

"This economic advantage is very clear when we buy from abroad things we don't produce at all at home. But there is a decided economic advantage to buying from abroad those things which others can produce more efficiently—even though they could be produced at home—and selling abroad those things which we produce more efficiently."

The word, efficiently, covers a multitude of conditions which Cabot and others do not discuss. Does "efficiently" mean because the workers abroad are more competent, as Chinese women in Amoy and Swatow are in embroidering handkerchiefs and women's lingerie, or does efficiently mean that the goods can be produced more cheaply because wages are lower, hours are longer, taxes are less, and a subsidy is provided by a government or by the United States through its various aid organizations? What are the precise facts as regards each commodity in each market? For instance, how is it possible for West German and Russian automobiles to invade South American markets at a time when the automobile industry in the United States has been hit by a recession? Are the automobiles of these other countries more efficiently made than ours or are they able to sell them for a lower price or by barter because of government support as in West Germany or because of the no-price barrier as is the case of Soviet Russia?

Cabot says that our foreign trade policy has been viewed as an integral part of our foreign policy. If that is so, what economic means are devised to keep this nation at full employment? Also, what methods are used to prevent plants from becoming obsolescent by disuse, so that when we need them for our national existence, they are available? It was possible for the United States to crash-program the manufacture of the atomic bomb because some 2,000 manufacturers were co-opted to join in this work. That was possible during the economic activity of war; what happens to such activity during a recession, with men laid off and the plant idle?

If our foreign trade policy is a phase of our foreign policy, how could it be possible that we have been steadily losing our Latin American market? If foreign policy is to determine the course of our foreign trade should we not pour everything we have into the cultivation of our Latin American trade? There seems to be a gap between Cabot's description of policy and the actual course of events.

The gap is due to the assumption that the American post-war prosperity would last forever and that as the richest nation on Earth, we can afford to be generous to friend and foe, to former friend and former foe. But are we the richest nation on Earth? How is such richness measured? The classical method would be our possession of gold reserves, not on deposit but owned by us absolutely. Perhaps a more current method for the measurement of richness would be full employment at high wages and reasonable hours. Whatever yardstick is used, the question still needs to be answered as to whether we are, in 1958, the richest nation on Earth.

Certainly Soviet Russia is challenging that claim and is entering upon a vast give-away program to prove that it too is rich. Like us, the Russians are giving away gold; like us, they have made foreign trade a phase of foreign policy. Unlike us, they only move goods to those countries where it will specifically do their foreign policy some good. For instance, they need to restore diplomatic and commercial relations with Brazil; so they negotiate to pick up Brazil's surplus coffee at barter prices where the margin is so wide that under their socialist system of state-produced goods, they can sell for any price that is politically helpful.

Neither high nor low tariffs will solve our economic problems. What we need is a reasoned grasp of our situation based not upon the idealism of Cordell Hull or the realism of Mark Hanna, but on what we specifically face in the year 1958 and in the immediate future.

Lost His Head Somewhere Along The Way

Harriman Is Possible Candidate For President

By Joseph Alsop

NEW YORK

If Averell Harriman is comfortably re-elected to the New York Governorship — as the signs now suggest — he will promptly become a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1960.

The news is not official. No other politician in the United States has anything like Harriman's knack for total absorption in the task of the moment. His present task is being Governor of New York state, and to get himself reelected as Governor of New York state by the most impressive majority possible. He is thinking and talking about nothing else but this immediate task.

But though the news is not official, it can still be stated with high certainty that Harriman's reelection as Governor will have the national political sequel above-indicated. A good many people have doubted whether Harriman would again seek the Presidency, even if he wins again in New York by a big majority, for the quite obvious reason that he is now sixty-six years old.

He will, therefore, be sixty-eight by the time the Democrats gather to choose their next Presidential nominee. In theory, this is surely too great an age for a man seeking to assume the terrible burdens of the White House.

But in practice, Averell Harriman at sixty-six looks not more than fifty, and he lives at a pace that most men of forty would be hard put to match. As he is fond of pointing out, Harriman is also fourteen years younger than Konrad Adenauer, who is still, at eighty-two, the strongest leader of the Western nations. And instead of the golf in a golf-cart practiced by his contemporary, President Eisenhower, Harriman's favorite sport is skiing. Almost every winter week-end, he skis with conspicuous energy and violence.

A much more youthful Adenauer, still wholly capable of swooping down the steepest snow slope — that, one can predict, will be the picture of Harriman presented to the public when and if his Presidential candidacy is declared. Furthermore, anyone who is disinclined to take this conditional Harriman candidacy with complete seriousness, had better remember the special Harriman rule of political analysis.

Possibly the trouble is that Harriman's own determination to succeed in all his projects is so concentrated and, in an odd way, ungainly. At any rate, myriads of people have repeatedly yielded to the temptation not to take Averell Harriman seriously, whenever he was beginning a new chapter in his formidable career. On the experience of these myriads is founded the Harriman rule, which reads: "Always take him seriously, or you'll get your fingers burned."

To be sure, Harriman's Presidential bid is still wholly conditional. If he is not re-elected to the New York Governorship, Harriman will have to retreat into the already over-populated ranks of the Democratic party's elder statesmen. But if Harriman will not think or talk about anything but the Governorship, he is at least ready to talk about that, and talk at great length and with much astuteness.

Harriman not only thinks he is going to win the Governorship again. He is also all-out to win the Governorship by the kind of majority that will impress Democratic leaders in other states.

Certainly he has a lot of assets. To begin with, all but the more frenzied Republican partisans admit that Harriman has made a good governor. To help out, he has made himself some nice, cosy, useful state issues, by solid, common sense improvements in New York state's important structure of social and welfare legislation and administration.

Then too, Harriman has measurably strengthened the Democratic organization upstate. In the main Republican stronghold in New York, in fact, Democratic Mayors and City Councilmen and County Supervisors have ceased to be exotic blooms. The crop is not exactly big or flourishing yet, but there are enough of them nowadays to be decidedly impressive. And finally, Harriman himself has shaken more upstate hands than any Governor, Democratic or Republican, in all of New York history.

With all these local factors to fight against, the probable nominee, Nelson Rockefeller, is also going to have to fight against the nation-wide drop in the prestige of the Eisenhower administration, plus the strong Democratic tide that seems to be running all over the country. In short, Rockefeller (if he is the man the Republicans tap) is plainly going to have a rough time preventing Averell Harriman from reaching his next objective.

If Harriman attains that objective, winning the Governorship by a good majority, the rest will follow rather promptly and pretty inevitably. It is highly possible that Harriman will not be able to overcome the really big obstacles that will stand between him and the Presidential nomination, even after his reelection here. But he is sure, at least, to speak with a very loud voice when the Democrats make their final choice. That, perhaps, is what he really wants.

Harris Investigation Has Been Game Of Cops, Robbers From The Outset

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — The Harris committee's investigation of the so-called independent agencies has been a business of cops and robbers from the time it was born, culminating in the "imprudence" of its chief investigator, Baron Shacklette, in bugging the room of Goldfine's press relations man this week. My assistant, Jack Anderson, a good reporter, was present, as any good reporter is always present—if he can get there.

Reason for the cops-and-robbers game is twofold: 1. The Harris committee has been probing some of the agencies and personalities in Washington. They have gone to the summit.

2. Some of the committee members themselves have been dead opposed to the probe and have rowed among themselves.

Chairman Harris of Arkansas did not hire Bernard Schwartz as committee counsel until he had first phoned the office of Sherman Adams to see if the White House approved. This is highly unusual. Adams, a Republican, was due to be investigated by Harris, a Democrat. The legislative and executive branches of government, under our Constitution, are supposed to check up on each other.

Yet Harris conferred with Adams' office, and Gerald Morgan later called New York University, on behalf of the White House, to see what kind of lawyer Schwartz was. They got word he had voted for Eisenhower, so gave Harris the White House OK.

Reason for Harris' solicitude for Sherman Adams was first, the fact that Harris wants to be a Federal judge in Arkansas and that Adams could veto this; second, Harris has been carrying the ball for the White House and Ike's Texas oil friends regarding the natural gas act.

First Channel 10 Expose

Last summer, after the Legislative Oversight subcommittee had been functioning for almost six months with no results, Jack Anderson went to Miami and uncovered the first evidence regarding FCC Commissioner Richard Mack and his conflict of interest with Thurman Whiteside regarding Channel 10.

This was in August. The information was given to counsel Schwartz and chief investigator Shacklette. They did not "leak" the story to this column as some Congressmen suspected. It was leaked to them.

After this column published the sensational charges against Mack on Jan. 17, 1958, plus other charges of gift-taking by independent agencies, Schwartz was hauled before his committee and cross-examined as to whether he had given the information to me or to Anderson. He was able to swear quite truthfully that he hadn't.

However, after the first revelations in this column, the New York Times published the Schwartz memo regarding gift-taking and influence peddling. What happened was that a copy of his report was left in a bush near the Capitol building for the New York Times. The Times came along and picked it up.

Schwartz, however, didn't equivocate to the Congressmen. He said that following prior publication by Pearson he had given the statement to the Times. The committee then fired him.

Simultaneously, the Congressmen locked the questionnaires on gift-taking in Harris' safe. They are still there. No one has seen them. Schwartz was pilloried by some Congressmen and by gift-taking bureaucrats for sending out these gift questionnaires. So was Chairman Moulder, who backed him up 100 per cent. All the evidence since then shows that Schwartz and Moulder were right. But the questionnaires are still in the safe of Congressman Harris, who took Moulder's place.

Adams Probe Suppressed

As the investigation dragged along through the spring, Chairman Harris made it quite clear that he wasn't going to send investigators up to Boston to probe charges against Sherman Adams and Goldfine or the TV wire-pulling of the Boston Herald and Traveler. Once early in the winter Shacklette had been ordered by counsel Schwartz up to Boston to probe these two cases, but Harris suddenly countermanded the order. Shacklette, an ace investigator, was ordered to stay in Washington.

Later Harris called Shacklette in and fired him. Other committee members who knew Shacklette was the best man on the staff, rebelled and forced Harris to keep him. But Shacklette was taken off the Boston probe.

By May it became apparent that Chairman Harris was going to hush up the entire Adams-Goldfine case. As I left for Europe on May 6, Jack Anderson and I discussed the evidence we had on hand and decided he should write an early column on Harris' tactics and the evidence. Accordingly on May 13 Jack wrote:

"Now that the public clamor has died down, Congressman Oren Harris (D., Ark.) has quietly called off the investigation of the second most powerful man in government—Sherman Adams. . . Harris has slammed the file shut on an explosive case involving Adams and has ordered committee sleuths to find someone else to investigate."

The column then told in detail of Adams' phone calls to the FTC re Bernard Goldfine's mislabeling and of Goldfine's apparent influence with the SEC over the Boston Port Development case. After that other Congressmen demanded that the Adams probe go forward. It did. Significantly Oren Harris did not go to Boston to conduct it. Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi went instead. Not until the probe hit the headlines did Harris leave the sidelines and begin a real investigation of his friends in the White House.

(More on the cops-and-robbers game of Goldfine-Adams and the Harris committee will follow shortly.)

Klaus Fuchs' Future

By Bob Considine

LONDON—A murderer named Brian Hume, who ingeniously but unsuccessfully tried to dispose of his victim's body by dropping it from a plane flying over the North Sea, emerged from Wakefield Jail not long ago. He had been given a fairly light sentence because he proved to the court's satisfaction that two other men were involved in the slaying.

Hume promptly announced upon leaving prison that he was the sole murderer and sold his memoirs to a London paper, knowing that he could not be tried again. He brought something else out of prison with him: sketches and notes indicating that a fellow prisoner at Wakefield had drawn up the specifications of an earth satellite some years before the Russians launched Sputnik I.

The prisoner was Klaus Fuchs, the major atomic spy whose own term will end this fall. British and American minds are at work on how to keep the brilliant traitor from disappearing behind the Iron Curtain with what they fear is a treasure trove of theories and calculations amassed during his more than eight years of prison life. In their anxiety to keep Fuchs in the West, several British and American atomic research outfits have offered him attractive posts—though the man would have been duly electrocuted along with the Rosenbergs had he been an American citizen. Fuchs' citizenship is now German, a retroactive status he attained when the British took away his citizenship papers in 1951.

If Hume's documents are valid, and there is no reason to believe they are not, they might indicate that Fuchs is at least partly responsible for the startling Soviet progress in space exploration. Some alumni of the Manhattan Engineering District project declare that the information Fuchs leaked during and after the war enabled Russia to produce the atomic bomb perhaps 10 years sooner than anticipated.

What is not as well known is the fact that long before even the U. S. had its first atomic bomb, Fuchs was rated among the world's top three theoreticians on the feasibility of the hydrogen bomb. Presumably, those studies also were sent along to the Russians, via messenger Harry Gold in the U. S. and the couriers with whom Fuchs did business in London for four years after V-J Day.

Julius Rosenberg once boasted to his gullible brother-in-law, Sgt. David Greenglass, who by harrowing chance was assigned by the Army to work in the very shop at Los Alamos which produced the complex "lens" (trigger) of the A-bomb, that he was in possession of a spy's report on "a space station." Very little was brought out on this in the subsequent trial of Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel. But inasmuch as they were relaying information taken from Fuchs, there is reason to believe that the spy forwarded views and drawings which later took substance in a stunning scientific and propaganda achievement by the Soviet Union.

Fuchs was once considered for the Nobel Prize in physics and conceivably could be again. Hence the interest in securing the services of a man the free world once declared one of the ultimate architects of treachery.

If Fuchs accepts a job in Britain or the U. S. after his release it is probable that a 'round-the-clock complement of undercover men would be assigned to watch him. Several atomic research groups, notably British, feel that the fruit of his genius would be worth the trouble and expense and the appalling mortification of catering to a man whose contributions to Russia's present menace are incalculable.

Paradoxically, Russia unquestionably would put the same tail on Fuchs if he is taken into the select circle of Soviet scientists his stature warrants. Fuchs' "controlled schizophrenia," as he described it in his amazing confession, permitted him to commit appalling treason in perfectly good conscience. It could again, on either side of the Curtain.

Summer Season Is Rough On Skin Of The Feet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is poor policy to blame ringworm for every ontbreak between the toes or on the soles of the feet. The lesions may be due to excessive perspiration or to sensitivity to one of the plastics in shoes. There are other causes of dermatitis and there is no sense in starting treatment until the diagnosis is established.

The skin of the feet take a beating during the summer when sweating is profuse particularly if nylon socks or nonventilated or rubber soled shoes are worn. The affected area becomes moist, white, and dead appearing unless dried and exposed to the air periodically.

Maceration, blisters, and cracks develop which may look like ringworm. But this diagnosis cannot be confirmed unless scrapings of the tissues are sent to the laboratory and the fungus is found in this material. If the micro-organism is not present, ringworm treatment is of no value — in fact, may be worse than the disease.

On the other hand, warm moist skin is made to order for the ringworm organism — in susceptible persons. Invasion of the toes is followed by a blister, and when this breaks, the skin becomes scaly, cracked, and red. Scales are the most consistent findings and usually are noted unless the tissues are too macerated.

Fungal infections of the skin rarely are confined to one spot. When the nails are involved, they become discolored, thickened, and brittle. They may separate from the toes along the outer edge. If the soles of the feet are affected, there are fine scales, with or without blisters.

Athlete's foot is easy to treat but there is no guarantee that the results will be lasting. Castellani's paint, a triacetin spray, or a medicated ointment or powder such as Desenex produces a high percentage of cures. The old reliable, Whitfield's ointment, is an excellent alternative. Meanwhile, maintain good foot hygiene and rest the feet periodically.

MEGACOLON IN CHILD

Mrs. W. writes: What causes an enlarged colon in a boy of 13?

REPLY

Megacolon usually is more annoying than serious. The condition causes constipation and abdominal distention. In the majority, the dilated intestine can be made to contract through the use of one of the cholinergic drugs. Enemas may be necessary as well as training in bowel habits. Surgery may be needed if conservative measures fail to give improvement.

STUNG

W. D. writes: What is the best thing to do when stung by a bee?

REPLY

If the insect was a honey bee, remove the stinger gently. Apply cool baking soda compresses and then one of the ointments containing an antihistaminic or a steroid. Calamine lotion is good, too. My daughter is a great advocate of mud packs for this purpose.

CONGESTED LUNGS

W. L. writes: What is lung congestion?

REPLY

This condition is comparable to congestion of the nose. Irritated or inflamed membranes water or produce excessive secretions that are coughed up. In other instances, congestion stems from changes in circulation to the lungs.

EYES AND KIDNEYS

W. R. writes: Will examination of the eyes reveal kidney disease?

REPLY

Yes, in that the blood vessels of the retina are affected by several conditions, including kidney disease.

BURNING AND ACID

S. W. writes: Is burning of the feet caused by acid in the blood?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to uric acid. A gouty toe causes burning.

OVER 40

L. Y. writes: We hear so much about our aging population, I was wondering what proportion of the people in this country is over 40?

REPLY

A little better than one-third.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Kenneth Weesner of Marion, Ind., solemnly swears his automobile was stalled on a lonely country road when he distinctly heard a horse remark, "It's probably the carburetor." Understandably dumbfounded, Weesner demanded of the horse, "Was it you who just spoke to me?" "Who else?" said the horse. What's more, his diagnosis was absolutely correct.

Weesner's car again in applepie shape, he tootled up to the farmer's cottage and said, "That horse of yours just told me how to fix my car!"

"That's funny," admitted the farmer. "Usually we pay no attention to him whatever. He doesn't know a darn thing about automobiles."

A 12-year-old girl was taken to her first symphony concert, and was bowled over by it. "Father," she reported excitedly to her father that evening, "they played Beethoven's Fifth. It was marvelous! I wouldn't have changed a note of it!"

Two Accidents Occur On Same Route 50 Curve

$9,000 Lost In Trailer Crack-Up

KEYSER—Two accidents occurred in exactly the same place on Route 50 on Allegheny Front and under exactly the same conditions Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning, State Police Trooper Robert B. Noechel reported last night.

The scene is the second turn above Bill's Tavern about one mile from the foot of the mountain. The curve is to the right while ascending the five-mile grade.

The first crash occurred about 5:10 p. m. Tuesday as Thomas W. Lowry, II, 20, Keyser, was driving the 1952 Buick owned by his father, T. Warner Lowry, up the mountain, and Elzie S. Garrison, 54, Steubenville, Ohio, was driving east down the grade in a 1957 Buick.

Trooper Noechel said Lowry, who is home on furlough from Fort Bliss, Tex., swung wide on the curve and crashed into the Garrison car. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $500, and Lowry was charged with failure to keep to the right of the highway.

Yesterday at 9:55 a. m., William S. Harrison, 74, Fairmont, was driving a 1955 DeSoto up the mountain when he swung wide on the same curve and hit a 1953 Ford pick-up being driven east by Ralph E. Marshall, 53, Pontiac, Mich.

No one was injured and damage was estimated at $300. Harrison was charged with failing to keep to the right of the highway.

However, by far the most property damage in an accident in Mineral County Tuesday resulted when a Pony Express tractor-trailer overturned on the first curve west of Ridgeville on Route 50 at 4:45 p. m.

Trooper Noechel said the driver, Carroll A. Snell, 37, Staunton, Va., told him the big rig jackknifed while making the curve as he was driving east with a load of miscellaneous cargo.

The Mack tractor ran off the highway, but the trailer and its cargo overturned in the road blocking traffic in both directions for several minutes. While the tractor was only slightly damaged, the loss in the trailer and its cargo was estimated at $9,000.

Snell, who was not injured, was charged with hazardous driving.

Mt. Savage Man Fined Under New County Dog Law

MT. SAVAGE—Delbert Martin of Mt. Savage found the new county dog law has legal teeth in it and its "bite" can prove costly following a hearing Tuesday before Magistrate Howard R. Stevens.

Martin, arrested on two warrants, one obtained by county dog warden Merwin Hast and the other by Charles Deans of Mt. Savage, was found guilty on both counts. He was fined $5 on each charge and had to pay court costs of $2.75 for each conviction—a bite in the pocketbook of $15.50.

Hast's warrant charged Martin with failing to comply with the county dog law in respect to his failure to keep his dog tied and quarantined. Dean's warrant stated that Martin was maintaining a nuisance. The animal had bitten three different children in the Mt. Savage area, one of them being a child of Dean's.

Both warrants were served by Andrew Lennox, constable at Mt. Savage. The convictions are one of the first under the new county dog law which went into effect May 1.

Bishop Russell Is Transferred To Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Bishop John J. Russell of Charleston, S. C., has been transferred to Virginia to become bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Richmond, succeeding the late Bishop Peter L. Ireton.

The assignment, made by Pope Pius XII, was announced in Washington Wednesday by Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States. Msgr. Michael Hyle of Baltimore was appointed coadjutor bishop of Wilmington, Del.

Bishop Russell, 60, head of the Charleston Diocese since 1950, delivered the funeral sermon for Bishop Ireton who died April 27.

Msgr. McClunn said he expected it would be from six weeks to two months before Bishop Russell would assume the position here. Formal installation will be attended by priests from throughout the diocese.

Bishop Russell was born in Baltimore Dec. 1, 1897, and attended St. Charles College, Catonsville, Md., St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, and the Urban University in Rome.

In the Richmond Diocese, including most of Virginia and part of West Virginia, there are more than 130,000 Roman Catholics.

The diocese experienced major growth in church membership and the number of Parochial schools and other institutions under the guidance of Bishop Ireton, who became coadjutor bishop in 1935 and bishop in 1945.

W.Va. Pays Korean Vets $19,659,937

Only 2,000 Claims To Be Processed

CHARLESTON (AP) — A total of $19,659,937 has flowed into the pockets of Korean War veterans since West Virginia started paying off a state bonus eight months ago.

The bonus operation is now tapering off. Director C. S. Collier Jr. of the State Department of Veterans Affairs said Wednesday that of 77,474 applications received, a backlog of only about 2,000 claims remains to be processed.

"These claims," he said, "represent for the most part, the more difficult claims to resolve due to difficulty in securing necessary service verification and other information pertinent to the application."

The bonus office, operating with a skeleton force now that the big rush is over, is presently clearing for payment about 100 claims a day. It continues to receive from 150 to 200 new applications per week.

Payments have been made to 73,453 living veterans of the Korean War and 939 survivors of deceased veterans.

The department said bonus checks, which began flowing out last Nov. 1, have now been sent to each of West Virginia's 55 counties, to every state and territory of this country, and to 11 foreign countries.

Out-of-state payments have totaled $9,131,828, representing 46.45 per cent of the total bonus distributed so far. Ohio reflected by far the largest concentration of former West Virginians, with 6,226 payments in the aggregate amount of $1,610,088 to veterans now residing in that state.

Morris Memorial Polio Hospital Now Half-Empty

MILTON, W. Va. (AP) — Morris Memorial Hospital, once crowded to overflowing with child polio patients from many states but now half - empty and in financial difficulty, may become a state - operated medical facility.

Trustees who operate the nonprofit institution for the City of Milton reportedly will confer with State Institutions Commissioner Harold E. Neely next week.

The rambling one-story native stone structure, in the form roughtly, of a giant square question mark equipped with the latest facilities needed for the rehabilitation of polio victims, has 85 beds.

Before the salk vaccine discovery, the hospital frequently cared for more than 125 patients at a time.

There is no accurate estimate of the value of the building, grounds, housing for personnel and equipment but a conservative estimate is three million dollars.

The trustees are said to favor conversion of the hospital into a state children's health center.

4-H Conference Is Outlined For Lions Club

Tannery May Expand Business

MOOREFIELD — John Miller of Baker, a student at Shepherd College, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club at Hotel McNeill on his activities at the National 4-H Conference in Washington last month. Miller was one of West Virginia's four delegates to the 28th Annual 4-H session. He said the 200 delegates representing 47 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, held conferences with members of the House of Representatives, with U. S. Senators, with representatives of the Defense Department, with U. S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Benson, and with clerks of the U. S. Supreme Court.

The conference members met President Eisenhower in the week's round of visits and heard the President praise the work of 4-H. Miller said one unusual visit conference members made was to Washington Monument at night, not usually permitted to tourists. The conference delegates laid a wreath at the tomb of the unkown servicemen and visited Washington's tomb. Miller said the theme of the busy conference was "Focus On The Future."

The Moorefield Lions Club authorized the industrial committee to negotiate with Loewengart & Company on the expansion of the tannery plant and recommended the expansion.

Del Hester, president of the civic group, named John McNeill, C. B. Hiett, Frank Dodson, Jim Ansel and W. C. Harper as the float committee to prepare a float for the Poultry Festival parade July 31.

The Moorefield Club will sell peanut brittle for the club charities with Richard Troughton, Guy Lang and J. M. Harrison as the committee in charge.

FROSTBURG—Engineers from the United States Postal Service are presently at the local post office making test borings and other inspections preparatory to checking final plans for an addition and other alterations.

A 16 by 32-foot room is now scheduled to be constructed at the rear of the building. The present loading platform will be doubled in size and the maneuvering area surrounding the post office will be enlarged by taking in the lawn area.

The monument, located in the lawn commemorating soldiers who made the supreme sacrifice for their country in World War I, will be moved to the grassy area west of the present entrance. This move is being done with the cooperation of Farrady Post 24, American Legion. The flagpole atop the building will be moved beside the monument.

No date has been set for the beginning of the construction. According to a recent release from Washington, the work will cost approximately $45,000.

Senator J. Glenn Beall made the recommendations to the Postal Department for the proposed work.

Some Guard Units To Be Reduced

CHARLESTON (AP) — The assistant adjutant general said Wednesday that the 197th Tank Battalion of the West Virginia National Guard probably will receive a reduction in strength.

Maj. William Blake said the reduction might be called for under a compromise plan to cut down the number of component units in 16 of the National Guard's 27 divisions.

An announcement made yesterday said that the guard divisions, all infantry, to be reorganized would include the 29th of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The 197th battalion is a part of the 29th division. It has headquarters in Moundsville, along with a medical detachment. Companies of 197th are stationed in Morgantown, Buckhannon, Clarksburg and Elkins.

Just how the reorganization will affect the 197th lies with Maj. Gen. William C. Purnell of Baltimore, commander of the 29th.

Maj. Miller said a first examination of the Washington announcement of Tuesday indicated that non - divisional units, along with the Air National Guard, will not have their strength reduced.

MISS MOLLY ADAMS

ELKINS, W. Va.—Miss Molly Adams, a native of Cumberland, Md., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Batdorf, is one of the sponsors of the Elkins High School Band which is appearing today in Chicago at the convention of Lions International.

Elkins Band Visits Chicago For International Session

The band, which won first prize for high school bands in national competition in 1953, is still rated as one of the foremost high school units of the country. It is visiting Chicago by special invitation.

Molly Adams is one of six lovely girls known as band sponsors. Each of these girls wears one of the letters of the word ELKINS on her sweater, and marches in front of the band, directly behind the majorettes. They are trained to do special drills as a unit as well as with the band.

Miss Adams is 17 and graduated from Elkins High School this year. All graduates in the band were invited to make the Chicago trip. Molly plans to enroll this fall at Marion College, Marion, Va. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Wasley, 701 Lincoln Street, Cumberland. Her father was employed by the C&A Gas Company in Cumberland for a number of years, but several years ago was promoted and transferred by the company to Elkins. The family resides at 1649 Taylor Avenue.

Centerville Bible School Is Concluded

CENTERVILLE, Pa. — Vacation Bible School for the Centerville Methodist Church ended Sunday with a closing program after Sunday School. Ninety pupils received certificates for good work and satisfactory attendance. The total enrollment of the school this year was 100 with 15 teachers making up the staff.

With the theme of the school being "Jesus" many and various projects were made dealing with Jesus and the life of his times. One interesting project by the intermediates in particular was the publishing of a newspaper as it would appear in Jesus' day dealing with his life. This paper which had five editions was named the Jerusalem Journal.

The entire offering of the school which amounted to $76.25 will be sent to a Methodist Missionary, Rev. Keneth Jones, in the Belgian Congo. Along with the offering is to be sent a tape on which the students recorded one of their opening exercises as well as their comments and greetings to the children of Africa. In return this tape will be sent back with appropriate greetings from Rev. Jones and those in the Belgian Congo, thus bringing about a closer Christian relationship between the children of these two areas.

The 40-hour week is standard in only two countries—the United States and New Zealand.

Midland Council Airs Problem Of Old Buildings

MIDLAND — A plan is being considered by town officials to launch a program of condemnation or otherwise removing from the community, several old, dilapidated and unsightly buildings.

At the regular meeting of Mayor Lionel D. Baker and the city council this week, Fire Marshall Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg reported that there are some unoccupied buildings, especially in the business area which may be dangerous. He told council how to proceed to have these properties removed. He declared, "they are definitely a fire hazard and endanger all other properties in the town.

Dr. Ton Van Strien, county health officer from Cumberland quoted state and local laws on contamination. He offered the council several suggestions which he said the council should put into operation to help make the town safer and healthier."

J. B. Dowling, county health inspector, spoke on garbage disposal and outlined locations of two dump sites which might be utilized.

Harry Devlin, fire chief for Midland suggested that the fire marshall make a thorough inspection of all old buildings in the community, checking them as to health and fire hazards. The report, he said should be made clear to everyone and, working with the health department and fire company, the Mayor and Council should take positive action to remedy the unsightly conditions."

Ervin Lewis, representing the Potomac Edison Company, showed the mayor and council blue prints on changes to be made on the relocation of light poles.

Cleveland Gathers 19 Hits, Clobbers Yankees, 12-2

Indians Score Seven Tallies In 8th Frame

Ford Is Victim Of Blasting; Cal McLish Winner

NEW YORK (AP)—After leaving nine runners stranded in the first seven innings, the Cleveland Indians opened the floodgates in the eighth and scored seven runs—their biggest single inning of the season—to crush the New York Yankees 12-2 Wednesday night. The rampaging Indians collected 19 hits, the highest total an opponent has collected against the Yanks this year.

Whitey Ford was the victim of most of the Tribe's blasting. He was charged with the loss, his fourth against 10 victories.

Until the fateful eighth, Ford and Cal McLish engaged in a dandy little pitching duel, with the big Indian far the steadier.

McLish, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the big inning gave up only five hits in his tenure on the mound. The Yanks scored their only earned run in the second on a booming triple to right center by Bill Skowron, and a fly by Tony Kubek. Don Mossi gave up an unearned tally in the eighth.

Old Exports Pad County Loop Lead, Trim Old G's, 6-2

Corriganville's Old Exports extended their winning streak to five games and increased their lead in the County Softball League to two games by downing the Maple Inn Old Germans yesterday at Wellersburg by the score of 6-2.

Art Raygor, the league's leading hurler, fashioned a two-hitter and struck out eight to run his season's total to 132 in 17 games. It was his 14th win against three losses.

A triple by Jack Brant and Ralph Baker's singles were the only safeties credited to the losers.

Manager "Boots" Raygor, Joe Raygor, "Bunk" Warnick and "Fats" Fetters obtained two hits each while Don Rose blasted a triple and Lennie Campbell rapped a two-bagger.

Jaycees Snap Kiwanis Win Streak, 4-3

Win In 9th Frame; Elks Triumph, 7-5

The Jaycees cracked the four-game winning streak of the Kiwanis Club in a nine-inning thriller last night at Penn Avenue field by the score of 4-3, thus enabling the Lions to tie the Kiwanians for first place in the Hot Stove Baseball League race.

In the ninth Gary Morgan and Roger Nesbit singled and when Catcher Hanekamp threw wildly in an attempt to pick Morgan off third base the latter scored the winning run.

The Jaycees came near sewing up the decision in the 8th when Davis walked and Wilson doubled but a perfect throw by centerfielder Powelson cut down Davis at the plate.

Kiwanis took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Powelson and Brehm followed by Price's circuit belt but the Jaycees came back with two tallies in their half and tied the score in the fourth.

Charley Boone, who relieved Price in the first inning, was charged with the loss, while Larry McKay, who supplanted Phil Barbe in the 8th was the winning hurler. Barbe fanned 14, McKay three, Price one and Boone eight.

McKay and Pat Wilson shared six of the Jaycees' 11 hits. Two of Wilson's blows were doubles. The losers had only three hits.

The Lions and Kiwanis now lead the race with 6-3 records. Last night's win was the fifth against three losses for the Jaycees.

Bill Humbertson's three-run homer in the sixth inning enabled the Elks to come from behind and defeat B'nai B'rith in an afternoon game at Fort Hill Field by the score of 7-5.

On the short end of a 5-4 score, the Elks pulled the game out of the fire when John Rice drew a pass, Glen Shipway singled and Humbertson teed off for his round-tripper.

Ray Redinger went the distance for the Elks, struck out eleven and issued four bases on balls. Deatelhauser was the loser.

Barry Beats Sowell, Bowden In Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Thomas Barry of Spain, defeated some of the world's best half-milers Wednesday, turning in a time of 1 minute, 49.6 seconds that Arnie Sowell of Pittsburgh and Don Bowden of the University of California could not equal. Sowell was timed in 1:49.9 and Bowden in 1:50.3.

The two Americans alternated in the lead and as late as 100 yards from the tape it appeared that they might finish in a dead heat. However, Barry sped around them and won comfortably.

Glenn Davis of Ohio State won the 400-meter hurdles in 50.4 seconds.

Senate Group Hears Stengel, Major Players

Musial, Mantle, Williams Testify

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casey Stengel took an hour off for discourse with U.S. senators Wednesday and told them baseball's conduct is impeccable.

Stengel, the noted banker, oilman, conversationalist and manager of the New York Yankees, didn't say exactly that.

In testimony that never trapped him between bases, the gravel-voiced winner of American League pennants declared baseball is run better than ever.

"Every man who goes out has a better home than when he went in," Stengel said in one of his more direct statements.

The 70-year-old Yankee pilot appeared before the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee which is considering a House-passed bill to give pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey sweeping exemptions from antitrust laws.

Stengel was only one of an illustrious lineup of witnesses. Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, Mickey Mantle of the Yanks and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards came over from Tuesday's All-Star Game in Baltimore to put in a plug for baseball's reserve clause, its draft and other practices that some lawmakers have termed monopolistic.

Robin Roberts of the Phillies and Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators, chief spokesmen for major league players in their dealings with club owners, also testified.

Ted And Stan Testify

Both Williams and Musial testified that if they were starting their baseball careers all over, they would do exactly as they have done.

"The men are happy and satisfied with the way baseball is run," Williams said.

The baseballers drew the largest audience within memory to the subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn).

Stengel talked at length, hitting into all fields at once.

Why, Kefauver wanted to know, did baseball magnates want this bill passed if the Supreme Court already has held the sport immune from antitrust laws?

"I wouldn't know," Stengel said, "but I imagine to keep baseball going as high as baseball is as a sport, they have gone into baseball and from the baseball angle."

Kefauver turned the questioning over to another senator.

Stengel also made it partly clear that:

Have Spirit Of '76

The Yankees win games "because we have 'it'—the spirit of '76—to put into the ball field."

Baseball is the most honest profession there is.

He has been fired 15 different times by one club or another. He once discharged himself.

In Japan "they are trying to play baseball over there with small fingers."

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said many fans are coming to believe organized baseball, rather than being wholesome entertainment, "is a gigantic commercial enterprise that doesn't want to be regulated by the laws of Congress." But as to manager Stengel, O'Mahoney commented:

"This is the best entertainment we have had here for a long time."

Smog And Heat Blister Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sweltering heat teamed with eye-blearing smog to make Wednesday the most miserable of the year in Los Angeles.

As temperatures headed into the 90s, choking billows of yellow smog materialized over the downtown area.

Visibility was cut drastically.

Millions in the Los Angeles basin found their eyes, throat and lungs irritated by the nauseous stuff.

It was the worst smog attack of the year and also the first heat wave of summer.

Meanwhile, a group of youngsters ignores Casey's words to collect autographs from ballplayers. Mickey Mantle, left, of the Yankees and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox are behind Stengel. Valdes Stops Carter In 9th

Scores Technical K.O. At Spokane

SPOKANE (AP)—Cuba's heavy hitting Nino Valdes off to a plodding start, suddenly caught Harold Carter with a wicked right hand and then scored a technical knockout Wednesday night in 1:40 of the ninth round.

Valdes, a slight underdog, dropped Carter with a right-left combination early in the round for an eight-count and then sent him sprawling flat on his face seconds later.

Referee Joe August didn't bother to count. Carter was clearly out for almost a minute.

Valdes, the veteran from Havana, Cuba, scaled 216. Carter, making his second start after a year in the Army, came in at 192.

Until the explosive finish, the action was mediocre, not calculated to provide much stature for either fighter.

Manager Bobby Gleason swatted Valdes on the pants as he came out for the ninth round and ordered him in Spanish to "go to work."

Valdes wasted no time in following instructions. He caught Carter near the Valdes corner and sent him down quickly. Carter struggled to his feet while Valdes, anxious for the kill, hesitated to go to a neutral corner as directed. As August took his eyes from Carter to send Valdes back, Carter may have gotten brief extra respite, but it was clear he would need much more than he got.

Cards Send Muffett To Omaha Club

Recall Bob Mabe; Stobbs Posted 2-6 Mark For Senators

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Billy Muffett, last year's relief hero for the St. Louis Cardinals, is headed for the minor leagues.

Muffett was optioned Wednesday to Omaha of the American Association on a 24-hour recall basis.

At the same time the Cards recalled Bob Mabe from Omaha and bought Chuck Stobbs from the Washington Senators.

Muffett dropped far from the hero role this year as a reliever. Last year he had a 2.25 earned run average which leaped to 6.08 in 21 games and 34 innings this year.

At Omaha, Mabe started eight games, finished five. He won six and lost one and has an ERA of 2.09.

A Washington spokesman said Stobbs' sale was made on waivers —in which event the sales price normally is $20,000. The specific sale price, however, was not disclosed. There were no trades involved.

Stobbs has appeared in 19 games. His record shows 2 wins and 6 losses for an earned run average of 5.89.

Don Essig Cops Pair Of Publinx Golf Contests

16 Survivors Move Into Third Round

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Essig Wednesday shoved the hex of being defending champion and medalist into the background to win a pair of matches with comparative ease and lead 16 survivors into the third round of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The 19-year-old former Indianapolis caddy, who can become the first defending titlist and medalist to win the meet since 1929, was three under the Silver Lake course's stubborn par of 38-35—73 in advancing through the first two rounds.

He eliminated Walt Durdle, Peoria, Ill., greenskeeper, 4 and 3, in the morning and trimmed Bill Krause, a Palo Alto, Calif., salesman, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

Essig, who played for the LSU golf team this spring, will meet Dan Sikes Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., in Thursday's third round.

Sikes, a 27-year-old law student in the University of Florida, advanced with a 4 and 3 victory over Leon Radde of Minneapolis and a 2 and 1 decision over Jerry Gallardo of Los Angeles.

Another double round Thursday will set up the 36-hole semifinals Friday. The 36-hole wind-up is Saturday.

Remaining in the field were such threats as Ron Luceti, 21, San Francisco dental student; Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind., 34, an experimental engineer with jet engines; Junie Buxbaum of Memphis, 40, an auto salesman who won the title in 1956; Harry Mussatto of Macomb, Ill., 36, golf coach of Western Illinois University, and Bob Patterson of Portland, Ore., 37, a stevedore.

However, it was Essig who is considered the man to beat. He and Strout were proving the best par breakers on the course.

Australian Sets Three-Mile Mark

DUBLIN (AP)—Albert Thomas of Australia broke the world three-mile record with a time of 13 minutes, 10.8 seconds Tuesday night.

The accepted record for the distance is 13:14.2 held by Sandor Iharos of Hungary and set in Budapest in 1955.

Thomas was spurred on by his hard challenging and more famous fellow Australian, Merv Lincoln, a subfour-minute miler.

Backbone Cops $36,987 Purse

Victory Morn 2nd At Narragansett

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — Backbone posted his fifth victory in his last six starts by fighting off stretch challenges to win the $57,750 Providence Stakes Tuesday at Narragansett Park.

Carrying the colors of Boncrist Farm owned by New York broker Charles Devine, Backbone moved to the front at the far turn and then refused to yield in the race to the wire in the 13th running of the mile and an eighth test for 3-year-olds.

A tremendous closing bid by Cain Hoy Stable's Victory Morn fell a half-length short, while A. J. Ostriker's Nisht Amool and Winfields Farm's Grey Monarch finished in a dead heat for third, a length and a quarter back.

Backbone boosted his 1957 earnings to $122,402.50 in picking up first money of $36,987.50. He was clocked in 1:50 3-5 over a fast track.

Backbone paid $4.40, $3.20 and $2.40 for his seventh triumph in 14 starts this year. Victory Morn, a 12½-1 outsider, paid $9.60 and $3.60, Nisht Amool returned $2.80 to show, while Grey Monarch paid $2.40.

Waterford Betting Is Up 19.5 Per Cent

CHESTER, W. Va. (AP) — Both wagering and attendance continued to run ahead of last year at Waterford Park as the current horse race meeting went into its final three weeks.

At the close of the 28th day of racing, the attendance count stood at 123,300 persons, the track management reported Wednesday. This was 9.2 per cent ahead of the 112,856 customers reported as of the same time in last year's summer meeting.

The pari-mutuel handle this season totaled $7,369,226, up $1,202,921, or 19.5 per cent, over the 1957 figure.

Arcaro Pilots Restless Wind To Jamaica Win

Cops Tremont 'Cap By Seven Lengths

JAMAICA, N. Y., July 9 —(AP)— Llangollen Farm's Restless Wind had an easy time winning the $23,200 Tremont Handicap at Jamaica Race Track today.

The fleet 2-year-old son of Windy City 2nd-Lump Sugar, handled by Eddie Arcaro, won by seven lengths eased up in the five and a half furlong dash clocked in the swift time of 1:04 2/5. It was the fastest time for the distance at Jamaica this year and fastest running of the stake since 1940.

Maine Chance Farm's Dark Prince was second a head in front of Reginald N. Webster's Royal Anthem. The others in the field of five were never in contention.

The only real racing was for second place with Dark Prince holding off Royal Anthem.

Restless Wind earned $14,830 net for Mrs. Elizabeth N. Lunn of Upperville, Va., mistress of Llangollen Farm. It was the fourth straight victory for the colt and the second stakes, having previously won the colt division of the National Stallion.

Prohibitive favorite with the crowd of 21,824, Restless Wind paid $2.40, $2.20 and $2.10. Dark Prince was $3.20 and $2.10 and Royal Anthem $2.10 to show. The win price was the shortest mutuel of the year in New York.

Silky Has Fever, May Miss Big Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Silky Sullivan cropped up with a fever Wednesday and probably will not run in the $100,000 Westerner for 3-year-olds at Hollywood Park July 19.

Trainer Reggie Cornell disclosed that the handsome California chestnut colt developed a cough two days ago.

Cornell said that if all goes well, Silky will go to Chicago later in the summer for stakes races against 3-year-olds.

Silky won his last race, a 7-furlong affair over mediocre opposition and did it in surpising style. He stayed right on the pace instead of dropping back 30 or more lengths, as was his custom.

Senator Directors Vote Against Shifting Team

Decide To Keep Club At Capital

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board of directors of the Washington Baseball club voted Wednesday against shifting the team to Minneapolis or anywhere else.

Only two days ago Senators' President Calvin Griffith had talked with his fellow American League club owners about making a move.

Wednesday, he himself announced that the board has now adopted a resolution saying none of its officers or directors "shall hereafter engage in any negotiations or discuss any offers, either oral or written, regarding a transfer."

Griffith's fellow club owners had already made it plain they were against any move out of Washington at this time. Some considered the timing was bad, with Congress now considering legislation affecting baseball. They also pointed to the prestige angles of having a club in the nation's capital. The Senators have been here 58 years.

Griffith recalled that last October the ball club's directors voted against transferring the franchise to another city which "was very anxious to obtain it and had made an attractive offer from a business standpoint."

Griffith did not identify the city, but presumably it was Minneapolis, which during that perio had guaranteed the Senators a modern stadium and a million paid admissions for three straight years.

Phils Recall Don Cardwell

Posted 11-5 Record For Miami Marlins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Don Cardwell, 22, fastballing righthander, is returning to the Philadelphia Phillies after overpowering batters in the International League for two months.

Cardwell, who won his first three games last season as a rookie for the Phillies, was optioned to Miami last May.

He won 11 games and lost five for the Marlins, starting 18 games completing 11 and striking out 126 batters in 141 innings. Cardwell compiled a 2.49 earned run average.

Cardwell is slated to start against the Chicago Cubs next Monday.

The Phillies, whose strong point has been pitching, have won six of their last seven games, moving from seventh place in the National League to fourth place, three games behind league-leading Milwaukee.

The earth is traveling in the direction of the star Vega.

Little Hermit, 13-1 Shot, Cops Monmouth Race

Karl Korte Aboard, Victor Returns $29

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 9 (AP)—Little Hermit, 13-1 outsider in the field of six, today won the 12th running of the $16,800 Long Branch Handicap at Monmouth Park before 22,383 fans.

The 4-year-old colt by Ambiorix staved off the stretch bid of Hellanicus to prevail by a head in the mile and one sixteenth event. In winning his first stakes of his career and third race in 17 starts this year, Little Hermit, owned by John S. Kroese of Teaneck, N. J., paid $29.00, $9.20 and $4.60 across-the-board. Hellanicus returned $8.40 and $4.80 and Beam Rider was $4.00 to show.

Little Hermit was ridden by Karl Korte and completed the journey over a "slow" track in 1.44 4/5 under lightweight of 111 pounds.

Beam Rider was third, a length back of Hellanicus and two and a half lengths in advance of Ambergris. True Verdict, in front for three-quarters of a mile, was fifth. Go lightly, the 19-10 favorite, was second for a half mile and finished last.

Kroese, a director of Monmouth Park, received $10,745 for his colt's triumph.

Boy, 8, Drowns Visiting Camp

PATUXENT, Md. (AP)—About 125 youngsters from a camp in Southern Maryland were visiting Patuxent Naval Air Station on an outing when one of them drowned in the Patuxent River.

The base identified the victim as 8-year-old Dennis Pincus of (5345 Chillum Place, N.E.) Washington, D. C.

While the children were swimming at the enlisted men's beach, six of them swam out to a yellow bouy marking the outer limit of the swimming area. They were carried beyond the bouy by wind and tide, the base said, but Navy lifeguards rescued five of them.

A Navy helicopter on a routine flight saw the body of the Pincus boy about 10 feet from the shore, landed on the beach and waded in to recover it.

Three of the five children rescued were hospitalized here at the base.

The public information officer identified them as Michael Berg, Roger Sutton and Joel Matuskey, all of Washington. Camp officials, who did not have ages or street addresses immediately, said they understood the boys were not in serious condition.

The 125 youngsters, along with 25 counselors, were from Camp Kaufmann at Huntingtown, Calvert County.

Inspection Of Guard Postponed By Weather

Inclement flying weather forced postponement of an inspection of the local National Guard unit Monday evening, according to spokesmen of the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment.

Scheduled to make the inspection was Brig. Gen. William J. Witte, of the 29th Infantry Division headquarters in Baltimore. The inspection is not expected to be made until after the field training next month, spokesmen said.

on movie stars and comic strips, the educational system needs to be revised from head to toe.

One of the other four quiz shows which was unfurled before a breathlessly waiting world last week is known as "For Love Or Money" and the wrinkle that marks this one off from all other quiz shows is the galloping decimal mark. (Yes, junior, all quiz shows are a little different from all other quiz shows just as no two snowflakes have ever been discovered to be exactly alike. Of course, you have to look at a snowflake a long time before you discover why it's different from all other snowflakes but then that is a test of your ingenuity).

Anyhow, this galloping decimal point jumps around a figure like 639 so that it becomes either $639 or $6.39 or $63.90 or .06. (Six cents to you, Buster.) On the opening show, by George, two people walked off with fortunes totalling exactly two cents. Any week where four contestants don't recognize Fred MacMurray and two contestants can't do better than two cents, hell, that's no recession. That's a full scale depression.

Get ready to dive into a summer of fine style

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Get In The Swim

With summer well on its way, everyone wants to spend lazy days at the beach. But before you can get too involved in such a pleasant state of affairs, you have to plan not only your time but your summer swim. Since most young gatherings center around swimming, your bathing costume practically becomes your summer wardrobe.

You'll want to make it your whole wardrobe when you see what the designers have dreamed up for summer. What an array of suits! Knits, cottons, stripes, plaids, prints and lastex. The same variety goes for silhouettes—there are so many from which to choose to give you figure flattery.

The wise thing to do is select at least two suits, let's say a knit suit and a fit suit — a bright suit and a tight suit, or a cotton suit and a strictly swimsuit.

Very newsy is the knit suit in a rose pattern that could be called back talk. It's knitted with lastex for the best-in-fit. Its sleek sheath shape is cut to a daringly low back. For the sweatered look and to stripe your fancy is a button-down-front knit of textured boucle stripe to emphasize the slender princess line.

For perfect stroll - down - the - beach cover up, many of the suits are coordinated with Jamaica shorts or an airy voile shirt or plaid cotton skirt to wear in any number of combinations.

Quiz For Columnists

There's a delightful new quiz game which can be played exclusively by TV columnists. In five paragraphs or less describe "Lucky Partners," the delightful new quiz game on NBC. Go ahead—I dare you to try. If you can do it in four paragraphs, you get the home bonus jackpot extra.

There's a special hell reserved for TV columnists and that is describing parlor games either with or without a straight face. No greater test has ever confronted a writer. In fact, I keep wondering how Martin and Allan Stone sold "Lucky Partners" to NBC in the first place. They sure as hell didn't explain it in a letter. They couldn't. The reader would go mad.

As I reconstruct the crime, these guys were in somebody's office waving their arms like windmills and saying: "Now, right here is the board which is a column of figures under the letters which spell out LUCKY. Whaddaya mean you don't understand already? It gets much harder.

"Now pay attention. The emcee asks the first lucky partner who invented X-rays and if knows the answer the number eight lights up under the letter K. Why the eight? Why under the K? Well, because that's an invention-type question. If it was animals, the 3 would have lit up under C. You understand?"

Of course you do. And you can play "Lucky Parners," you lucky housewives, five days a week, on NBC at 2 p. m. Or at least you can watch somebody else play it. You can see the TV sets, the ranges, the air conditioners, and all the other prizes. If you have a dollar bill, you can mark out the last five digits of the serial number under the word "LUCKY." Just what good will that do you, I haven't yet figured out. It makes you a Lucky partner to somebody or other and entitles you to try out for the grand prize. Or some such thing.

Speaking as a guy who after ten years has just begun to figure out what they're doing on "What's My Line?", "Lucky Partners" is way over my head. In case it's over yours, you might try "Haggis Baggis," which follows it on NBC every afternoon and has the added distinction of being seen Monday nights, too. Besides that delightfully inscrutable name, "Haggis Baggis" is chiefly distinguished by . . . now, let's see, there must be something distinctive about it. Well, it differs from "Dotto" in that "Dotto" gradually makes a picture of somebody by connecting dots whereas "Haggis Baggis" gradually fills out a picture square by square—if that's clear, and I doubt it.

In both games, as the picture gradually fills, the contestants are given an opportunity to guess who the picture is of. Well, sir, the other day the picture filled all the way. Four contestants stared at it utterly baffled.

"You should know who that is!" shouted Fred Robbins, the emcee. "It's Fred MacMurray. You know—from the George Gobel show."

But they didn't know. It's enough to make a quizmaster turn in his bridgework. We're all aware that no one goes to the movies any more so you can't use movie stars as the answers on quiz shows. But, heavens to Betsy, if they don't recognize a movie star who has appeared on the Gobel show, whom would they recognize? If people aren't going to the movies or looking at the Gobel show, what on earth are they doing these days—reading books?

There are some surprising areas of ignorance being uncovered. The other day on "Lucky Partners" a girl who had easily identified the inventor of the M-1 rifle, failed lamentably to identify the creator of Dick Tracy, Terry and the Pirates or Tarzan. Her partner thought Pogo was a mole when any damned fool knows it's a possum. I tell you, Mabel, if quiz contestants are falling down

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (AP)—Traders said they could see little or no reason to do more than the minimum business in futures contracts Wednesday and prices of the major grains were mostly lower.

Rye was the exception with gains running well over a cent a bushel in all contracts which more than recovered the setbacks of Tuesday when dealers took their cue from the Winnipeg market and dumped liberal offerings into the pit.

A good deal of Wednesday's demand was to reinstate those positions since overnight reports served to confirm earlier advices that the outlook for the crop in Western Canada still is poor.

Activity in wheat continued limited in the absence of hedging and substantial commercial demand.

Wheat closed ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, July $1.82; corn ⅜-1⅜ lower, July $1.29⅞-30; oats ¼ higher to ¼ lower, July 64; rye 1⅛-1⅞ higher, July $1.26; soybeans ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, July $2.24¼-⅛; lard 2 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $12.52.

Pressure has been on corn almost steadily for the past several days, since the pickup in producer selling and the increase in commercial supplies at some major terminals.

Some of the scattered soybean demand was related to higher prices of soybean meal.

Ford Motor Slash Shocks Stock Market Into Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—A dividend slash by Ford Motor Co. shocked Wall Street Wednesday and a previously higher stock market tumbled to a loss.

The decline was moderate and irregular on average although Ford and some other issues were clipped for sharp losses. Trading was moderately active.

News that Ford had cut its dividend to 40 cents from 60 cents came in mid-afternoon. Almost simultaneously with news of the dividend cut, Ford stock sold at 42¾, a new peak for this year, and up ⅜ from the previous close.

Ford was immediately barraged with selling which drove it down to 39½, a loss of 2⅞ on the day.

Other prices deteriorated along with Ford but there was no tremendous rush to unload. Tobaccos were nicely ahead early in the day and remained on the plus side by narrower margins. Some building materials, motion picture and selected issues kept gains. But motors, steels, oils, rubbers, aircrafts, electronics and most chemicals were generally lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 70 cents to $174.60 with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,175 issues traded, 579 declined and 349 rose. New highs for the year totaled 53 and there were 4 new lows.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose and 7 fell.

Volume was 2,630,000 shares compared with 2,430,000 Tuesday.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly lower on volume of 780,000 shares compared with 840,000 Tuesday.

Refugee Shot To Death On Hunting Trip

Imre Kiss Served In Hungary Army

A 23-year-old Hungarian refugee was accidentally shot to death yesterday afternoon on a farm near Manns Choice, Pa.

Imre Kiss was pronounced dead on arrival at Bedford County Hospital where he was taken after the shooting on the farm of C. T. Bockhouse.

Ralph Mickle, deputy coroner of Bedford County, said the victim died of a chest wound as a result of the accidental shooting.

Mr. Mickle said Mr. Kiss and two friends, Robert Jones Jr. and Charles Bockhouse, had just returned from hunting groundhogs and were sitting in a parked car.

Rifle Discharges

Jones and Bockhouse were sitting in the front seat and Mr. Kiss was alone in the rear seat. Mr. Mickle said the Bockhouse youth was taking the bolt off the .218 Bee rifle when it discharged.

Mr. Mickle said the bullet passed through the back of the front seat and struck the victim in the chest. He was taken to the hospital but was pronounced dead.

The accident also was investigated by Trooper Harry Rook of Bedford detachment of the Pennsylvania State Police.

The Hungarian refugee came to this country after the revolution and was sponsored by C. T. Bockhouse, on whose farm the accident occurred.

Fled Revolution

Mr. Kiss left Manns Choice in November 1957 for New York City, where he had been employed in a furniture factory. He returned Tuesday to his home in Manns Choice to spend his summer vacation.

Mr. Kiss had been a member of the Hungarian Army, but fled from Hungary during the revolution there in the fall of 1956. He was a member of Lybarger Lutheran Church near Manns Choice.

He is survived by his father, Albert Kiss, who still resides in Hungary, and two sisters who also are living there.

The body is at the Zeigler Funeral Home, Hyndman.

High, Wide And Handsome

Cumberland Contracting Company workers are blacktopping the new Polish Mountain section of U. S. Route 40 which is being completed for the State Roads Commission by the Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping and Construction Company, of Hazelton. The view, looking toward Gilpintown, shows that visitors to this area will not only ride over a modern mountain highway but will be able to enjoy Western Maryland's beautiful scenery. Paving on the $1,594,280 project which runs from the top of Polish Mountain nearly two miles, will be completed within a few weeks.

General Purnell Protests Slash In 29th Division

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Commander of the National Guard 29th Division Wednesday described as a "great disappointment" the Army's decision to reduce the combat strength of the division.

"It appears to be part of a continuing effort by the Department of the Army to relegate the National Guard to a subordinate status in the defense establishment of the United States," Maj. Gen. William C. Purnell said.

The Army's plan, announced Tuesday, calls for building up five National Guard divisions in other states to five battle groups, each under the new pentomic concept.

The 29th and 15 other infantry divisions would be reorganized with three, instead of five, battle groups considerably under their present strength.

City Officials Talk On Budget

Four city officials spent a good deal of time yesterday discussing an unpleasant subject at City Hall—the budget for the new fiscal year.

Participants in the conference in the mayor's office were Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, the new finance commissioner; William R. Carscaden, the new city attorney, and Arthur B. Gibson, the veteran city auditor.

Mr. Gibson devoted a good deal of time to reviewing past budgets and enlightening the newcomers on the problems they face in adoption of the budget on or about August 25.

Tuesday, Mr. Gibson reported that the tax levy of the City of Cumberland is expected to go about $40,000 over the top. This additional revenue is the result of increases in assessments used when the tax levy was set last August.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

Psychiatrist Visits County Institutions

Dr. David Edwards, part-time director of mental health for the Allegany County Health Department, was afforded the opportunity Tuesday of visiting the three institutions maintained by the county for the ill, the old and the infirm.

Under the new arrangements which became effective July 1, Dr. Edwards will devote three days of each week to Allegany County. For the past three or four years, Dr. Edwards has been spending one day each week in this county as clinical psychiatrist. The rest of his week he worked as psychologist at Spring Grove State Hospital at Catonsville.

Now that he is working three days a week in this county, Dr. Edwards has resigned from the Spring Grove Hospital staff. He plans to devote two days each week to some other county in Maryland or West Virginia.

Dr. Ton van Strien, director of the County Health Department, said Dr. Edwards will work full time in this county during July. During August and September he will be away on vacation.

Tuesday, Dr. Edwards was guided on a tour of Sylvan Retreat, the County Home and County Infirmary by Dr. J. E. McLean, who is the physician at all three institutions. They were accompanied on the tour by Dr. van Strien and Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Home and County Infirmary, and Clinton Rogers of Keyser and Robert J. Dawson of Lonaconing, both students at the University of Maryland Medical School.

Dr. Edwards expressed an interest in visiting the county institutions so that he will be more familiar with the facilities available for treatment of county residents. Dr. van Strien said the psychiatrist showed special interest in the two detention rooms for juvenile offenders at the County Infirmary.

The psychiatrist hopes to be able to advise the county on ways to get maximum use of the institutions. In prior years most of his work in this county was of a clinical nature.

The overall increase in the county mental health budget for the current fiscal year is about $5,000.

Arrangements have been made with Memorial Hospital for the two medical students to get special training this summer at the hospital under the direction of Dr. Benedict Skitarelic. Mr. Rogers will be there for two weeks starting July 14, and Mr. Dawson for one week beginning July 28.

Men Of LaSalle Outing Sunday

A corn and wiener roast and dance will be held Sunday evening by Men of LaSalle at Mt. Calvary recreation area along Mason Road.

Postage Hike Means Batch Of New Stamps

Stamp collecting enthusiasts will have a field day when August 1 rolls around, bringing with it an increase in postal rates, including air mail.

Thomas F. Conlon Sr., local postmaster, has received data from the Post Office Department concerning the new issues which will go on sale at stamp windows throughout the nation.

The new seven-cent airmail stamp will be first placed on sale at Philadelphia on the occasion of the annual convention of the American Airmail Society.

The central design of the blue stamp features a silhoutte view of the wingspread and fuselage of a composite jet airliner of the most advanced type which will soon be in commercial use on the nation's major airlines.

The seven-cent embossed airmail stamped envelope will be first placed on sale at Dayton, Ohio. The seven-cent airmail stamp booklet will be first released through the San Antonio, Tex., post office. The booklet is composed of two panes of six stamps and the design is identical to the new seven-cent airmail stamp.

The five-cent airmail stamp, being issued primarily for the convenience of patrons desiring to send souvenir post cards by airmail, will be first placed on sale at the post office in Colorado Spring, Colo.

Wichita, Kans. will be the place where the new five-cent airmail postal card goes on sale for the first time. The four-cent Lincoln stamp (lavender) in coils will be first placed on sale at Mandan, North Dakota. The design is similar to the four-cent issue of the regular series currently in use.

The department will issue a new three-cent postal card through the Philadelphia post office on August 1 during the exhibition and convention of the American First Day Cover Society.

Truck Snaps Utility Pole

When a truck driver backed into a utility pole on Oldtown Road yesterday morning it snapped about half way up and the upper section fell across the truck.

Authorities, who identified the driver as Billy B. Files, 28, of Pinto Road, said service of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in that area was not disrupted.

However the driver had to remain at the scene until maintenance men of the company arrived to remove the broken section of the pole.

Trooper Charles Snow said the accident occurred at 9:45 a.m. about two and a half miles from the city limits of Cumberland. The right rear of the truck hit the pole, the trooper said.

Pa. Boy, 6, Struck By Automobile

A six-year-old boy who lives in Defiance, Pa., about 18 miles from Bedford, was hospitalized yesterday after being struck by an auto.

Allen Baker was admitted to a Huntingdon hospital where his condition last night was reported as "fair." He sustained a laceration of his right ankle and contusions and lacerations of his head.

Driver of the automobile was Riley Donahue, 64, of Robertsdale, Pa., who was traveling east on Pennsylvania State Route 529 in Defiance.

Police said the lad darted into the path of the sedan about 11:40 a. m. He was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Meanwhile a Grand Rapids, Mich. man, Kenneth L. Smith, is reported in "good" condition at Bedford County Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted yesterday with injuries sustained in a two-car crash at the Breezewood Interchange.

Authorities said the driver of the other car was Robert Ponicall of Pittsburgh, who apparently was unhurt. Both vehicles were traveling west on the turnpike.

Construction At State Parks Being Pushed

A number of construction projects in state parks and recreation areas of Garrett and Allegany counties already are under way and more will commence next week.

William A. Parr, superintendent of state parks, was here yesterday to discuss the improvements with District Forester William H. Johnson.

At the new Deep Creek Park in Garrett County, plans for the bath house are nearly complete and construction will be started by department workers next week.

The 24 by 89 foot bath house will be of the self-service type and will include toilet facilities, shower and dressing booths. There will be separate sections for men and women and the central portion with the toilet facilities will be equipped with a translucent plastic roof.

Construction of the concrete block building is expected to be finished by fall.

Also to be constructed at Deep Creek Park is a wash house with laundry facilities, toilets and showers near the camping area. One camping area already has been completed. A water main from a deep well also is being installed but completion of this project is being delayed, awaiting shipment of the pump.

Bids will be received by the end of July for construction of a 12,000-gallon reservoir at Deep Creek Park. Construction also will start next week on an access road leading to parking areas at the Deep Creek Park. One completed area can handle 150 cars and a second lot will be able to take care of 200 more cars.

The district forester also reported that the fish pond at the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area near Lonaconing in Allegany County is almost finished. A ball diamond there also has been diagrammed roughly. Construction will start soon on an access road to a new picnic area.

At the New Germany Recreation Area in Garrett County, a wash house is nearing completion. A camping area has been laid out and the Garrett County Roads Department has contracted to build an access road to the camping area and hopes to have it opened within two weeks. County road workers also are building a parking area there.

County School Enrollment Exceeds 16,000

Higgins Discusses Attendance Trends

Enrollment in the Allegany County public schools went over the 16,000 mark for the first time during the 1957-58 school year, according to figures explained yesterday by Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county schools.

Actual enrollment at the end of the first month of the school year was 15,930. During the school year, some 409 other pupils came into the county from elsewhere in Maryland and from out of state.

Offsetting that 409 increase was a loss of 310 students who moved out of the county into other parts of the state and into other states. That meant a net gain of 99 through the transfer of pupils during the school year, and made the net total enrollment 16,029.

Mr. Higgins also disclosed that 35 pupils had to withdraw from school because of their physical condition in the past school year. Some of them were able to take advantage of home teaching arrangements and the majority are expected to be able to return to school ultimately.

56 Girls Get Married

During the 1957-58 school year, 56 high school girls were married. Of that number, 37 dropped out of school, leaving 19 in class until the end of the school year.

The supervisor of pupil personnel also reported on school attendance in the school year, which fell below the level of the past five years. Mr. Higgins attributed this to the unusually severe winter and the increase in viruses, especially Asian flu last fall.

Elementary school attendance averaged 93.2 per cent in 1957-58, compared with a range between 94.6 per cent and 95.6 per cent in the past five years. Junior high school students averaged 94.4 per cent, down more than one per cent below the range between 96.1 per cent and 96.4 per cent of the last five years. Senior high school attendance averaged 93.7 per cent, much below the 95.1 to 95.5 per cent average of the last five years.

Mr. Higgins said Allegany County generally leads the state in school attendance and he expects the same to be true despite the lower averages this year. School officials emphasize that Allegany County school children like to go to school, and they attribute this primarily to parent interest in good education and good schools.

Attendance Leaders

Among the smaller elementary schools, Carver had the highest average attendance of 96.3 per cent. Among the larger elementary schools, Hill Street of Frostburg was the leader with 94.5 per cent. Aside from Carver, Luke was the only elementary school to average better than 95 per cent, reaching 95.1 per cent.

Carver Junior High School was the junior high school leader at 95.1 per cent. The senior high leader was Beall High School of Frostburg with 95.8 per cent. The two large Cumberland schools were both above 93 per cent. Allegany averaged 93.8 per cent and Fort Hill 93.3 per cent.

The supervisor also reported yesterday that 7,549 pupils were transported to school at public expense in the 1957-58 school year.

Mr. Higgins also reported on a six-year survey of withdrawals from school among the children who reach 16 and are no longer compelled by law to go to school. In that six-year span the withdrawals ranged from a low of 157 in 1954-55 to a high of 205 in 1956-57. Other totals were 181, 1952-53; 169, 1953-54; 168, 1955-56; 192, 1957-58.

These dropouts are much lower than during the 1930s, when they ranged between 500 and 600 pupils per year.

The withdrawals represent 2.4 per cent of the total enrollment between the seventh and 12th grades. It was 5.6 per cent of the children who have reached the age of 16.

Mayor Crowns His First Queen

Mayor J. Edwin Keech, fulfilling one of the special duties of the mayor's office for the first time, crowns Patricia Rhodes queen of Lamont Street Playground last night. Attendants are (from left) Sandra Twigg, Robert Bates, and Lily Ann Brown. The event was probably the last such coronation on the playground, which must be moved to another site after this season because it is in the way of the Industrial Boulevard. East Side playground will suffer a similar fate because of the Thruway.

Today's Weather
Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer with chance of some evening showers. High in the 80's.

Ike Addresses Parliament

Goldfine Unable To Clear Checks

Tycoon, Secretary Refuse Details At Probe; Blackmail Is Charged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bernard Goldfine and his financial secretary told House investigators Wednesday they have no idea what happened to $89,035 in guaranteed bank checks bought by Goldfine companies in the early 1940s but never cashed.

They refused to answer detailed questions about another $232,000 worth of checks bought over the last few years but all redeposited at one time last June 25, after the special House subcommittee's investigation had turned to Goldfine.

Subcommittee members called all this "mysterious . . . beyond belief."

The millionaire Boston industrialist, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams, flushed with fury and cried "blackmail" to questions about an indictment—dropped without prosecution—49 years ago.

Charge Abandoned

Rep. Peter F. Mack Jr. (D-Ill) said papers in the committee files show that such an indictment, on a charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case, was brought against Goldfine in 1909 and abandoned the following year, presumably for lack of evidence. Goldfine was 18 at the time.

But Mack withdrew the whole matter when some members joined Goldfine and his lawyers in protesting.

In this third day as a subcommittee witness, Goldfine also denied anew that his favors for Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, led to a soft settlement of a mislabeling case against a Goldfine textile mill.

When it was suggested that "your company was emboldened by Mr. Adams' successful intervention in your behalf to commit even more flagrant violations," Goldfine snapped: "It is not true."

The Goldfine firms' acknowledged habit of converting cash into certified or bank treasurer's checks which sometimes went uncashed for years inspired some committee members to propose a look at income tax returns for the years in question.

Doesn't Have Authority

The subcommittee said the total of the checks bought over the years and listed as uncashed at the start of its inquiry was about $777,000.

The group does not now have authority to examine federal income tax returns, but it could seek permission from Eisenhower to do so.

Goldfine and his tart-tongued blonde secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman, both swore that none of the checks was used in any way to avoid tax liabilities—nor for payments to public officials.

Goldfine referred questions about the $89,035 worth of checks purchased in 1941-43 to Miss Paperman. She testified she had no recollection and no records going that far back.

Share Witness Stand

U.S., Canada Agree On China Trade Harmony

OTTAWA (AP) — The United States and Canada agreed Wednesday, in top-level conversations, on greater cooperation in the fields of trade with Communist China and safeguards against surprise attack.

This twofold development grew out of a series of conversations between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker and conferences among Cabinet subordinates.

A U.S. embargo on trade with Red China has been a sore point in U.S.-Canadian relations and the two governments now have agreed to consult one another on all cases in which their laws on such trade are out of harmony.

While spokesmen for the two countries left details fuzzy, it appeared the agreement will move in the direction of perhaps permitting Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms to sell nonstrategic items to the Chinese Communists.

A case in point is a bid from the Chinese Reds to purchase 1,000 cars from the Ford Motor Co. of Canada.

On disarmament and particularly on safeguards against surprise attack, the President and the Prime Minister agreed to put experts of both the nations to work together, in cooperation with those of other free world countries concerned, to study the problem.

Primarily, the aim is to lay the groundwork for a conference with the Russians on the subject, along lines proposed in correspondence between Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev has accepted the idea of examination by experts of possible systems of supervision and control to prevent surprise attacks. His views were similar to those Eisenhower had expressed earlier.

The effect of Wednesday's agreement will be that Canada and the United States will team up more closely on preparatory work and are publicly announcing their desire to go ahead with negotiations on prevention of surprise aggression.

Cuban Rebels Release Pair

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban rebels released two more kidnaped Americans Wednesday. The U.S. Embassy identified them as Albert M. Ross of Houston, Tex., and James D. Best of New Orleans, both officials of the American-owned Moa Bay Mining Co.

They were landed by a U.S. Navy helicopter at the Guantanamo Naval Base from an undisclosed rebel mountain hideout.

The rebels still hold 30 U.S. sailors and Marines from the Guantanamo base and one Canadian, Richard Sargent of Toronto, a sugar mill manager.

High level U.S. Navy efforts were being made to free the sailors and marines.

There had been hopes at Guantanamo that some of the American servicemen would be freed during the day but none showed up at the naval base.

It was disclosed in Norfolk, Va., that Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the Atlantic fleet and the U.S. Atlantic Command, will fly to Guantanamo Thursday to confer on further negotiations with the rebel command.

New Judgeships Measure Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Wednesday urged Congress to quickly approve legislation creating 45 additional judgeships over the country.

Rogers told a House Judiciary subcommittee that the backlog of cases in federal courts is continuing to mount each year.

Under consideration is a bill to create 45 additional judgeships, including three circuit court judges, and to make permanent one temporary judgeship each in New Mexico, the western district of Pennsylvania, the middle district of Tennessee and the district of Utah.

16th Air Force In Madrid Goes Into Full Operation

MADRID (AP) — The 16th Air Force of the U.S. Strategic Air Command has gone into full operation, a spokesman said Wednesday.

This spokesman declined to state whether the B47 bombers now at Torrejon and Valenzuela air bases are armed with atomic bombs.

"Draw your own conclusions," he said. "They are capable of carrying atomic weapons."

The start of full operations in Spain meant the start of Operation Reflex already under way at other SAC bases throughout the world.

An Air Force spokesman explained present SAC strategy this way:

"The ideal would be for us to have our planes at all times hovering over the target waiting for the word go. This, of course, is impossible. The next best for us is to always have planes in the air on their way to the target. They reach advance bases we have and call down by radio, 'Do I go to work or not.' If yes, they go on to their target; If not, they come down; spend a few days at the advance base and then go home. Meanwhile, another group is on the way from home base, and so on indefinitely."

The announcement said that under Operation Reflex B47 jet bombers are poised on 24 - hour alert at Torrejon ready to take off on 15 minutes notice.

A spokesman said most flights coming to the Spanish base will come from SAC bases in Florida, but that they could come from any base inside the United States.

The 16th Air Force is commanded by Maj. Gen. Henry K. Mooney.

Inhumane Attacks

U. S. To Protest Transport Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States said Wednesday that inhumane attacks by Soviet jet fighters forced down an unarmed U.S. Air Force Transport plane in the Soviet Union 12 days ago.

The State Department, describing itself as shocked by the incident, strongly hinted it would fire a formal protest to Moscow.

The department also renewed its demand that the Soviet Union intervene immediately to arrange release of nine U.S. soldiers held by East German Communist authorities for the past 32 days.

The captives were aboard a helicopter which strayed across the East German frontier in a thunderstorm June 7.

Moscow has maintained it has no control over what East Germany does.

Held As Hostages

In a formal note just made public, the department accused the East German Reds of holding the men as hostages in an effort to win U.S. diplomatic recognition of their Moscow-backed regime.

The department said this is an effort to "extort some form of advantage"—a move which it said "cannot be reconciled with the practices of civilized communities."

The State Department's denunciation of the Soviet Union's conduct in the case of the transport plane followed release of the nine-man crew Tuesday. The men were flown to Wiesbaden, an American air base in West Germany. They reported that five of their number parachuted to safety after two jets fired on their transport when it wandered across the Soviet frontier. Four others rode the plane to an emergency landing, escaping seconds before the craft exploded.

The Air Force Tuesday gave this account of what happened:

Two Soviet MIG jet fighters set the unarmed C118 transport afire with their first shots at 15,000 feet. Five crew members took to their parachutes but the other four remained aboard. With the aircraft in flames and headed for a landing with its wheels down, the MIGs made another firing pass on the crippled plane. The burning plane exploded on the ground shortly after the crew members were able to reach safety.

The State Department press officer, Lincoln White, told newsmen the department is collecting pertinent facts, including testimony from the men, before deciding what next step to take.

Plane Shot Down

White said in response to questions that the department learned only Tuesday that the plane, a four-engine type, had been shot down. The Soviet Union had said it had been forced to land.

In demanding release of the nine U.S. airmen in East Germany, the State Department cited comments men made at a news conference arranged by East German authorities in Dresden last Wednesday.

Plot Against Government Found

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—police said Wednesday they have uncovered a plot to assassinate government ministers and top officials and overthrow the government.

They reported they have arrested 12 persons described as educated young men of society. The names of the ministers and officials marked for assassination were not disclosed.

Senate Group Favors 3 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee lined up 10-5 Wednesday in favor of a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Law. President Eisenhower has asked for five years, and the House has so voted.

There was a 7-5 vote in the committee for three years, and three absentees said later they would vote for three years. The committee has 15 members.

The reciprocal trade program, which was begun 24 years ago, has never been extended for more than three years at a time. Eisenhower asked for five years on the grounds that this much time would be needed to conduct trade negotiations with the European Common Market now being formed.

Under the program, the President is authorized to negotiate tariff cuts, on a tit for tat basis, with other nations.

Dangerous Convict Surrenders Meekly

HARTLEY WINTENEY, England (AP)—An escaped convict, so dangerous that troops were called out to track him down, was caught on a bus Wednesday. He surrendered meekly.

Frank Samuel Mitchell, 31, jailed as criminally insane, broke out of Broadmoor Prison Tuesday. He held an elderly couple in their home with an ax until they agreed to help him escape.

Ike's Brother Is Accused Of 'Mooching'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, was accused in the Senate Wednesday of "mooching on the government for his personal vacation pleasure." The White House denied it.

At issue was the use of three military aircraft to return Dr. Eisenhower and his 19 - year - old daughter Ruth Tuesday from a Wisconsin fishing trip. The Pentagon estimated the cost at about $1,400.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, said the planes were placed at Eisenhower's disposal for the convenience of the government and in order to bring the President's brother back to Washington in time for consultations before he sets out Saturday on a good-will tour of Central America.

The tour had been scheduled to start about July 15 but was advanced in date last Monday, at a time when Dr. Eisenhower was fishing in Wisconsin's Land o'Lakes region.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) told the Senate the planes were not made available for any government purpose.

"The example of the President's brother mooching on the government for his personal vacation pleasure is not a good one," Proxmire said. He called it "a cavalier misuse of the taxpayers' funds."

Dr. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, has been assigned to visit Nicaragua, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador and Panama as head of a U.S. study group. He will confer with Central American officials about economic development and other problems.

Two small planes were dispatched from Ft. Sheridan, Ill., Tuesday to fly the Eisenhower party, their fish and gear, to Wausau, Wis. From there, Eisenhower and his daughter were flown to Washington in a Convair 440 of the Military Air Transport Service.

Toy Gun Didn't Fool Proprietor

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Harry Kaplowitz is an expert when it comes to toy guns.

Kaplowitz is owner of a 5 and 10 cent store. He was standing at his cash register Tuesday night when he heard a voice: "This is a holdup. Hand over your money."

Glancing over his shoulder, he saw two men, one holding a gun. Kaplowitz drew a .38-caliber revolver from the cash register and turned to face the pair.

"I'll give you a bullet," he said. The men fled.

Later, Kaplowitz told police he wasn't afraid of the gun the men held on him.

"It was one of those plastic guns, just like I sell," he said.

Thor-Able ICBM Fired At Canaveral

Nose Cone Contains Live Mouse; To Hit 6,000 Miles Away

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) A mighty Thor-Able rocket with a live mouse in its nose cone blasted off Wednesday night on what could be the first intercontinental flight of a U.S. ballistic weapon.

The two-stage vehicle—a standard Thor missile topped by a radically modified second stage of the Vanguard satellite rocket—was aimed at an impact area 6,000 miles down the South Atlantic test range.

The Air Force hoped that a secret, highly advanced nose cone atop the rocket would shoot through space at intercontinental range and velocity, then survive the red-hot plunge back into the earth's atmosphere.

May Recover Mouse

An attempt will be made to recover the cone and its tiny rider —alive.

So far, U.S. rocket experts have been unable to break through the intercontinental barrier with a ballistic weapon.

The Snark, a jet-propelled craft, has traveled 6,000 miles but not through space. It moves only 600 miles an hour—a snail's pace in comparison with the speed of the ballistic missiles.

A nose cone launched into space last May 18 by the Army's Jupiter rocket survived a 9,000-mile-an-hour plunge back to earth and was recovered intact from the ocean. The flight, however, was over an intermediate range of only about 1,600 miles.

So accurate was the Jupiter shot that ships near the predetermined target area saw the nose cone hit the sea.

The Thor-Able jumped out of a spectacular pool of fire at 9:49 p.m. and was visible about three minutes as it raced across a starry Florida sky.

The first stage appeared to burn out about 2 minutes and 40 seconds after the blastoff and the second stage seemed to ignite as planned.

A team of aero-medical specialists was standing by awaiting news of how the mouse — nicknamed "Mia II" (for "Mouse in Able")—fared during the 30-minute spin through space.

Abandoned Search

A mouse also was placed in the first Thor-Able, but died when the rocket fizzled April 23. The Air Force abandoned its search for the nose cone after telemetric contact was lost.

Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Force ballistic missile division, has announced that mice and later monkeys will be included in each Thor-Able test.

The fate of the animals will shed more light on the problems that face man before he rockets into space himself.

Little official information was released on Wednesday night's firing because the project is bound by tight security measures.

If Thor-Able behaved as expected, the two stages fell away as their fuel burned out, while the nose cone continued toward target.

Court Acts For Swift Ark. Ruling

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, July 9 (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals acted Wednesday to assure an early ruling on whether the Little Rock, Ark., school board must proceed in September with racial integration at Central High School.

Three judges were named by Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner, 90, to hear an appeal from an order by Dist. Judge Harry J. Lemley at Little Rock blocking integration there for 30 months.

The judges, without committing themselves to a date, indicated they expect to rule on the case before the fall school term begins.

They are Judges John B. Sanborn, 74, of St. Paul, Minn., and Martin D. Van Oosterhaut, 58, of Orange City, Iowa, Republicans and Harvey M. Johnsen, 63, of Omaha, Neb., a Democrat.

They invited both sides—the Little Rock School Board and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People—to petition for an early hearing and to suggest a convenient date.

Wiley Brandon of Pine Bluff, Ark., an attorney for the NAACP, was in St. Louis for just that purpose. "I take it to mean they will grant an early hearing this summer and they will rule on the . . . before September," Brandon said.

Brandon, in his petition, does not suggest a specific date for hearing, asking merely that it be held at the earliest date practicable.

At Little Rock, Wayne Upton, president of the school board which had asked for suspension of integration, indicated the board would not seek to speed up the appeal. "After all, it's their appeal, not ours," a school board attorney said.

The appeals court deferred action on the NAACP request for a stay on Judge Lemley's order, saying such a ruling "will not terminate this controversy."

Greek Cypriot Is Shot Dead

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A Greek Cypriot was shot dead and three others wounded in a gangland-style shooting in the Nicosia suburb of Kaimakli Wednesday.

Several Cypriots were sipping coffee in front of a coffee shop. A car screeched to a stop. A gunman sprayed them with machine gun fire and drove off. It was all over in seconds.

Oral Drug Has Promise Of Preventing Cancer

LONDON (AP)—A drug taken by mouth shows promise of preventing painful cancer of the bladder.

It is being taken by persons who have been treated successfully for a first attack of bladder cancer but who face the danger of recurrences.

The drug, nicknamed Lactone, is aimed at blocking a chemical reaction which produces a cancer-causing chemical in the urine.

It was developed by Dr. E. Boyland of the Chester Beatty Research Institute here. The treatment is described in an exhibit at the seventh International Cancer Congress and in formal reports.

Lactone seems to be preventing recurrences of bladder cancer and "is to my mind one of the most significant steps reported here," Dr. Milton Friedman of New York City said Wednesday at a news conference.

The drug has not been in use long enough yet, however, to be sure it is effectively preventing new cancer.

Boyland hit upon it in tracing the chemical steps by which bladder cancer can develop in persons exposed to aniline dyes.

By-products from the dyes could react with normal chemicals in the urine to produce potent cancer-causing chemicals, he found.

The same kind of reaction apparently can occur sometimes as a by-product of normal body chemistry. Lactone breaks up this reaction.

Friedman, professor of radiology at New York University College of Medicine, also reported that a balloon treatment for bladder cancer is producing cures in about half of selected cases. By cure is meant freedom of the disease for at least five years.

Asks U.S., Canada To Be Together

Solve Differences President Says To Hearty Reception

OTTAWA (AP) — President Eisenhower summoned Canada and the United States Wednesday to solve their differences and "stand together at a pivotal point in history" against the global threat of Communist imperialism.

Hearty, desk-pounding applause greeted him in the Canadian Parliament — often the forum for speeches critical of U.S. policies.

Eisenhower spoke in the vaulted limestone and oak chamber of the House of Commons, as a highlight of his visit to Canada

He recognized that frictions and disagreements have marred relations. But he said that through understanding, common sense and give and take "we can find acceptable solutions to any problems which exist or may arise between us."

No Specific Solutions

He offered no specific solutions.

At one point, the President took what his listeners considered an unmistakeable dig at one idea of Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker—that it could be beneficial if Canada diverted 15 per cent of its trade from the United States to the British Commonwealth.

"I assume that Canada is as interested as we are in the expansion of world trade rather than in its artificial redirection," the President said.

That drew heavy applause from Diefenbaker's opposition, led by Lester B. Pearson.

To reporters who sought his reaction, Diefenbaker remarked: "I never abstract one line out of a speech. I was pleased with the purport of the speech."

In contrast with a small, decidedly unenthusiastic turnout which witnessed the President's arrival from Washington Tuesday, some 10,000 persons showed up when he laid a wreath at the War Memorial at the foot of Parliament Hill Wednesday. They cheered and applauded him.

Eisenhower Beams

So did another thousand or so at the Parliament building.

A warm sun beamed down, and Eisenhower beamed too.

Some of the people were government workers who were given time off. Some were tourists, many from the United States.

Diefenbaker presented the President to Parliament as "a good neighbor and friend." He said problems and differences will be discussed in the days ahead with "the candor of free men, with friendship, understanding, and manly frankness."

The Prime Minister urged a free world economic offensive to extend prosperity everywhere as a challenge to the forces of communism. The United States and Canada, he said, must be as united in economic objectives as in defense.

Eisenhower sounded an old warning in declaring that competition in the economic arena could be the "most bitter and decisive between the free world and Communist imperialism." Canada and the United States, he said, face not only a military threat but also political attacks, and the challenge of a state-controlled economy to the free enterprise system.

Poet Pound Reaches Italy

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Poet Ezra Pound returned to Italy Wednesday, declaring he can't see how anyone can live in America outside a madhouse.

The 72-year-old American made clear he has not changed the views he voiced before and during World War II that the mass of his countrymen are dolts.

Pound was released from a hospital for the insane three months ago after the federal government had dropped treason charges against him for broadcasts he had made on behalf of the Axis during the war. Doctors testified he was unfit ever to stand trial.

Pound, who arrived on the liner Cristoforo Colombo, will live with a married daughter.

Queen Taken Ill

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II was sent to bed with sinus trouble and a heavy cold Tuesday, leading to speculation that she may be overworked and may be receiving too many bouquets.

The Queen became ill Monday night on a tour of Scotland with her husband, Prince Philip.

Mountain Climbers Save Trapped Man

By The Associated Press

ANTONITO, Colo. (AP) — A squad of Army mountain climbing experts Wednesday afternoon rescued an Albuquerque, N.M., businessman from a canyon ledge where he had been trapped for five days.

A companion died before his body was found Tuesday.

John L. Sanders, 35, was lowered 600 feet in a litter to the floor of Conejos Canyon, 30 miles northwest of Antonito. He walked without aid to an ambulance waiting three miles away.

Don Bewley, 22, who was lowered to Sanders' lofty perch with food and water Tuesday, clambered up to the canyon rim on nylon ropes used by the soldiers to reach the shelf.

Sanders, manager of the Securities Acceptance Corp. at Albuquerque, and William E. Garver, 38, New Mexico University auditor, slipped from the rugged canyon lip last Friday night.

Garver was killed in an 800-foot plunge. His broken body was recovered late Tuesday by volunteers who picked their way up the canyon floor to where he had landed in a crevice.

They fell, Garver to the bottom of the canyon and Sanders part way down, while returning from a fishing expedition into the remote Cumbres Mountains on the Colorado-New Mexico border.

A four-man Army mountain climbing team from Fort Carson, Colo., began the perilous 500-foot descent of the canyon face to Sanders' 20-foot wide perch at dawn Wednesday. The soldiers toed in cautiously lest they start a rock slide on Sanders and Bewley.

Sanders was lowered to the canyon floor and walked away with volunteer rescuers in the early afternoon.

Although marooned for five nights in below-freezing temperatures, he appeared to be in good condition. He was suffering from shock and was weak from hunger when Bewley dropped into the lofty perch.

The Fort Carson team, led by Lt. Karl Holzl, 25, of Skokie, Ill., was made up of three specially trained climbers. They are Specialist 3.C. Bruce Hunter, 22, of Seattle, Wash.; Specialist 3.C. Peter Soby, 24, of Canaan, Conn.; and Pfc. Al Lane, 22, of Littleton, N.H.

They carried hundreds of feet of rope and a block and tackle as they edged down the canyon face to Sanders.

Sanders and Garver were returning with two companions, Robert Shafer, 28, and Fred Bowker, 33, both also of Albuquerque, when they became lost Friday night.

Shafer and Bowker searched for the missing pair until Saturday night, then notified authorities.

Passport Ban Is Ruled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — A State Department official testified Wednesday that a recent Supreme Court decision wiped out authority to deny passports even to persons known to be spies.

Robert D. Johnson, chief of the passport office's legal division, also said that since the court's ruling on June 16 passports have been issued to approximately 65 applicants who would have been investigated thoroughly under its Communist regulations.

He told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee that the court's ruling offered the department no alternative to issuing passports to these applicants.

In its June 16 decision, involving three passport cases, the Supreme Court ruled that passport applications could not be denied to Communists or others because of their beliefs or associations.

President Eisenhower sent legislation to Congress Tuesday asking for authority to deny passports to any Americans whose activities aided communism during the 10 years prior to the filing of the passport application.

Prince Philip To Play Polo On Television

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip will show his skill as a polo player before a television audience.

The British Broadcasting Corporation said Wednesday a match in which the prince is playing will be televised July 23.

Queen Elizabeth's husband regularly plays polo before a select audience in Windsor Park.

CANYON FALL VICTIM—The body of William E. Garver, 38, New Mexico University auditor, is draped over the lead horse of a pack train returning to Antonito, Colo., from a rugged canyon where Garver died in a fall. Child, Run Over By Car, Unhurt

LA PUENTE, Calif. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies say that when a car rolled over 2-year-old Ronna Faith Casteel's head the only result was a dirty face.

Ronna was playing in her driveway when the brakes on the family car slipped and it ran over her. The tot's father, Ernest, took her to a hospital. She was pronounced unharmed.

Women Picket Line Crossers Get Roses

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Design and development engineers on the picket lines at two nearby plants of the Radio Corp. of America distributed roses Wednesday to women employes who crossed their lines.

A union spokesman said they had stocked up with about 4,000 buds and would pass them out at the Camden plant as well as at Moorestown and Cherry Hill.

The spokesman said the purpose was to show that the engineers were not critical of other employes still on the job.

Cutback In Railroad Services Is Becoming Serious Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — A one-day halt in rail service for 10,000 Boston commuters Wednesday emphasized a growing problem in transportation: The steady cutting back of rail passenger service.

The New Haven Railroad's Old Colony line, 113 years old and showing every bit of it financially, failed to run a single train into Boston's South Station. But the line will start up again Thursday. Rail officials at a meeting here were assured a $900,000 subsidy for the New Haven would pass both houses of the Massachusetts Legislature.

Competition from airplanes and private autos, plus a recession which has cut freight traffic and magnified passenger losses, is causing railroads to get out of the business of hauling people. They'd rather haul freight.

Wednesday, Boston's South Station was, in the words of one railroad official, "as quiet as a Sunday morning down on the farm." Only a few weeks ago the Boston & Albany abandoned its Highland branch, which carried 1,300 commuters into the station.

The fate of South Station, while only temporary, could presage that of other railroad centers, including the greatest of all—New York's Grand Central Station.

Last week, Alfred Perlman, president of the New York Central, told Mayor Wagner of New York City that the Central might turn the huge terminal into a shell by halting all trains 30 miles north of the city line.

Elsewhere throughout the country, passenger trains are being eliminated so rapidly that in Chicago's top rail circles there's the saying, "You can measure the ability of a railroad president by the number of passenger trains he's cut."

Strange things are happening:

You can no longer get from Madison, the capital of Wisconsin, to Milwaukee, the largest city, by train.

You can't get a train in or out of Paducah, Ky., a city of 65,000 people.

Soviet Embassy Gets Two More "Fake" Letters

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Embassy said Wednesday night it has received two more letters from mystery writers claiming to be U.S. airmen.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman quickly branded the new letters fakes in the same category as the first one a week ago carrying a threat to drop an A-bomb in the North Sea off the British coast.

The Soviet Embassy said one new letter came from the writer of the first, who signed himself "W" and said he was a pilot. The other signed "A" identified the writer as a member of the crew.

The new letters attacked U.S. nuclear policy.

All were addressed to Soviet Ambassador Jacob A. Malik.

Although the Russians concede the letters are probably a hoax, the embassy had the Soviet news agency Tass spread word about the letters to British newspapers. Then the Soviet press attache had reporters in to talk about the letters.

The embassy gave photo copies of the letters to Scotland Yard but refused to let reporters or the Yard's experts look at the originals and test the paper and ink in an attempt to trace the writers.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the writers attempted to insert phrases such as "our guys" and other so-called Americanisms but gave themselves away by using them in awkward un-American phrases.

An ex-RAF bandsman last Friday said he had written the first letter containing the bombing threat to draw attention to personal grievances. Later the man recanted his statement.

Bumper Beet Crop Raises Problems

MOSCOW (AP) — A bumper sugar beet crop in the Soviet Union is raising problems.

A decree from the Communist party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers notes an expected beet increase of five to six million tons over last year and a processing plant capacity increase of only one million tons. Farmers are advised to harvest slowly and provide for field storage until processing can catch up.

Charlottesville Planning To Keep Its Schools Open

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Charlottesville, caught between a Federal Court order to desegretate its schools and a State law requiring the closure of any integrated school, has devised a plan it hopes will keep the schools open.

"This program is the best solution we can devise," said City Atty. John S. Battle Jr., when disclosing the plan after a meeting of the school board last night.

In general, the plan calls for keeping Negroes out of white schools on grounds other than race. Battle and the school board hopes the plan will stand up if challenged in court.

As the first step, the school board rezoned Charlottesville for school attendance areas, giving a district to the city's lone Negro elementary school. This district generally covers the Negro residential area around the school, located near the center of the city.

An administrative procedure set up by Battle provides that any child in an elementary grade who lives in a district "served only by a school occupied predominantly by pupils of another race or color shall be enrolled in a school of a neighboring district occupied predominantly by pupils of his own race."

Battle said a three-point plan will apply to a child entering school for the first time, transferring to Charlottesville schools from another district or trying to transfer from one Charlottesville school to another.

Bruce Expenses Exceed Contributions By $18,957

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Campaign expenses totaling $71,967.58 have been reported for James Bruce's unsuccessful bid for Democratic nomination to the U. S. Senate in Maryland's May 20 primary.

The amount exceeded contributions by $18,957.58 and was the largest expenditure reported individually for any of the candidates for the office.

George P. Mahoney, who ran second to Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro in the six-man field, reported $23,797.89 and Dr. Clarence D. Long, who trailed the third-place Bruce, reported $11,080.57.

D'Alesandro expenditures were lumped with those of the four-man "Harmony Ticket," which reported a total of $149,946.37 for candidates for governor, senator, attorney general and comptroller.

Bruce listed a total of $53,010 in contributions to his campaign, including a personal contribution of $10,000. He reported all but $133.74 was spent in general campaign expenses. In addition, he filed with Carroll County Circuit Court a separate report of personal expenses totaling $19,091.32.

Records show four persons contributed $2,500 each to the campaign of the former ambassador to Argentina — Frank Altschul, Howard Bruce, Clinton Davidson and R. G. White. Eight other contributors were listed for $1,000 each. They included W. Fenwick Keyser, Charles Gillet, Mrs. Albert D. Lasker, Robert Lehman, Harold F. Linder, George MacDonald, William D. Pawley, and Frederick W. Richmond.

Other contributions included: Gene Tunney $500, John Roosevelt $100, Bernard F. Gimbel $250, Mrs. Lucius D. Clay $100,, August A. Busch $500, Samuel I. Rosenman $250, George L. Radcliffe $200, and Leslie L. Biffle, two contributions of $250 each.

State Exceeded Authority In Banning Slots

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP) — Two circuit judges ruled Wednesday that the Maryland Legislature overstepped its constitutional bounds in outlawing slot machines at Potomac River casinos last February.

The attorney general's office immediately announced it would appeal the ruling to the Maryland Court of Appeals. The appeal is expected to be taken as soon as the necessary paper work can be completed.

The State's high court recently completed hearing arguments at its regular 1957-58 term but plans to reconvene for the Potomac matter. Meanwhile, the gambling piers can continue their operations which the Legislature said would be illegal as of June 1, 1958.

Judges John B. Gray and Philip H. Dorsey held that the General Assembly "transcended its power" by enacting the anti-slot machine bill at a 30-day session limited by the constitution to consideration of statewide, budgetary and emergency matters.

They said that although the law was under the guise of statewide legislation its only effect was on a few counties and that it therefore fell into a classification of local legislation, which can only be taken up at the 90-day sessions held in odd-numbered years.

The law banned slot machines in any establishment on a navigable river of the State unless such a place could be entered by foot from the Maryland shore.

It hit directly at the waterborne casinos operating off the Virginia shore in the Maryland-owned Potomac opposite Charles and St. Marys counties. The establishments, licensed by Charles and St. Marys counties do a thriving business from Virginia, which outlaws slot machines and the sale of whisky-by-the-drink.

Maryland's Gov. McKeldin, acting on complaints from Virginia authorities, asked the 1958 Maryland Legislature to outlaw the slot machines, which are the main attraction of the casinos.

Said Judges Gray and Dorsey: "We conclude that the General Assembly at its 'short' session transcended its power in passing Chapter 18 and that the same is therefore unconstitutional and void. . ."

State's Income $1,800,000 More Than Anticipated

BALTIMORE (AP)— Marylanders paid $1,800,000 more in income taxes to the state than had been anticipated during the fiscal year which ended July 1, Comptroller J. Millard Tawes reported Wednesday.

A total of $71,856,022 was collected through taxes on income. Individuals paid $51,617,885 at the rate of 2 per cent on their net income.

The rate has gone up to 3 per cent this year and estimates are that the collection will go up $97,149,000.

The tax on corporations, at the rate of 5 per cent, yielded $29,238,138. This was slightly below estimates.

While income taxes went above estimates, those on sales fell below. The sales tax produced $44,347,000.

It also is scheduled to go up from 2 to 3 cents the first of next year.

County To Face Budget Deficit

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County officials face the spectre of deficit spending for the first time.

The unhappy situation for the county administration has come about through emergency expenses and unexpected cuts in revenue.

However, Michael J. Birmingham, county executive, said Wednesday he is opposed to red ink spending and would prefer to trim government services.

The State Income Tax Division has notified the county its share of revenue will be $500,000 less than was expected earlier. And the county figures to lose another half million dollars in revenue because it cut back two cents of its cigaret tax.

The surprise expenses resulted from two crippling snowstorms last winter when about $238,000 was spent for snow removal and other work. Another $30,000 is attributed to spring rainstorm damages.

The administration asked the county council for a contingency surplus of $405,311 in the 1958 budget, but that was trimmed to $242,845.

Accused Slayer Is Arraigned

FERNDALE, Md. (AP) — One of two defendants charged with murdering an Anne Arundel County man was arraigned Wednesday in Police Court here.

John L. Brady, 25, of Upper Marlboro, was ordered held without bail for a preliminary hearing next Wednesday.

Brady and Charles D. Boblit, 24, of Odenton, are accused of murdering William Brooks, 53-year-old plastics worker. Brooks' body was found more than a week ago off an isolated road near his Odenton home.

Brady accompanied officers Tuesday when they searched for the alleged weapon used to beat Brooks. The prisoner pointed out a .12 gauge shotgun near U.S.Route 60 north of Lynchburg, Va.

Brady gave himself up at the U. S. Embassy in Havana, Cuba, a few days after the June 27 slaying, and admitted to authorities in Miami that he had clubbed Brooks. He waived extradition to Maryland.

He told of having fled with Boblit after the beating and abandoning Brooks' car at Lynchburg. Brady reportedly went to Washington and caught a plane for the South.

Gov. Orders Execution Stays For Pair

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today ordered stays of execution for two men who were scheduled to die in the gas chamber during the last week of July.

The governor granted reprieves for murderer Carl Daniel Kier and rapist Gus Merchant. He took the action just before leaving on a month's vacation in Europe with his family.

McKeldin said attorneys for both men had asked him for executive clemency but there is "insufficient time to provide a hearing and to complete certain studies and investigations prior to the date set for execution."

The reprieves were granted until new warrants are issued by the courts setting new dates of execution. The stays were directed to Vernon L. Pepersack, warden of the Maryland Penitentiary where Kier and Merchant are confined in death row.

Since he took office in 1951, McKeldin has considered 18 other appeals for executive clemency. He has intervened 13 times to save the life of a condemned criminal and has permitted four to die. In the 18th case, he ordered an indefinite stay of execution for murderer John Wesley Elliott, pending the outcome of certain investigations and studies being conducted at his direction.

Kier was convicted twice of the brutal slaying of a Baltimore County matron. The Court of Appeals reversed his first conviction and ordered a new trial, but it upheld the second verdict.

The 22-year-old Baltimore handyman was sentenced to die for the first degree murder of Mrs. John H. Bopst Jr. who was beaten and stabbed to death June 12, 1956 at her home on Charles Street Avenue. She was assaulted, beaten on the head and face and stabbed twice.

Kier was first convicted in Baltimore County Circuit Court. His retrial was moved to Frederick County, and he was convicted there last Oct. 8.

Merchant, 22-year-old Glen Burnie laborer, was convicted last Oct. 9 of raping a Glen Burnie woman. He was convicted in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court after the 31-year-old woman identified him as the man who broke into her home last July, threatened her with a butcher knife and attacked her.

Shacklette Feels Relaxed Despite Losing His Post

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baron I. Shacklette didn't sound very much like a man just bounced from a $16,300-a-year job as a top congressional investigator.

"I feel very relaxed," he said by telephone Tuesday from his nearby Waldorf, Md., farm.

"I suppose I should feel very morose," Shacklette added. Then he went on to tell of plans for a vacation which he said would be the first in his 18 years as a federal investigator.

Shacklette's government career came to an abrupt halt Monday after he got caught with what he called "my hi-fi set," including eavesdropping microphone, in a Sheraton - Carlton Hotel room. Next door was a room occupied by the public relations staff of Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

The House Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, which has been inquiring into Goldfine's relations with federal agencies, promptly and unanimously accepted Shacklette's resignation. The subcommittee is headed by Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark).

It may be tough for Shacklette, now 48, to get another sleuthing job in the government. He asked a newsman to let him know if he hears of any openings.

Meanwhile, the short, barrel-chested investigator said, he's going to get better acquainted with the inhabitants of his 30-acre farm.

Among them are about 25 Doberman Pinschers and 7 or 8 Scotties, plus a pony and goats. Shacklette and his wife, Charlotte, raise the dogs for sale. They have no children.

Brown - haired and spectacled, Shacklette is a native of Oakland, Calif. He has spent most of his life in the East, however.

His family settled in New York City when he was a boy. He went to Clarkson College of Technology and was graduated from Harvard Law School in 1937. After that came the federal career.

Shacklette reported he was with the Farm Security Administration in the Agriculture Department from 1939 to 1942. Then he joined the Army's Counter - Intelligence Corps and served through 1944.

After his wartime service Shacklette returned to federal civilian jobs including a stint as top investigator for the General Services Administration. From there he went to Capitol Hill, to a House Legal and Monetary Affairs subcommittee headed by Rep. John Blatnik (D-Minn), in January, 1957. In June 1957, he said, Harris drafted him for the Oversight subcommittee. Harris did not then head the subcommittee but was chairman of its parent Commerce Committee.

Shacklette had won a reputation on the hill even before he went on committee payrolls.

Back in the days of 5 per center investigations during the Truman administration, Shacklette says, he helped the congressional inquiry with his work as a GSA man.

Shacklette also credits himself with an assist to Rep. Jack Brooks (D-Tex), chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee, in a 1956 probe in which it was alleged that Leonard Hall used a big federal nickel plant contract as a lever to bring in campaign funds while Hall headed the Republican National Committee. Hall denied it, but Shacklette says his Eisenhower administration superiors didn't want him around after that.

Seamen on British war vessels were once allowed to own pets, but the practice was banned when the Admirality learned that a particular battleship carried an assortment of 1,560 animals, including deer, apes and bears.

Special Crews Keep Bombing Fleet In Air

By BILL SANSING

TINKER AIR FORCE BASE, Okla. (AP)—At a remote air base, a vital bomber of the Strategic Air Command develops major mechanical trouble and can't get into the air. Immediately an order is issued: "Call Tinker."

Minutes later specialized crews here are alerted and soon will wing their way toward one of SAC's 70-odd bases around the world.

Keeping SAC's fleet of bombers and tankers flying requires skill—and a lot of housekeeping.

On the plains near Oklahoma City the Air Force's biggest housekeeper helps keep the big birds aloft by performing major maintenance and supplying parts by the ton.

Everything from windshield wipers to jet engines, averaging 20 million dollars in value on a normal day, are handled by the Oklahoma City Air Materiel Area (OCAMA).

Some 20,000 persons, most of them civilians, work for OCAMA.

Under jurisdiction of the Air Materiel Command, OCAMA overhauls planes and accessories, adminsters contracts and buys for the Air Force.

Last fiscal year its expenditures equaled a little more than 13½ per cent of the total national defense budget or 28 per cent of the entire Air Force allocation.

Because it has the responsibility for major overhaul and the supplying of parts for the B52, B47, KC97 and KC135, OCAMA is the backbone of SAC. Mobile maintenance teams are poised constantly to fly wherever they're needed.

"These men and their equipment can be airborne within 1½ to 2 hours," says Col. Charles E. Jung, deputy commander.

Jung is deputy to Maj. Gen. Thomas P. Gerrity.

Under Gerrity's command, besides the 20,000 persons here, are approximately 1,500 field workers. They include Air Force representatives at factories and in procurement districts at Chicago, St. Louis and Milwaukee.

Other OCAMA personnel are at the Air Force's worldwide communication center at Tulsa, Okla. The heart of the center there is on the transceiver control station which duplicates by electrical impulses punch card requisitions that flow in from all over the world.

In a few seconds the cards are rerouted by telephone wire to one of the eight areas for processing.

At OCAMA's communication center here, six transceivers work 24 hours a day churning out requisitions. Telephones and mail supplement the transceivers.

Within hours, even the most minor part is on its way.

OCAMA has contracts valued at nearly 13½ billion dollars, with an uninvoiced balance of about 3½ billion.

Thirty-three friendly nations are served by OCAMA under the mutual security program.

The center keeps tabs on the Air Force's 100,000 or so jet engines. Electronic data processing machines can pinpoint any engine in seconds.

Like other businesses, OCAMA faces increasing costs. In an effort to combat climbing expenditures, Gerrity reduced overhaul time and set a goal of 20 days for the KC97 tanker, a job that formerly took 60 days.

Haskell Martin, deputy of the supply section, says trucks used here are loaded and unloaded in less than a minute for each operation.

The palace of King Minos in ancient Crete was as large as Buckingham palace in London.

French Soldiers Try To Win Hearts Of Moslem People In Algeria

MAKOUDA, Algeria (AP) — About 100 miles east of Algiers, in the rugged Kabylie Mountains, 40,000 French soldiers are trying to win the hearts of the local population for France.

To a number of them, the task appears hopeless.

Daytime, they teach Moslem children French, treat the sick and distribute food.

At night, they set out on patrols to search for nationalist rebels who vow to create an independent Algeria.

Frequently, concentrated fire of French howitzers and mortars sweeps down on sleepy mountain villages where the rebels are reported hiding out. And the following day, special pacification officers again preach the cause of an Algeria that will be forever French.

Most French officers, whose units have been fighting this double battle in the area, agree that the rebellion could have been avoided if the same effort at improving the lot of the population had been made earlier.

"Some of these people never saw a Frenchman in thheir life until my troops moved in," said Gen. Jean Guerin, commander of the 27th Alpine Division.

"They were at the mercy of local village chiefs. To them, France meant paying taxes and getting little or nothing in return."

Guerin pointed with pride to a huge wall map of his area. Colored pins indicated villages where the French have set up schools, town halls, hospitals, administrative areas.

Yet there were many areas where Guerin's men have not managed to penetrate, although his division has been here for two years.

New Wing At Memorial Hospital Expected To Be In Use By November

Construction on the new two-story addition to the South Wing of Memorial Hospital currently under way will give the institution an "all modern" X-ray and laboratory department.

The project is being handled by the John I. Vandegrift Company at an estimated cost of $130,400. It is hoped the new addition will be in use by November, according to John A. Moberly, superintendent of the hospital.

The X-ray department is under the supervision of Dr. Frank T. Cawley and his associate Dr. Rhett R. Rathbone and will occupy the second floor of the new addition.

The general laboratories will be located on the third floor and will be under the direction of Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, the laboratory director and pathologist.

Provision is also being made in the new section for a radio-isotope laboratory as soon as conditions of the Atomic Energy Commission can be met.

The ground floor of the present south wing is a part of the hospital's dispensary and contains a large well-equipped room for the application of casts and other orthopedic procedures.

The first floor of the present south wing is used for patients and was constructed to take care of patients requiring isolation. When such patients need to be isolated they are kept in this department but due to the advent of modern anti-biotics, the need for isolation facilities has been greatly reduced. When these facilities are not used for isolation cases, they are used for any other general patients.

The need for the new addition and more working space for the X-ray and laboratory departments has been evident for several years. The present location of X-ray department on the main floor of the building is not only crowded, but inconvenient to patients requiring its use.

Back in the 1930s the hospital had a capacity of 130 adults beds, whereas today this figure is more than doubled but the laboratory and X-ray space has never been increased.

Although most of the X-ray equipment will be moved to the new department, the hospital is purchasing a new deep X-ray generator which is manufactured by the Picker X-Ray Corporation and will cost $16,000. This equipment will be serviced out of nearby Altoona, Pa.

Moberly pointed out that the versatility of this Vanguard deep therapy unit is so great that with this single machine the operator can deliver a broad range of radiation qualities and quantities spaning the spectrum from superficial to deep penetration and at the same time utilize the fullest range multi-portal techniques including full 360 degrees rotation without turning the patient.

The department will continue to operate with its present radiographic fluoroscopic tables and in addition the small movable X-ray unit which enables the technicians to take X-rays of persons physically unable to be moved to the department.

The department will include a new dark room for the developing of films, the units of which will be purchased by the hospital in addition to the deep therapy unit. The department will also feature a film viewing room, film file room, waiting rooms, dressing rooms and offices for the radiologist and secretarial work.

The new laboratory will have a large general area, a clean-up and sterilization room and a tissue laboratory.

Moberly said that since Dr. Skitarelic is the only pathologist in Western Maryland all other hospitals send their tissue specimens to Memorial for study.

The department will also have a secretarial office and an office for the pathologist.

The Electro-cardiographic department will be moved from its present location to the new laboratory area.

A new innovation heretofore not available to patients in the tri-state area will be the installation of a radio-isotope laboratory. New basic equipment not included in the construction costs will run $2,500 and will include the following:

A Scaler which records the amount of radioactive isotopes for diagnosis and treatment of patients and a geiger survey meter to follow the course of the isotopes.

Radioactive isotopes are already being used in a number of ways and the most familiar medical use is that of radioactive iodine in the diagnosis of thyroid function. This use, Moberly said will be the main one at the present time. However, at a later date other radioactive materials will be incorporated for use in the new department.

The addition of this new department will enhance the medical facilities to the people of Western Maryland who prior to this time, had to travel to Baltimore and other metropolitan areas for this service.

The new departments will be serviced by an elevator operating from the ground floor of the present hospital dispensary.

One of the main advantages of having the department on the second floor is that approximately 50 per cent of the hospital's patients are located on this level and their transportation to the new departments will not require the use of the already overworked elevators.

Moberly said the entire project is being financed by the $120,000 received from the Ford Foundation. The hospital is using money in reserve to make up the additional construction requirements and also to purchase the new deep therapy, dark room and radio isotope laboratory equipment.

New Council Must Decide Status Of Two Boards

The new Mayor and Council which took office Monday will have to decide whether it will have two important municipal boards returned to their full status.

For over a year the city has had no Recreation Board after its members resigned following disputes with Mayor Roy W. Eves and some councilmen.

With one exception, all of the members of the City Planning and Zoning Commission are serving on expired terms.

Under the city charter, these commissioners serve until successors are appointed, if that action is not taken when the terms expire.

James A. Avirett, local attorney, has been on the planning and zoning commission since 1947. His last appointment was in 1950 when he was named to a five-year term that was to expire on June 1, 1955.

Two other members of the board and the final date of their terms are Albert S. Paye, local engineer, June 1, 1957, and Benjamin O'Rourke, retired railroad brotherhood official, June 1, 1956.

Frank Martin, named last month to fill the unexpired term of Anthony Saeli, whose five-year term will be up in June 1963, is the only one in a proper term.

The planning and zoning commission was established June 1, 1943, and former Mayor Thomas W. Koon was its first chairman.

The objective of the commission was to give the city the advantages of long-range planning in various projects, and also to have a body to study re-zoning and other problems.

The first big job tackled by the commission in 1943 was the flood problem.

The last meeting of the commission was held on October 7, 1957 when the group acted on the location of the Potomac Avenue service building in Mapleside.

The mayor acts as an ex officio member of this board.

As for the recreation board, six members resigned in April 1957 over two issues—the Mayor and Council's refusal to go along with the board's Southview Addition plan and the proposed park-recreation department consolidation that would have placed many of the board's functions under the direct administration of the street commissioner.

Those resigning and the dates of expiration of their terms were: Lacy Cifala 1957; Albert S. Paye, 1958; James L. Weber, 1959; Florence Yankelevitz, 1960, George Henderson, 1961, and Arch M. Hutcheson, 1962.

J. Monroe Sharer, whose term would have run to 1963, died January 26, 1957.

The action of these persons followed the resignation of Gwynn Fletcher, city recreation director.

Since April 1957, the recreation department has operated without the benefit of a recreation board, as provided in the original law.

Saturday Not Big Shopping Day

NEW YORK (AP)—Saturday is no longer the busiest day of the week for many of the nation's department and specialty stores, a National Retail Merchants Assn. survey showed.

This is particularly true in the case of stores that stay open Monday and Thursday nights. Business on those two days almost invariably tops Saturday.

Bureau Of Census To Make Job Survey

The Bureau of Census will conduct a survey in the Cumberland area next week to determine the number of persons having more than one job.

Last year's survey on the same subject revealed about one in 15 men and one in 40 women held two jobs.

Sharp Rise Noted In City Construction

The value of building permits for the first six months of this year is more than $1,250,000 than for the same period of 1957, according to City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum.

Figures for the comparative periods were contained in a report of the city's engineering and building departments at Monday's Council session.

Nuzum's report indicated the value of all building permits for the first six months of this vear was $1,912,419.01, while the value of all permits for the same period of 1957 was placed at $649,566 for an increase of $1,262,853.01.

A breakdown of the 1958 report shows 51 new construction permits were issued during the first six months, their value being placed at $1,235,495. The value of permits granted for 35 additions and improvements to existing structures was estimated at $674,524.01, while permits for two dwellings which were moved was set at $2,400.

In comparison, 52 new permits for new construction were approved during the January-June period of 1957, their value being placed at $369,306. A $272,550 value was placed on 28 permits for additions and improvements, while permits for three dwellings moved was estimated at $7,710.

The report by Nuzum also noted that the Engineering Department granted 21 buildings permits last month, nine for new construction and the remaining 12 for additions and improvements. Value of the permits was estimated at $71,734.01. This amount was a decrease of $216,715.99 compared to the value of permits issued in June of 1957 which was placed at $288,450.

Nuzum also reported that four applications for occupancy permits were filed last month, two of which were granted and two referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals after being refused by the city engineer. One of the refused permits is pending action of the appeals board, while the other has been withdrawn, the report states. Ten sewer permits were also granted last month.

Fees collected by the city engineer's office during June amounted to $495.20.

The report also listed extensive surveys and other work undertaken by the city engineering staff last month.

Issues Report

The commissioners appointed to assess benefits or award damages in connection with the closing of portions of streets in the Ridgedale section where a new National Guard armory is to be constructed filed a report Monday with the retiring Mayor and Council. No benefits or damages were deemed necessary, the report stated.

Hughes, Cook To Study Possible PSC Changes

Noel Speir Cook and George R. Hughes Jr., members of the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly, have been named to a special committee of the Legislative Council to investigate possible changes in the Public Service Commission.

Also appointed to the committee was State Sen. Clifford Friend of Garrett County, with Hughes being designated as chairman of the unit.

The investigating unit was organized by the Judiciary Committee of the Legislative Council as the result of a letter from Hughes concerning rate increases granted the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company since 1952, calling attention to possible changes in the PSC laws regarding the People's Counsel, rate basis and other utility matters.

Their findings are to be reported to the Judiciary Committee, along with recommendations, by next September 1.

Hughes' letter pointed out that the C&A firm had been granted four sizeable rate increases since 1952, the first two of which raised the rate more than 45 per cent above its original level, and the last two adding substantially to the consumer rate.

The corporation's annual return on its rate base nets about 6.5 per cent of its investment, Hughes informed the Legislative Council committee. Each of the increases worked a severe hardship on large numbers of residents of the state's two westernmost counties, Hughes wrote, terming the gas bills during last winter as "out of this world."

Hughes explained that the rate increases were sought by the firm after an intensive campaign for new customers, using the low price of the product as the keynote for the sales drive. The campaign resulted in the securing of many new customers for the utility firm, Hughes said.

His letter stated that he recognized the capability of the PSC's People's Counsel, but also noted that his staff was "woefully" undermanned for the hundreds of cases it handles each year, making it an impossibility for People's Counsel to effectively refute the corporation's arguments in favor of an increase.

Hughes wrote that he thought it advisable to re-examine the Public Service Commission laws, citing the fact that the C&A's annual net profit is 6.5 per cent of its investment, while the consumer rate has been increased nearly 65 per cent since 1952. Such excesses and the system through which it is administered have resulted in increased dissatisfaction with the public utilities laws of Maryland.

Senate Defense Hearings Are Ended Abruptly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee abruptly ended public hearings on defense reorganization Wednesday and prepared to go behind closed doors to tackle the House-passed bill to overhaul the Pentagon.

The final witnesses on the controversial measure were three retired four-star officers. Their conflicting views ranged from a let-well-enough-alone caution to a warning that if Congress doesn't act now it will have to take more drastic steps within two years.

After Adms. Arthur W. Radford and Robert B. Carney and Gen. Carl Spaatz testified, Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said the committee had canceled plans to select some civilian witnesses for later testimony.

Russell said the committee probably would start next week its closed-door consideration of a House bill which would give the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff greater power. President Eisenhower has urged the Senate to remove restrictions the House wrote into the plan he suggested.

Carney, chief of naval operations in 1953-55, said Eisenhower's request for broad powers to reorganize the Defense Department was unnecessary and unwise. He said the request goes "far beyond the requirements for sound military control and management" and sets the stage for many things Congress has opposed in the past.

Radford, also a former chief of naval operations and until last year chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, helped frame the Eisenhower proposals. He said Congress must grant the broad power or be forced to take even more drastic action.

The population of the United States Pacific coast areas is increasing at the rate of three per cent a year. This is about double the national average.

A New Foreign Economic Plan

Reports from Washington are that the administration is getting set to undertake a new foreign economic program which will differ somewhat from the Marshall Plan of a decade ago.

This time Britain and West Germany will be partners of the U. S. in the program. "Underdeveloped nations" will get the major attention.

The program is designed to shore up the Free World's economy. It involves:

Giving new funds and responsibilities to the International Monetary Fund and World Bank with the U. S. putting up less money relatively than other nations; coordinating operations of the Export-Import Bank and Development Loan Fund with the IMF and World Bank more closely; setting up a new International Development Association; increasing resources of the Development Loan Fund; short-term aid to countries with falling commodity prices.

This is roughly the division of responsibility:

IMF would support currencies of countries threatened by temporary balance of payments difficulties; the World Bank would lend more to governments of underdeveloped countries for long-term economic programs; Export-Import would finance private industrial and mining projects, and the Development Loan Fund would grant "soft loans" to politically sensitive spots in the world.

If this program emerges as now planned, it could put the U. S. in a trading position comparable to that of Great Britain from 1850 to 1914, exponents of the proposed set-up say.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

How Far?

Thomas D. Cabot, speaking on behalf of the C.E.D. before the House Ways and Means Committee to extend the Trade Agreements Act, made this arbitrary statement which requires analysis because it has become so fashionable:

"This economic advantage is very clear when we buy from abroad things we don't produce at all at home. But there is a decided economic advantage to buying from abroad those things which others can produce more efficiently — even though they could be produced at home—and selling abroad those things which we produce more efficiently."

The word, efficiently, covers a multitude of conditions which Cabot and others do not discuss. Does "efficiently" mean because the workers abroad are more competent, as Chinese women in Amoy and Swatow are in embroidering handkerchiefs and women's lingerie, or does efficiently mean that the goods can be produced more cheaply because wages are lower, hours are longer, taxes are less, and a subsidy is provided by a government or by the United States through its various aid organizations? What are the precise facts as regards each commodity in each market? For instance, how is it possible for West German and Russian automobiles to invade South American markets at a time when the automobile industry in the United States has been hit by a recession? Are the automobiles of these other countries more efficiently made than ours or are they able to sell them for a lower price or by barter because of government support as in West Germany or because of the no-price barrier as is the case of Soviet Russia?

Cabot says that our foreign trade policy has been viewed as an integral part of our foreign policy. If that is so, what economic means are devised to keep this nation at full employment? Also, what methods are used to prevent plants from becoming obsolescent by disuse, so that when we need them for our national existence, they are available? It was possible for the United States to crash-program the manufacture of the atomic bomb because some 2,000 manufacturers were co-opted to join in this work. That was possible during the economic activity of war; what happens to such activity during a recession, with men laid off and the plant idle?

If our foreign trade policy is a phase of our foreign policy, how could it be possible that we have been steadily losing our Latin American market? If foreign policy is to determine the course of our foreign trade should we not pour everything we have into the cultivation of our Latin American trade? There seems to be a gap between Cabot's description of policy and the actual course of events.

The gap is due to the assumption that the American post-war prosperity would last forever and that as the richest nation on Earth, we can afford to be generous to friend and foe, to former friend and former foe. But are we the richest nation on Earth? How is such richness measured? The classical method would be our possession of gold reserves, not on deposit but owned by us absolutely. Perhaps a more current method for the measurement of richness would be full employment at high wages and reasonable hours. Whatever yardstick is used, the question still needs to be answered as to whether we are, in 1958, the richest nation on Earth.

Certainly Soviet Russia is challenging that claim and is entering upon a vast give-away program to prove that it too is rich. Like us, the Russians are giving away gold; like us, they have made foreign trade a phase of foreign policy. Unlike us, they only move goods to those countries where it will specifically do their foreign policy some good. For instance, they need to restore diplomatic and commercial relations with Brazil; so they negotiate to pick up Brazil's surplus coffee at barter prices where the margin is so wide that under their socialist system of state-produced goods, they can sell for any price that is politically helpful.

Neither high nor low tariffs will solve our economic problems. What we need is a reasoned grasp of our situation based not upon the idealism of Cordell Hull or the realism of Mark Hanna, but on what we specifically face in the year 1958 and in the immediate future.

Lost His Head Somewhere Along The Way

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — The Harris committee's investigation of the so-called independent agencies has been a business of cops and robbers from the time it was born, culminating in the "imprudence" of its chief investigator, Baron Shacklette, in bugging the room of Goldfine's press relations man this week. My assistant, Jack Anderson, a good reporter, was present, as any good reporter is always present—if he can get there.

Reason for the cops-and-robbers game is twofold: 1. The Harris committee has been probing some of the agencies and personalities in Washington. They have gone to the summit.

2. Some of the committee members themselves have been dead opposed to the probe and have rowed among themselves.

Chairman Harris of Arkansas did not hire Bernard Schwartz as committee counsel until he had first phoned the office of Sherman Adams to see if the White House approved. This is highly unusual. Adams, a Republican, was due to be investigated by Harris, a Democrat. The legislative and executive branches of government, under our Constitution, are supposed to check up on each other.

Yet Harris conferred with Adams' office, and Gerald Morgan later called New York University, on behalf of the White House, to see what kind of lawyer Schwartz was. They got word he had voted for Eisenhower, so gave Harris the White House OK.

Reason for Harris' solicitude for Sherman Adams was first, the fact that Harris wants to be a Federal judge in Arkansas and that Adams could veto this; second, Harris has been carrying the ball for the White House and Ike's Texas oil friends regarding the natural gas act.

First Channel 10 Expose

Last summer, after the Legislative Oversight subcommittee had been functioning for almost six months with no results, Jack Anderson went to Miami and uncovered the first evidence regarding FCC Commissioner Richard Mack and his conflict of interest with Thurman Whiteside regarding Channel 10.

This was in August. The information was given to counsel Schwartz and chief investigator Shacklette. They did not "leak" the story to this column as some Congressmen suspected. It was leaked to them.

After this column published the sensational charges against Mack on Jan. 17, 1958, plus other charges of gift-taking by independent agencies, Schwartz was hauled before his committee and cross-examined as to whether he had given the information to me or to Anderson. He was able to swear quite truthfully that he hadn't.

However, after the first revelations in this column, the New York Times published the Schwartz memo regarding gift-taking and influence peddling. What happened was that a copy of his report was left in a bush near the Capitol building for the New York Times. The Times came along and picked it up.

Schwartz, however, didn't equivocate to the Congressmen. He said that following prior publication by Pearson he had given the statement to the Times. The committee then fired him.

Simultaneously, the Congressmen locked the questionnaires on gift-taking in Harris' safe. They are still there. No one has seen them. Schwartz was pilloried by some Congressmen and by gift-taking bureaucrats for sending out these gift questionnaires. So was Chairman Moulder, who backed him up 100 per cent. All the evidence since then shows that Schwartz and Moulder were right. But the questionnaires are still in the safe of Congressman Harris, who took Moulder's place.

Adams Probe Suppressed

As the investigation dragged along through the spring, Chairman Harris made it quite clear that he wasn't going to send investigators up to Boston to probe charges against Sherman Adams and Goldfine or the TV wire-pulling of the Boston Herald and Traveler. Once early in the winter Shacklette had been ordered by counsel Schwartz up to Boston to probe these two cases, but Harris suddenly countermanded the order. Shacklette, an ace investigator, was ordered to stay in Washington.

Later Harris called Shacklette in and fired him. Other committee members who knew Shacklette was the best man on the staff, rebelled and forced Harris to keep him. But Shacklette was taken off the Boston probe.

By May it became apparent that Chairman Harris was going to hush up the entire Adams-Goldfine case. As I left for Europe on May 6, Jack Anderson and I discussed the evidence we had on hand and decided he should write an early column on Harris' tactics and the evidence. Accordingly on May 13 Jack wrote:

"Now that the public clamor has died down, *Congressman Oren Harris (D., Ark.) has quietly called off the investigation of the second most powerful man in government—Sherman Adams. . . Harris has slammed the file shut on an explosive case involving Adams and has ordered committee sleuths to find someone else to investigate."

The column then told in detail of Adams' phone calls to the FTC re Bernard Goldfine's mislabeling and of Goldfine's apparent influence with the SEC over the Boston Port Development case. After that other Congressmen demanded that the Adams probe go forward. It did. Significantly Oren Harris did not go to Boston to conduct it. Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi went instead. Not until the probe hit the headlines did Harris leave the sidelines and begin a real investigation of his friends in the White House.

(More on the cops-and-robbers game of Goldfine-Adams and the Harris committee will follow shortly.)

Harriman Is Possible Candidate For President

By Joseph Alsop

NEW YORK

If Averell Harriman is comfortably re-elected to the New York Governorship — as the signs now suggest — he will promptly become a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1960.

The news is not official. No other politician in the United States has anything like Harriman's knack for total absorption in the task of the moment. His present task is being Governor of New York state, and to get himself reelected as Governor of New York state by the most impressive majority possible. He is thinking and talking about nothing else but this immediate task.

But though the news is not official, it can still be stated with high certainty that Harriman's reelection as Governor will have the national political sequel above-indicated. A good many people have doubted whether Harriman would again seek the Presidency, even if he wins again in New York by a big majority, for the quite obvious reason that he is now sixty-six years old.

He will, therefore, be sixty-eight by the time the Democrats gather to choose their next Presidential nominee. In theory, this is surely too great an age for a man seeking to assume the terrible burdens of the White House.

But in practice, Averell Harriman at sixty-six looks not more than fifty, and he lives at a pace that most men of forty would be hard put to match. As he is fond of pointing out, Harriman is also fourteen years younger than Konrad Adenauer, who is still, at eighty-two, the strongest leader of the Western nations. And instead of the golf in a golf-cart practiced by his contemporary, President Eisenhower, Harriman's favorite sport is skiing. Almost every winter week-end, he skis with conspicuous energy and violence.

A much more youthful Adenauer, still wholly capable of swooping down the steepest snow slope — that, one can predict, will be the picture of Harriman presented to the public when and if his Presidential candidacy is declared. Furthermore, anyone who is disinclined to take this conditional Harriman candidacy with complete seriousness, had better remember the special Harriman rule of political analysis.

Possibly the trouble is that Harriman's own determination to succeed in all his projects is so concentrated and, in an odd way, ungainly. At any rate, myriads of people have repeatedly yielded to the temptation not to take Averell Harriman seriously, whenever he was beginning a new chapter in his formidable career. On the experience of these myriads is founded the Harriman rule, which reads: "Always take him seriously, or you'll get your fingers burned."

To be sure, Harriman's Presidential bid is still wholly conditional. If he is not re-elected to the New York Governorship, Harriman will have to retreat into the already over-populated ranks of the Democratic party's elder statesmen. But if Harriman will not think or talk about anything but the Governorship, he is at least ready to talk about that, and talk at great length and with much astuteness.

Harriman not only thinks he is going to win the Governorship again. He is also all-out to win the Governorship by the kind of majority that will impress Democratic leaders in other states.

Certainly he has a lot of assets. To begin with, all but the more frenzied Republican partisans admit that Harriman has made a good governor. To help out, he has made himself some nice, cosy, useful state issues, by solid, common sense improvements in New York state's important structure of social and welfare legislation and administration.

Then too, Harriman has measurably strengthened the Democratic organization upstate. In the main Republican stronghold in New York, in fact, Democratic Mayors and City Councilmen and County Supervisors have ceased to be exotic blooms. The crop is not exactly big or flourishing yet, but there are enough of them nowadays to be decidedly impressive. And finally, Harriman himself has shaken more upstate hands than any Governor, Democratic or Republican, in all of New York history.

With all these local factors to fight against, the probable nominee, Nelson Rockefeller, is also going to have to fight against the nation-wide drop in the prestige of the Eisenhower administration, plus the strong Democratic tide that seems to be running all over the country. In short, Rockefeller (if he is the man the Republicans tap) is plainly going to have a rough time preventing Averell Harriman from reaching his next objective.

If Harriman attains that objective, winning the Governorship by a good majority, the rest will follow rather promptly and pretty inevitably. It is highly possible that Harriman will not be able to overcome the really big obstacles that will stand between him and the Presidential nomination, even after his reelection here. But he is sure, at least, to speak with a very loud voice when the Democrats make their final choice. That, perhaps, is what he really wants.

Klaus Fuchs' Future

By Bob Considine

LONDON—A murderer named Brian Hume, who ingeniously but unsuccessfully tried to dispose of his victim's body by dropping it from a plane flying over the North Sea, emerged from Wakefield Jail not long ago. He had been given a fairly light sentence because he proved to the court's satisfaction that two other men were involved in the slaying.

Hume promptly announced upon leaving prison that he was the sole murderer and sold his memoirs to a London paper, knowing that he could not be tried again. He brought something else out of prison with him: sketches and notes indicating that a fellow prisoner at Wakefield had drawn up the specifications of an earth satellite some years before the Russians launched Sputnik I.

The prisoner was Klaus Fuchs, the major atomic spy whose own term will end this fall. British and American minds are at work on how to keep the brilliant traitor from disappearing behind the Iron Curtain with what they fear is a treasure trove of theories and calculations amassed during his more than eight years of prison life. In their anxiety to keep Fuchs in the West, several British and American atomic research outfits have offered him attractive posts—though the man would have been duly electrocuted along with the Rosenbergs had he been an American citizen. Fuchs' citizenship is now German, a retroactive status he attained when the British took away his citizenship papers in 1951.

If Hume's documents are valid, and there is no reason to believe they are not, they might indicate that Fuchs is at least partly responsible for the startling Soviet progress in space exploration. Some alumni of the Manhattan Engineering District project declare that the information Fuchs leaked during and after the war enabled Russia to produce the atomic bomb perhaps 10 years sooner than anticipated.

What is not as well known is the fact that long before even the U. S. had its first atomic bomb, Fuchs was rated among the world's top three theoreticians on the feasibility of the hydrogen bomb. Presumably, those studies also were sent along to the Russians, via messenger Harry Gold in the U. S. and the couriers with whom Fuchs did business in London for four years after V-J Day.

Julius Rosenberg once boasted to his gullible brother-in-law, Sgt. David Greenglass, who by harrowing chance was assigned by the Army to work in the very shop at Los Alamos which produced the complex "lens" (trigger) of the A-bomb, that he was in possession of a spy's report on "a space station." Very little was brought out on this in the subsequent trial of Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel. But inasmuch as they were relaying information taken from Fuchs, there is reason to believe that the spy forwarded views and drawings which later took substance in a stunning scientific and propaganda achievement by the Soviet Union.

Fuchs was once considered for the Nobel Prize in physics and conceivably could be again. Hence the interest in securing the services of a man the free world once declared one of the ultimate architects of treachery.

If Fuchs accepts a job in Britain or the U. S. after his release it is probable that a 'round-the-clock complement of undercover men would be assigned to watch him. Several atomic research groups, notably British, feel that the fruit of his genius would be worth the trouble and expense and the appalling mortification of catering to a man whose contributions to Russia's present menace are incalculable.

Paradoxically, Russia unquestionably would put the same tail on Fuchs if he is taken into the select circle of Soviet scientists his stature warrants. Fuchs' "controlled schizophrenia," as he described it in his amazing confession, permitted him to commit appalling treason in perfectly good conscience. It could again, on either side of the Curtain.

Summer Season Is Rough On Skin Of The Feet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is poor policy to blame ringworm for every ontbreak between the toes or on the soles of the feet. The lesions may be due to excessive perspiration or to sensitivity to one of the plastics in shoes. There are other causes of dermatitis and there is no sense in starting treatment until the diagnosis is established.

The skin of the feet take a beating during the summer when sweating is profuse particularly if nylon socks or nonventilated or rubber soled shoes are worn. The affected area becomes moist, white, and dead appearing unless dried and exposed to the air periodically.

Maceration, blisters, and cracks develop which may look like ringworm. But this diagnosis cannot be confirmed unless scrapings of the tissues are sent to the laboratory and the fungus is found in this material. If the micro-organism is not present, ringworm treatment is of no value — in fact, may be worse than the disease.

On the other hand, warm moist skin is made to order for the ringworm organism — in susceptible persons. Invasion of the toes is followed by a blister, and when this breaks, the skin becomes scaly, cracked, and red. Scales are the most consistent findings and usually are noted unless the tissues are too macerated.

Fungal infections of the skin rarely are confined to one spot. When the nails are involved, they become discolored, thickened, and brittle. They may separate from the toes along the outer edge. If the soles of the feet are affected, there are fine scales, with or without blisters.

Athlete's foot is easy to treat but there is no guarantee that the results will be lasting. Castellani's paint, a triacetin spray, or a medicated ointment or powder such as Desenex produces a high percentage of cures. The old reliable, Whitfield's ointment, is an excellent alternative. Meanwhile, maintain good foot hygiene and rest the feet periodically.

MEGACOLON IN CHILD

Mrs. W. writes: What causes an enlarged colon in a boy of 13?

REPLY

Megacolon usually is more annoying than serious. The condition causes constipation and abdominal distention. In the majority, the dilated intestine can be made to contract through the use of one of the cholinergic drugs. Enemas may be necessary as well as training in bowel habits. Surgery may be needed if conservative measures fail to give improvement.

STUNG

W. D. writes: What is the best thing to do when stung by a bee?

REPLY

If the insect was a honey bee, remove the stinger gently. Apply cool baking soda compresses and then one of the ointments containing an antihistaminic or a steroid. Calamine lotion is good, too. My daughter is a great advocate of mud packs for this purpose.

CONGESTED LUNGS

W. L. writes: What is lung congestion?

REPLY

This condition is comparable to congestion of the nose. Irritated or inflamed membranes water or produce excessive secretions that are coughed up. In other instances, congestion stems from changes in circulation to the lungs.

EYES AND KIDNEYS

W. R. writes: Will examination of the eyes reveal kidney disease?

REPLY

Yes, in that the blood vessels of the retina are affected by several conditions, including kidney disease.

BURNING AND ACID

S. W. writes: Is burning of the feet caused by acid in the blood?

REPLY

Yes, if you refer to uric acid. A gouty toe causes burning.

OVER 40

L. Y. writes: We hear so much about our aging population, I was wondering what proportion of the people in this country is over 40?

REPLY

A little better than one-third.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Kenneth Weesner of Marion, Ind., solemnly swears his automobile was stalled on a lonely country road when he distinctly heard a horse remark, "It's probably the carburetor." Understandably dumbfounded, Weesner demanded of the horse, "Was it you who just spoke to me?" "Who else?" said the horse. What's more, his diagnosis was absolutely correct.

Weesner's car again in apple-pie shape, he tootled up to the farmer's cottage and said, "That horse of yours just told me how to fix my car!"

"That's funny," admitted the farmer. "Usually we pay no attention to him whatever. He doesn't know a darn thing about automobiles."

A 12-year-old girl was taken to her first symphony concert, and was bowled over by it. "Father," she reported excitedly to her father that evening, "they played Beethoven's Fifth. It was marvelous! I wouldn't have changed a note of it!"

Two Accidents Occur On Same Route 50 Curve

$9,000 Lost In Trailer Crack-Up

KEYSER—Two accidents occurred in exactly the same place on Route 50 on Allegheny Front and under exactly the same conditions Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning, State Police Trooper Robert B. Noechel reported last night.

The scene is the second turn above Bill's Tavern about one mile from the foot of the mountain. The curve is to the right while ascending the five-mile grade.

The first crash occurred about 5:10 p. m. Tuesday as Thomas W. Lowry, II, 20, Keyser, was driving the 1952 Buick owned by his father, T. Warner Lowry, up the mountain, and Elzie S. Garrison, 54, Steubenville, Ohio, was driving east down the grade in a 1957 Buick.

Trooper Noechel said Lowry, who is home on furlough from Fort Bliss, Tex., swung wide on the curve and crashed into the Garrison car. Damage to the two vehicles was estimated at $500, and Lowry was charged with failure to keep to the right of the highway.

Yesterday at 9:55 a. m., William S. Harrison, 74, Fairmont, was driving a 1955 DeSoto up the mountain when he swung wide on the same curve and hit a 1953 Ford pick-up being driven east by Ralph E. Marshall, 53, Pontiac, Mich.

No one was injured and damage was estimated at $300. Harrison was charged with failing to keep to the right of the highway.

However, by far the most property damage in an accident in Mineral County Tuesday resulted when a Pony Express tractor-trailer overturned on the first curve west of Ridgeville on Route 50 at 4:45 p. m.

Trooper Noechel said the driver, Carroll A. Snell, 37, Staunton, Va., told him the big rig jackknifed while making the curve as he was driving east with a load of miscellaneous cargo.

The Mack tractor ran off the highway, but the trailer and its cargo overturned in the road blocking traffic in both directions for several minutes. While the tractor was only slightly damaged, the loss in the trailer and its cargo was estimated at $9,000.

Snell, who was not injured, was charged with hazardous driving.

Mt. Savage Man Fined Under New County Dog Law

MT. SAVAGE—Delbert Martin of Mt. Savage found the new county dog law has legal teeth in it and its "bite" can prove costly following a hearing Tuesday before Magistrate Howard R. Stevens.

Martin, arrested on two warrants, one obtained by county dog warden Merwin Hast and the other by Charles Deans of Mt. Savage, was found guilty on both counts. He was fined $5 on each charge and had to pay court costs of $2.75 for each conviction—a bite in the pocketbook of $15.50.

Hast's warrant charged Martin with failing to comply with the county dog law in respect to his failure to keep his dog tied and quarantined. Dean's warrant stated that Martin was maintaining a nuisance. The animal had bitten three different children in the Mt. Savage area, one of them being a child of Dean's.

Both warrants were served by Andrew Lennox, constable at Mt. Savage. The convictions are one of the first under the new county dog law which went into effect May 1.

Bishop Russell Is Transferred To Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Bishop John J. Russell of Charleston, S. C., has been transferred to Virginia to become bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Richmond, succeeding the late Bishop Peter L. Ireton.

The assignment, made by Pope Pius XII, was announced in Washington Wednesday by Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States. Msgr. Michael Hyle of Baltimore was appointed coadjutor bishop of Wilmington, Del.

Bishop Russell, 60, head of the Charleston Diocese since 1950, delivered the funeral sermon for Bishop Ireton who died April 27.

Msgr. McClunn said he expected it would be from six weeks to two months before Bishop Russell would assume the position here. Formal installation will be attended by priests from throughout the diocese.

Bishop Russell was born in Baltimore Dec. 1, 1897, and attended St. Charles College, Catonsville, Md., St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore, and the Urban University in Rome.

In the Richmond Diocese, including most of Virginia and part of West Virginia, there are more than 130,000 Roman Catholics.

The diocese experienced major growth in church membership and the number of Parochial schools and other institutions under the guidance of Bishop Ireton, who became coadjutor bishop in 1935 and bishop in 1945.

W.Va. Pays Korean Vets $19,659,937

Only 2,000 Claims To Be Processed

CHARLESTON (AP) — A total of $19,659,937 has flowed into the pockets of Korean War veterans since West Virginia started paying off a state bonus eight months ago.

The bonus operation is now tapering off. Director C. S. Collier Jr. of the State Department of Veterans Affairs said Wednesday that of 77,474 applications received, a backlog of only about 2,000 claims remains to be processed.

"These claims," he said, "represent for the most part, the more difficult claims to resolve due to difficulty in securing necessary service verification and other information pertinent to the application."

The bonus office, operating with a skeleton force now that the big rush is over, is presently clearing for payment about 100 claims a day. It continues to receive from 150 to 200 new applications per week.

Payments have been made to 73,453 living veterans of the Korean War and 939 survivors of deceased veterans.

The department said bonus checks, which began flowing out last Nov. 1, have now been sent to each of West Virginia's 55 counties, to every state and territory of this country, and to 11 foreign countries.

Out-of-state payments have totaled $9,131,828, representing 46.45 per cent of the total bonus distributed so far. Ohio reflected by far the largest concentration of former West Virginians, with 6,226 payments in the aggregate amount of $1,610,088 to veterans now residing in that state.

Morris Memorial Polio Hospital Now Half-Empty

MILTON, W. Va. (AP) — Morris Memorial Hospital, once crowded to overflowing with child polio patients from many states but now half - empty and in financial difficulty, may become a state - operated medical facility.

Trustees who operate the non-profit institution for the City of Milton reportedly will confer with State Institutions Commissioner Harold E. Neely next week.

The rambling one-story native stone structure, in the form roughtly, of a giant square question mark equipped with the latest facilities needed for the rehabilitation of polio victims, has 85 beds.

Before the salk vaccine discovery, the hospital frequently cared for more than 125 patients at a time.

There is no accurate estimate of the value of the building, grounds, housing for personnel and equipment but a conservative estimate is three million dollars.

The trustees are said to favor conversion of the hospital into a state children's health center.

4-H Conference Is Outlined For Lions Club

Tannery May Expand Business

MOOREFIELD — John Miller of Baker, a student at Shepherd College, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club at Hotel McNeill on his activities at the National 4-H Conference in Washington last month. Miller was one of West Virginia's four delegates to the 28th Annual 4-H session. He said the 200 delegates representing 47 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, held conferences with members of the House of Representatives, with U. S. Senators, with representatives of the Defense Department, with U. S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Benson, and with clerks of the U. S. Supreme Court.

The conference members met President Eisenhower in the week's round of visits and heard the President praise the work of 4-H. Miller said one unusual visit conference members made was to Washington Monument at night, not usually permitted to tourists. The conference delegates laid a wreath at the tomb of the unkown servicemen and visited Washington's tomb. Miller said the theme of the busy conference was "Focus On The Future."

The Moorefield Lions Club authorized the industrial committee to negotiate with Loewengart & Company on the expansion of the tannery plant and recommended the expansion.

Del Hester, president of the civic group, named John McNeill, C. B. Hiett, Frank Dodson, Jim Ansel and W. C. Harper as the float committee to prepare a float for the Poultry Festival parade July 31.

The Moorefield Club will sell peanut brittle for the club charities with Richard Troughton, Guy Lang and J. M. Harrison as the committee in charge.

Some Guard Units To Be Reduced

CHARLESTON (AP) — The assistant adjutant general said Wednesday that the 197th Tank Battalion of the West Virginia National Guard probably will receive a reduction in strength.

Maj. William Blake said the reduction might be called for under a compromise plan to cut down the number of component units in 16 of the National Guard's 27 divisions.

An announcement made yesterday said that the guard divisions, all infantry, to be reorganized would include the 29th of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

The 197th battalion is a part of the 29th division. It has headquarters in Moundsville, along with a medical detachment. Companies of 197th are stationed in Morgantown, Buckhannon, Clarksburg and Elkins.

Just how the reorganization will affect the 197th lies with Maj. Gen. William C. Purnell of Baltimore, commander of the 29th.

Maj. Miller said a first examination of the Washington announcement of Tuesday indicated that non - divisional units, along with the Air National Guard, will not have their strength reduced.

A. J. Shaver Attends State Farm Bureau Meet At Roanoke

MOOREFIELD—Alfred J. Shaver, representative of the West Virginia State Farm Bureau, attended a four-day institute in Roanoke last week. Mr. Shaver was one of the 145 representatives from 23 states to attend the institute.

The theme of the institute this year was "A Continued Fight Against Communism and Socialism." It was pointed out that the socialist and communist governments fail to provide their peoples with the things man seeks most—freedom and individual opportunity. A study and comparison of governments in various European countries was presented.

Members attending the institute were cautioned to watch for socialistic trends in the US and to resist those trends where encountered.

Miners Hospital Parking Area Work Starts

FROSTBURG — Work was begun yesterday on installing a new retaining wall north of the Miners Hospital in order to increase the parking space according to James Bangerd, administrator. The work is being done by Orrie Sensabaugh of Cumberland.

A new room is being added to the south side of the building and will be used for storage purposes. This work is being done by the John I. Vandegrift Co., Cumberland. Both jobs, Bangerd said, when constructed will fill a great need of the hospital.

Bed patients at the hospital are at the lowest number in a long while Bangerd pointed out.

A new waiting room will be put into use as soon as furniture is received. The present waiting room will then be converted into a room for use of the medical staff.

Midland Council Airs Problem Of Old Buildings

MIDLAND — A plan is being considered by town officials to launch a program of condemnation or otherwise removing from the community, several old, dilapidated and unsightly buildings.

At the regular meeting of Mayor Lionel D. Baker and the city council this week, Fire Marshall Jesse Jacobs of Frostburg reported that there are some unoccupied buildings, especially in the business area which may be dangerous. He told council how to proceed to have these properties removed. He declared, "they are definitely a fire hazard and endanger all other properties in the town.

Dr. Ton Van Strien, county health officer from Cumberland quoted state and local laws on contamination. He offered the council several suggestions which he said the council should put into operation to help make the town safer and healthier."

J. B. Dowling, county health inspector, spoke on garbage disposal and outlined locations of two dump sites which might be utilized.

Harry Devlin, fire chief for Midland suggested that the fire marshall make a thorough inspection of all old buildings in the community, checking them as to health and fire hazards. The report, he said should be made clear to everyone and, working with the health department and fire company, the Mayor and Council should take positive action to remedy the unsightly conditions."

Ervin Lewis, representing the Potomac Edison Company, showed the mayor and council blue prints on changes to be made on the relocation of light poles.

Centerville Bible School Is Concluded

CENTERVILLE, Pa. — Vacation Bible School for the Centerville Methodist Church ended Sunday with a closing program after Sunday School. Ninety pupils received certificates for good work and satisfactory attendance. The total enrollment of the school this year was 100 with 15 teachers making up the staff.

With the theme of the school being "Jesus" many and various projects were made dealing with Jesus and the life of his times. One interesting project by the intermediates in particular was the publishing of a newspaper as it would appear in Jesus' day dealing with his life. This paper which had five editions was named the Jerusalem Journal.

The entire offering of the school which amounted to $76.25 will be sent to a Methodist Missionary, Rev. Keneth Jones, in the Belgian Congo. Along with the offering is to be sent a tape on which the students recorded one of their opening exercises as well as their comments and greetings to the children of Africa. In return this tape will be sent back with appropriate greetings from Rev. Jones and those in the Belgian Congo, thus bringing about a closer Christian relationship between the children of these two areas.

The 40-hour week is standard in only two countries—the United States and New Zealand.

Cleveland Gathers 19 Hits, Clobbers Yankees, 12-2

Indians Score Seven Tallies In 8th Frame

Ford Is Victim Of Blasting; Cal McLish Winner

NEW YORK (AP)—After leaving nine runners stranded in the first seven innings, the Cleveland Indians opened the floodgates in the eighth and scored seven runs—their biggest single inning of the season—to crush the New York Yankees 12-2 Wednesday night. The rampaging Indians collected 19 hits, the highest total an opponent has collected against the Yanks this year.

Whitey Ford was the victim of most of the Tribe's blasting. He was charged with the loss, his fourth against 10 victories.

Until the fateful eighth, Ford and Cal McLish engaged in a dandy little pitching duel, with the big Indian far the steadier.

McLish, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the big inning gave up only five hits in his tenure on the mound. The Yanks scored their only earned run in the second on a booming triple to right center by Bill Skowron, and a fly by Tony Kubek. Don Mossi gave up an unearned tally in the eighth.

Jaycees Snap Kiwanis Win Streak, 4-3

Win In 9th Frame; Elks Triumph, 7-5

The Jaycees cracked the four-game winning streak of the Kiwanis Club in a nine-inning thriller last night at Penn Avenue field by the score of 4-3, thus enabling the Lions to tie the Kiwanians for first place in the Hot Stove Baseball League race.

In the ninth Gary Morgan and Roger Nesbit singled and when Catcher Hanekamp threw wildly in an attempt to pick Morgan off third base the latter scored the winning run.

The Jaycees came near sewing up the decision in the 8th when Davis walked and Wilson doubled but a perfect throw by centerfielder Powelson cut down Davis at the plate.

Kiwanis took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on singles by Powelson and Brehm followed by Price's circuit belt but the Jaycees came back with two tallies in their half and tied the score in the fourth.

Charley Boone, who relieved Price in the first inning, was charged with the loss, while Larry McKay, who supplanted Phil Barbe in the 8th was the winning hurler. Barbe fanned 14, McKay three, Price one and Boone eight.

McKay and Pat Wilson shared six of the Jaycees' 11 hits. Two of Wilson's blows were doubles. The losers had only three hits.

The Lions and Kiwanis now lead the race with 6-3 records. Last night's win was the fifth against three losses for the Jaycees.

Bill Humbertson's three-run homer in the sixth inning enabled the Elks to come from behind and defeat B'nai B'rith in an afternoon game at Fort Hill Field by the score of 7-5.

On the short end of a 5-4 score, the Elks pulled the game out of the fire when John Rice drew a pass, Glen Shipway singled and Humbertson teed off for his round-tripper.

Ray Redinger went the distance for the Elks, struck out eleven and issued four bases on balls. Deatelhauser was the loser.

Barry Beats Sowell, Bowden In Stockholm

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Thomas Barry of Spain, defeated some of the world's best half-milers Wednesday, turning in a time of 1 minute, 49.6 seconds that Arnie Sowell of Pittsburgh and Don Bowden of the University of California could not equal. Sowell was timed in 1:49.9 and Bowden in 1:50.3.

The two Americans alternated in the lead and as late as 100 yards from the tape it appeared that they might finish in a dead heat. However, Barry sped around them and won comfortably.

Glenn Davis of Ohio State won the 400-meter hurdles in 50.4 seconds.

Senate Group Hears Stengel, Major Players

Musial, Mantle, Williams Testify

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Casey Stengel took an hour off for discourse with U.S. senators Wednesday and told them baseball's conduct is impeccable.

Stengel, the noted banker, oilman, conversationalist and manager of the New York Yankees, didn't say exactly that.

In testimony that never trapped him between bases, the gravel-voiced winner of American League pennants declared baseball is run better than ever.

"Every man who goes out has a better home than when he went in," Stengel said in one of his more direct statements.

The 70-year-old Yankee pilot appeared before the Senate Antimonopoly subcommittee which is considering a House-passed bill to give pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey sweeping exemptions from antitrust laws.

Stengel was only one of an illustrious lineup of witnesses. Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, Mickey Mantle of the Yanks and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cards came over from Tuesday's All-Star Game in Baltimore to put in a plug for baseball's reserve clause, its draft and other practices that some lawmakers have termed monopolistic.

Robin Roberts of the Phillies and Eddie Yost of the Washington Senators, chief spokesmen for major league players in their dealings with club owners, also testified.

Ted And Stan Testify

Both Williams and Musial testified that if they were starting their baseball careers all over, they would do exactly as they have done.

"The men are happy and satisfied with the way baseball is run," Williams said.

The baseballers drew the largest audience within memory to the subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn).

Stengel talked at length, hitting into all fields at once.

Why, Kefauver wanted to know, did baseball magnates want this bill passed if the Supreme Court already has held the sport immune from antitrust laws?

"I wouldn't know," Stengel said, "but I imagine to keep baseball going as high as baseball is as a sport, they have gone into baseball and from the baseball angle."

Kefauver turned the questioning over to another senator.

Stengel also made it partly clear that:

Have Spirit Of '76

The Yankees win games "because we have 'it'—the spirit of '76—to put into the ball field."

Baseball is the most honest profession there is.

He has been fired 15 different times by one club or another. He once discharged himself.

In Japan "they are trying to play baseball over there with small fingers."

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) said many fans are coming to believe organized baseball, rather than being wholesome entertainment, "is a gigantic commercial enterprise that doesn't want to be regulated by the laws of Congress." But as to manager Stengel, O'Mahoney commented:

"This is the best entertainment we have had here for a long time."

Smog And Heat Blister Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sweltering heat teamed with eye-blearing smog to make Wednesday the most miserable of the year in Los Angeles.

As temperatures headed into the 90s, choking billows of yellow smog materialized over the downtown area.

Visibility was cut drastically.

Millions in the Los Angeles basin found their eyes, throat and lungs irritated by the nauseous stuff.

It was the worst smog attack of the year and also the first heat wave of summer.

CASEY TALKS; PLAYERS SIGN AUTOGRAPHS—Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, yesterday testified before a Senate subcommittee considering a bill to exempt professional sports from anti-trust laws. Meanwhile, a group of youngsters ignores Casey's words to collect autographs from ballplayers. Mickey Mantle, left, of the Yankees and Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox are behind Stengel. Valdes Stops Carter In 9th

Scores Technical K.O. At Spokane

SPOKANE (AP)—Cuba's heavy hitting Nino Valdes off to a plodding start, suddenly caught Harold Carter with a wicked right hand and then scored a technical knockout Wednesday night in 1:40 of the ninth round.

Valdes, a slight underdog, dropped Carter with a right-left combination early in the round for an eight-count and then sent him sprawling flat on his face seconds later.

Referee Joe August didn't bother to count. Carter was clearly out for almost a minute.

Valdes, the veteran from Havana, Cuba, scaled 216. Carter, making his second start after a year in the Army, came in at 192.

Until the explosive finish, the action was mediocre, not calculated to provide much stature for either fighter.

Manager Bobby Gleason swatted Valdes on the pants as he came out for the ninth round and ordered him in Spanish to "go to work."

Valdes wasted no time in following instructions. He caught Carter near the Valdes corner and sent him down quickly. Carter struggled to his feet while Valdes, anxious for the kill, hesitated to go to a neutral corner as directed. As August took his eyes from Carter to send Valdes back, Carter may have gotten brief extra respite, but it was clear he would need much more than he got.

St. Louis Buys Chuck Stobbs, Washington Southpaw

Cards Send Muffett To Omaha Club

Recall Bob Mabe; Stobbs Posted 2-6 Mark For Senators

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Billy Muffett, last year's relief hero for the St. Louis Cardinals, is headed for the minor leagues.

Muffett was optioned Wednesday to Omaha of the American Association on a 24-hour recall basis.

At the same time the Cards recalled Bob Mabe from Omaha and bought Chuck Stobbs from the Washington Senators.

Muffett dropped far from the hero role this year as a reliever. Last year he had a 2.25 earned run average which leaped to 6.08 in 21 games and 34 innings this year.

At Omaha, Mabe started eight games, finished five. He won six and lost one and has an ERA of 2.09.

A Washington spokesman said Stobbs' sale was made on waivers —in which event the sales price normally is $20,000. The specific sale price, however, was not disclosed. There were no trades involved.

Stobbs has appeared in 19 games. His record shows 2 wins and 6 losses for an earned run average of 5.89.

He won with Al Mowlee ($5.40) in the second, Nitime ($11.20) in fifth and No Surrender ($16.40) in the seventh.

Altogether he was "in the money" five times, showing with Miss Evelyn ($3.00) in the third and placing with Fall Creek ($3.40) in the eighth.

Don Essig Cops Pair Of Publinx Golf Contests

16 Survivors Move Into Third Round

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Don Essig Wednesday shoved the hex of being defending champion and medalist into the background to win a pair of matches with comparative ease and lead 16 survivors into the third round of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The 19-year-old former Indianapolis caddy, who can become the first defending titlist and medalist to win the meet since 1929, was three under the Silver Lake course's stubborn par of 38-35—73 in advancing through the first two rounds.

He eliminated Walt Durdle, Peoria, Ill., greenskeeper, 4 and 3, in the morning and trimmed Bill Krause, a Palo Alto, Calif., salesman, 4 and 2, in the afternoon.

Essig, who played for the LSU golf team this spring, will meet Dan Sikes Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., in Thursday's third round.

Sikes, a 27-year-old law student in the University of Florida, advanced with a 4 and 3 victory over Leon Radde of Minneapolis and a 2 and 1 decision over Jerry Gallardo of Los Angeles.

Another double round Thursday will set up the 36-hole semifinals Friday. The 36-hole wind-up is Saturday.

Remaining in the field were such threats as Ron Luceti, 21, San Francisco dental student; Warren Strout of Speedway, Ind., 34, an experimental engineer with jet engines; Junie Buxbaum of Memphis, 40, an auto salesman who won the title in 1956; Harry Mussatto of Macomb, Ill., 36, golf coach of Western Illinois University, and Bob Patterson of Portland, Ore., 37, a stevedore.

However, it was Essig who is considered the man to beat. He and Strout were proving the best par breakers on the course.

Western Maryland Beats Keech's, 8-5

Western Maryland Railway tightened it grip on second place in the Rec Softball League by whipping Keech's Drug Stores by the score of 8-5 yesterday in a game staged at Naval Reserve Field.

The victory was the railroaders' 8th in 11 starts. Local 26 leads the league with a 10-1 record.

Western Maryland came from behind to put the game on ice by scoring six runs by coupling four walks with three hits and two sacrifice flies in the 7th and final frame.

"Turtle" Slonaker got credit for the win, his third against one loss. He was supplanted by Denny Knippenberg in the last inning.

The winners racked up 13 hits, three of which were credited to Gerald Lambert. Ellsworth Lambert garnered a pair of doubles while Ansel Shircliffe and Bob Russell had two singles each.

Bob Scaletta accounted for two of Keech's five blows. Score:

Australian Sets Three-Mile Mark

DUBLIN (AP)—Albert Thomas of Australia broke the world three-mile record with a time of 13 minutes, 10.8 seconds Tuesday night.

The accepted record for the distance is 13:14.2 held by Sandor Iharos of Hungary and set in Budapest in 1955.

Thomas, a comparatively unknown young Australian, averaged 4:23.6 for each mile of the grueling race.

Thomas was spurred on by his hard challenging and more famous fellow Australian, Merv Lincoln, a subfour-minute miler.

Victory Morn 2nd At Narragansett

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — Backbone posted his fifth victory in his last six starts by fighting off stretch challenges to win the $57,750 Providence Stakes Tuesday at Narragansett Park.

Carrying the colors of Boncrist Farm owned by New York broker Charles Devine, Backbone moved to the front at the far turn and then refused to yield in the race to the wire in the 13th running of the mile and an eighth test for 3-year-olds.

A tremendous closing bid by Cain Hoy Stable's Victory Morn fell a half-length short, while A. J. Ostriker's Nisht Amool and Winfields Farm's Grey Monarch finished in a dead heat for third, a length and a quarter back.

Backbone boosted his 1957 earnings to $122,402.50 in picking up first money of $36,987.50. He was clocked in 1:50 3-5 over a fast track.

Arcaro Pilots Restless Wind To Jamaica Win

Cops Tremont 'Cap By Seven Lengths

JAMAICA, N. Y., July 9 —(AP)— Llangollen Farm's Restless Wind had an easy time winning the $23,200 Tremont Handicap at Jamaica Race Track today.

The fleet 2-year-old son of Windy City 2nd-Lump Sugar, handled by Eddie Arcaro, won by seven lengths eased up in the five and a half furlong dash clocked in the swift time of 1:04 2/5. It was the fastest time for the distance at Jamaica this year and fastest running of the stake since 1940.

Maine Chance Farm's Dark Prince was second a head in front of Reginald N. Webster's Royal Anthem. The others in the field of five were never in contention.

The only real racing was for second place with Dark Prince holding off Royal Anthem.

Restless Wind earned $14,830 net for Mrs. Elizabeth N. Lunn of Upperville, Va., mistress of Llangollen Farm. It was the fourth straight victory for the colt and the second stakes, having previously won the colt division of the National Stallion.

Prohibitive favorite with the crowd of 21,824, Restless Wind paid $2.40, $2.20 and $2.10. Dark Prince was $3.20 and $2.10 and Royal Anthem $2.10 to show. The win price was the shortest mutuel of the year in New York.

Silky Has Fever, May Miss Big Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Silky Sullivan cropped up with a fever Wednesday and probably will not run in the $100,000 Westerner for 3-year-olds at Hollywood Park July 19.

Trainer Reggie Cornell disclosed that the handsome California chestnut colt developed a cough two days ago.

Cornell said that if all goes well, Silky will go to Chicago later in the summer for stakes races against 3-year-olds.

Silky won his last race, a 7-furlong affair over mediocre opposition and did it in surpising style. He stayed right on the pace instead of dropping back 30 or more lengths, as was his custom.

Senator Directors Vote Against Shifting Team

Decide To Keep Club At Capital

By J. W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board of directors of the Washington Baseball club voted Wednesday against shifting the team to Minneapolis or anywhere else.

Only two days ago Senators' President Calvin Griffith had talked with his fellow American League club owners about making a move.

Wednesday, he himself announced that the board has now adopted a resolution saying none of its officers or directors "shall hereafter engage in any negotiations or discuss any offers, either oral or written, regarding a transfer."

Griffith's fellow club owners had already made it plain they were against any move out of Washington at this time. Some considered the timing was bad, with Congress now considering legislation affecting baseball. They also pointed to the prestige angles of having a club in the nation's capital. The Senators have been here 58 years.

Griffith recalled that last October the ball club's directors voted against transferring the franchise to another city which "was very anxious to obtain it and had made an attractive offer from a business standpoint."

Griffith did not identify the city, but presumably it was Minneapolis, which during that perio had guaranteed the Senators a modern stadium and a million paid admissions for three straight years.

Cardwell is slated to start against the Chicago Cubs next Monday.

The Phillies, whose strong point has been pitching, have won six of their last seven games, moving from seventh place in the National League to fourth place, three games behind league-leading Milwaukee.

Little Hermit, 13-1 Shot, Cops Monmouth Race

Karl Korte Aboard, Victor Returns $29

OCEANPORT, N. J., July 9 (AP) —Little Hermit, 13-1 outsider in the field of six, today won the 12th running of the $16,800 Long Branch Handicap at Monmouth Park before 22,383 fans.

The 4-year-old colt by Ambiorix staved off the stretch bid of Hellanicus to prevail by a head in the mile and one sixteenth event. In winning his first stakes of his career and third race in 17 starts this year, Little Hermit, owned by John S. Kroese of Teaneck, N. J., paid $29.00, $9.20 and $4.60 across-the-board. Hellanicus returned $8.40 and $4.80 and Beam Rider was $4.00 to show.

Little Hermit was ridden by Karl Korte and completed the journey over a "slow" track in 1.44 4/5 under lightweight of 111 pounds.

Beam Rider was third, a length back of Hellanicus and two and a half lengths in advance of Ambergris. True Verdict, in front for three-quarters of a mile, was fifth. Go lightly, the 19-10 favorite, was second for a half mile and finished last.

Kroese, a director of Monmouth Park, received $10,745 for his colt's triumph.

Boy, 8, Drowns Visiting Camp

PATUXENT, Md. (AP)—About 125 youngsters from a camp in Southern Maryland were visiting Patuxent Naval Air Station on an outing when one of them drowned in the Patuxent River.

The base identified the victim as 8-year-old Dennis Pincus of (5345 Chillum Place, N.E.) Washington, D. C.

While the children were swimming at the enlisted men's beach, six of them swam out to a yellow bouy marking the outer limit of the swimming area. They were carried beyond the bouy by wind and tide, the base said, but Navy lifeguards rescued five of them.

A Navy helicopter on a routine flight saw the body of the Pincus boy about 10 feet from the shore, landed on the beach and waded in to recover it.

Three of the five children rescued were hospitalized here at the base.

The public information officer identified them as Michael Berg, Roger Sutton and Joel Matuskey, all of Washington. Camp officials, who did not have ages or street addresses immediately, said they understood the boys were not in serious condition.

The 125 youngsters, along with 25 counselors, were from Camp Kaufmann at Huntingtown, Calvert County.

Inspection Of Guard Postponed By Weather

Inclement flying weather forced postponement of an inspection of the local National Guard unit Monday evening, according to spokesmen of the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment.

Scheduled to make the inspection was Brig. Gen. William J. Witte, of the 29th Infantry Division headquarters in Baltimore. The inspection is not expected to be made until after the field training next month, spokesmen said.

Television And Radio

on movie stars and comic strips, the educational system needs to be revised from head to toe.

One of the other four quiz shows which was unfurled before a breathlessly waiting world last week is known as "For Love Or Money" and the wrinkle that marks this one off from all other quiz shows is the galloping decimal mark. (Yes, junior, all quiz shows are a little different from all other quiz shows just as no two snowflakes have ever been discovered to be exactly alike. Of course, you have to look at a snowflake a long time before you discover why it's different from all other snowflakes but then that is a test of your ingenuity).

Anyhow, this galloping decimal point jumps around a figure like 639 so that it becomes either $639 or $6.39 or $63.90 or .06. (Six cents to you, Buster.) On the opening show, by George, two people walked off with fortunes totalling exactly two cents. Any week where four contestants don't recognize Fred MacMurray and two contestants can't do better than two cents, hell, that's no recession. That's a full scale depression.

Get ready to dive into a summer of fine style

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Get In The Swim

With summer well on its way, everyone wants to spend lazy days at the beach. But before you can get too involved in such a pleasant state of affairs, you have to plan not only your time but your summer swim. Since most young gatherings center around swimming, your bathing costume practically becomes your summer wardrobe.

You'll want to make it your whole wardrobe when you see what the designers have dreamed up for summer. What an array of suits! Knits, cottons, stripes, plaids, prints and lastex. The same variety goes for silhouettes—there are so many from which to choose to give you figure flattery.

The wise thing to do is select at least two suits, let's say a knit suit and a fit suit — a bright suit and a tight suit, or a cotton suit and a strictly swimsuit.

Very newsy is the knit suit in a rose pattern that could be called back talk. It's knitted with lastex for the best-in-fit. Its sleek sheath shape is cut to a daringly low back. For the sweatered look and to stripe your fancy is a button-down-front knit of textured boucle stripe to emphasize the slender princess line.

For perfect stroll - down - the - beach cover up, many of the suits are coordinated with Jamaica shorts or an airy voile shirt or plaid cotton skirt to wear in any number of combinations.

TOMORROW: Your Charm of Manner.

"FIGURED FOR YOU"—Figured For You, gives expert detailed instructions and illustrates how to select foundation garments that provide comeliness, control and healthful comfort for your individual type of figure. Quiz For Columnists

There's a delightful new quiz game which can be played exclusively by TV columnists. In five paragraphs or less describe "Lucky Partners," the delightful new quiz game on NBC. Go ahead—I dare you to try. If you can do it in four paragraphs, you get the home bonus jackpot extra.

There's a special hell reserved for TV columnists and that is describing parlor games either with or without a straight face. No greater test has ever confronted a writer. In fact, I keep wondering how Martin and Allan Stone sold "Lucky Partners" to NBC in the first place. They sure as hell didn't explain it in a letter. They couldn't. The reader would go mad.

As I reconstruct the crime, these guys were in somebody's office waving their arms like windmills and saying: "Now, right here is the board which is a column of figures under the letters which spell out LUCKY. Whaddaya mean you don't understand already? It gets much harder.

"Now pay attention. The emcee asks the first lucky partner who invented X-rays and if knows the answer the number eight lights up under the letter K. Why the eight? Why under the K? Well, because that's an invention-type question. If it was animals, the 3 would have lit up under C. You understand?"

Of course you do. And you can play "Lucky Parners," you lucky housewives, five days a week, on NBC at 2 p. m. Or at least you can watch somebody else play it. You can see the TV sets, the ranges, the air conditioners, and all the other prizes. If you have a dollar bill, you can mark out the last five digits of the serial number under the word "LUCKY." Just what good will that do you, I haven't yet figured out. It makes you a Lucky partner to somebody or other and entitles you to try out for the grand prize. Or some such thing.

Speaking as a guy who after ten years has just begun to figure out what they're doing on "What's My Line?", "Lucky Partners" is way over my head. In case it's over yours, you might try "Haggis Baggis," which follows it on NBC every afternoon and has the added distinction of being seen Monday nights, too. Besides that delightfully inscrutable name, "Haggis Baggis" is chiefly distinguished by . . . now, let's see, there must be something distinctive about it. Well, it differs from "Dotto" in that "Dotto" gradually makes a picture of somebody by connecting dots whereas "Haggis Baggis" gradually fills out a picture square by square—if that's clear, and I doubt it.

In both games, as the picture gradually fills, the contestants are given an opportunity to guess who the picture is of. Well, sir, the other day the picture filled all the way. Four contestants stared at it utterly baffled.

"You should know who that is!" shouted Fred Robbins, the emcee. "It's Fred MacMurray. You know—from the George Gobel show."

But they didn't know. It's enough to make a quizmaster turn in his bridgework. We're all aware that no one goes to the movies any more so you can't use movie stars as the answers on quiz shows. But, heavens to Betsy, if they don't recognize a movie star who has appeared on the Gobel show, whom would they recognize? If people aren't going to the movies or looking at the Gobel show, what on earth are they doing these days—reading books?

There are some surprising areas of ignorance being uncovered. The other day on "Lucky Partners" a girl who had easily identified the inventor of the M-1 rifle, failed lamentably to identify the creator of Dick Tracy, Terry and the Pirates or Tarzan. Her partner thought Pogo was a mole when any damned fool knows it's a possum. I tell you, Mabel, if quiz contestants are falling down

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (AP)—Traders said they could see little or no reason to do more than the minimum business in futures contracts Wednesday and prices of the major grains were mostly lower.

Rye was the exception with gains running well over a cent a bushel in all contracts which more than recovered the setbacks of Tuesday when dealers took their cue from the Winnipeg market and dumped liberal offerings into the pit.

A good deal of Wednesday's demand was to reinstate those positions since overnight reports served to confirm earlier advices that the outlook for the crop in Western Canada still is poor.

Activity in wheat continued limited in the absence of hedging and substantial commercial demand.

Wheat closed ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, July $1.82; corn ⅜-1⅜ lower, July $1.29⅞-30; oats ¼ higher to ¼ lower, July 64; rye 1⅛-1⅞ higher, July $1.26; soybeans ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, July $2.24¼-⅛; lard 2 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $12.52.

Pressure has been on corn almost steadily for the past several days, since the pickup in producer selling and the increase in commercial supplies at some major terminals.

Some of the scattered soybean demand was related to higher prices of soybean meal.

Ford Motor Slash Shocks Stock Market Into Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—A dividend slash by Ford Motor Co. shocked Wall Street Wednesday and a previously higher stock market tumbled to a loss.

The decline was moderate and irregular on average although Ford and some other issues were clipped for sharp losses. Trading was moderately active.

News that Ford had cut its dividend to 40 cents from 60 cents came in mid-afternoon. Almost simultaneously with news of the dividend cut, Ford stock sold at 42¾, a new peak for this year, and up ⅜ from the previous close.

Ford was immediately barraged with selling which drove it down to 39½, a loss of 2⅞ on the day.

Other prices deteriorated along with Ford but there was no tremendous rush to unload. Tobaccos were nicely ahead early in the day and remained on the plus side by narrower margins. Some building materials, motion picture and selected issues kept gains. But motors, steels, oils, rubbers, aircrafts, electronics and most chemicals were generally lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 70 cents to $174.60 with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,175 issues traded, 579 declined and 349 rose. New highs for the year totaled 53 and there were 4 new lows.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose and 7 fell.

Volume was 2,630,000 shares compared with 2,430,000 Tuesday.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly lower on volume of 780,000 shares compared with 840,000 Tuesday.

Refugee Shot To Death On Hunting Trip

Imre Kiss Served In Hungary Army

A 23-year-old Hungarian refugee was accidentally shot to death yesterday afternoon on a farm near Manns Choice, Pa.

Imre Kiss was pronounced dead on arrival at Bedford County Hospital where he was taken after the shooting on the farm of C. T. Bockhouse.

Ralph Mickle, deputy coroner of Bedford County, said the victim died of a chest wound as a result of the accidental shooting.

Mr. Mickle said Mr. Kiss and two friends, Robert Jones Jr. and Charles Bockhouse, had just returned from hunting groundhogs and were sitting in a parked car.

Rifle Discharges

Jones and Bockhouse were sitting in the front seat and Mr. Kiss was alone in the rear seat. Mr. Mickle said the Bockhouse youth was taking the bolt off the .218 Bee rifle when it discharged.

Mr. Mickle said the bullet passed through the back of the front seat and struck the victim in the chest. He was taken to the hospital but was pronounced dead.

The accident also was investigated by Trooper Harry Rook of Bedford detachment of the Pennsylvania State Police.

The Hungarian refugee came to this country after the revolution and was sponsored by C. T. Bockhouse, on whose farm the accident occurred.

Fled Revolution

Mr. Kiss left Manns Choice in November 1957 for New York City, where he had been employed in a furniture factory. He returned Tuesday to his home in Manns Choice to spend his summer vacation.

Mr. Kiss had been a member of the Hungarian Army, but fled from Hungary during the revolution there in the fall of 1956. He was a member of Lybarger Lutheran Church near Manns Choice.

He is survived by his father, Albert Kiss, who still resides in Hungary, and two sisters who also are living there.

The body is at the Zeigler Funeral Home, Hyndman.

High, Wide And Handsome

Cumberland Contracting Company workers are blacktopping the new Polish Mountain section of U. S. Route 40 which is being completed for the State Roads Commission by the Central Pennsylvania Quarry, Stripping and Construction Company, of Hazelton. The view, looking toward Gilpintown, shows that visitors to this area will not only ride over a modern mountain highway but will be able to enjoy Western Maryland's beautiful scenery. Paving on the $1,594,280 project which runs from the top of Polish Mountain nearly two miles, will be completed within a few weeks.

Fresh Air Kids To Arrive Here This Afternoon

New Yorkers To Get Two-Week Vacation

A large delegation of excited Fresh Air Kids from New York will arrive here this afternoon for a two-week vacation in Cumberland and in nearby farm communities of Garrett County and Pennsylvania.

Six of the youngsters will detrain from a B&O passenger train at Queen City Station and will be greeted by a reception committee. The others will continue their train trip to Meyersdale, Pa.

Locally, the children will be entertained by the Parent Teacher Association of SS. Peter and Paul parish in cooperation with the New York Herald-Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

Thomas B. Cumiskey Jr., 418 Holland Street, chairman of the "Friendly Town" committee, said William Wong, 10, will stay at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Moore, Cash Valley Road, while Elizabeth Teheou, 11, will visit with Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Stakem, 314 Columbia Street.

Chun Fip Lee, 11, will be taken home by Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Naughton; Lillian Chau, 10, by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Moore, 714 Fayette Street; Lily Mae Wong, 10, by Police Officer and Mrs. W. E. Father John D. Moore, local Maryknoll missionary, and assistant in Chinese work in the parish of the Transfiguration in New York's Chinatown, will be at the station to greet the youngsters. He makes arrangements for the children to visit local families.

Members of the Mennonite Conservative Group will sponsor the children who will spend a vacation in Garrett County and rural communities of nearby Pennsylvania. Other groups will visit those communities throughout the summer. A member of the committee is Paul E. Fuller, editor of the Meyersdale Republican, who said this summer is the first year the youngsters will spend a vacation in the Meyersdale Borough.

The children will be getting plenty of fresh air on the farms of their benefactors. Chairman of the project is Rev. Ivan J. Miller of Grantsville. His wife is also on the committee along with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Beitzel, Bittinger; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Yoder, Meyersdale RD 2; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schrock, Grantsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Pa. Boy, 6, Struck By Automobile

A six-year-old boy who lives in Defiance, Pa., about 18 miles from Bedford, was hospitalized yesterday after being struck by an auto.

Allen Baker was admitted to a Huntingdon hospital where his condition last night was reported as "fair." He sustained a laceration of his right ankle and contusions and lacerations of his head.

Driver of the automobile was Riley Donahue, 64, of Robertsdale, Pa., who was traveling east on Pennsylvania State Route 529 in Defiance.

Police said the lad darted into the path of the sedan about 11:40 a. m. He was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Meanwhile a Grand Rapids, Mich. man, Kenneth L. Smith, is reported in "good" condition at Bedford County Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted yesterday with injuries sustained in a two-car crash at the Breezewood Interchange.

Authorities said the driver of the other car was Robert Ponicall of Pittsburgh, who apparently was unhurt. Both vehicles were traveling west on the turnpike.

County School Enrollment Exceeds 16,000

Higgins Discusses Attendance Trends

Enrollment in the Allegany County public schools went over the 16,000 mark for the first time during the 1957-58 school year, according to figures explained yesterday by Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county schools.

Actual enrollment at the end of the first month of the school year was 15,930. During the school year, some 409 other pupils came into the county from elsewhere in Maryland and from out of state.

Offsetting that 409 increase was a loss of 310 students who moved out of the county into other parts of the state and into other states. That meant a net gain of 99 through the transfer of pupils during the school year, and made the net total enrollment 16,029.

Mr. Higgins also disclosed that 35 pupils had to withdraw from school because of their physical condition in the past school year. Some of them were able to take advantage of home teaching arrangements and the majority are expected to be able to return to school ultimately.

56 Girls Get Married

During the 1957-58 school year, 56 high school girls were married. Of that number, 37 dropped out of school, leaving 19 in class until the end of the school year.

The supervisor of pupil personnel also reported on school attendance in the school year, which fell below the level of the past five years. Mr. Higgins attributed this to the unusually severe winter and the increase in viruses, especially Asian flu last fall.

Elementary school attendance averaged 93.2 per cent in 1957-58, compared with a range between 94.6 per cent and 95.6 per cent in the past five years. Junior high school students averaged 94.4 per cent, down more than one per cent below the range between 96.1 per cent and 96.4 per cent of the last five years. Senior high school attendance averaged 93.7 per cent, much below the 95.1 to 95.5 per cent average of the last five years.

Mr. Higgins said Allegany County generally leads the state in school attendance and he expects the same to be true despite the lower averages this year. School officials emphasize that Allegany County school children like to go to school, and they attribute this primarily to parent interest in good education and good schools.

Attendance Leaders

Among the smaller elementary schools, Carver had the highest average attendance of 96.3 per cent. Among the larger elementary schools, Hill Street of Frostburg was the leader with 94.5 per cent. Aside from Carver, Luke was the only elementary school to average better than 95 per cent, reaching 95.1 per cent.

Carver Junior High School was the junior high school leader at 95.1 per cent. The senior high leader was Beall High School of Frostburg with 95.8 per cent. The two large Cumberland schools were both above 93 per cent. Allegany averaged 93.8 per cent and Fort Hill 93.3 per cent.

The supervisor also reported yesterday that 7,549 pupils were transported to school at public expense in the 1957-58 school year.

Mr. Higgins also reported on a six-year survey of withdrawals from school among the children who reach 16 and are no longer compelled by law to go to school. In that six-year span the withdrawals ranged from a low of 157 in 1954-55 to a high of 205 in 1956-57. Other totals were 181, 1952-53; 169, 1953-54; 168, 1955-56; 192, 1957-58.

These dropouts are much lower than during the 1930s, when they ranged between 500 and 600 pupils per year.

The withdrawals represent 2.4 per cent of the total enrollment between the seventh and 12th grades. It was 5.6 per cent of the children who have reached the age of 16.

Construction At State Parks Being Pushed

A number of construction projects in state parks and recreation areas of Garrett and Allegany counties already are under way and more will commence next week.

William A. Parr, superintendent of state parks, was here yesterday to discuss the improvements with District Forester William H. Johnson.

At the new Deep Creek Park in Garrett County, plans for the bath house are nearly complete and construction will be started by department workers next week.

The 24 by 89 foot bath house will be of the self-service type and will include toilet facilities, shower and dressing booths. There will be separate sections for men and women and the central portion with the toilet facilities will be equipped with a translucent plastic roof.

Construction of the concrete block building is expected to be finished by fall.

Also to be constructed at Deep Creek Park is a wash house with laundry facilities, toilets and showers near the camping area. One camping area already has been completed. A water main from a deep well also is being installed but completion of this project is being delayed, awaiting shipment of the pump.

Bids will be received by the end of July for construction of a 12,000-gallon reservoir at Deep Creek Park. Construction also will start next week on an access road leading to parking areas at the Deep Creek Park. One completed area can handle 150 cars and a second lot will be able to take care of 200 more cars.

The district forester also reported that the fish pond at the Dan's Mountain Recreation Area near Lonaconing in Allegany County is almost finished. A ball diamond there also has been diagrammed roughly. Construction will start soon on an access road to a new picnic area.

At the New Germany Recreation Area in Garrett County, a wash house is nearing completion. A camping area has been laid out and the Garrett County Roads Department has contracted to build an access road to the camping area and hopes to have it opened within two weeks. County road workers also are building a parking area there.

Psychiatrist Visits County Institutions

Dr. David Edwards, part-time director of mental health for the Allegany County Health Department, was afforded the opportunity Tuesday of visiting the three institutions maintained by the county for the ill, the old and the infirm.

Under the new arrangements which became effective July 1, Dr. Edwards will devote three days of each week to Allegany County. For the past three or four years, Dr. Edwards has been spending one day each week in this county as clinical psychiatrist. The rest of his week he worked as psychologist at Spring Grove State Hospital at Catonsville.

Now that he is working three days a week in this county, Dr. Edwards has resigned from the Spring Grove Hospital staff. He plans to devote two days each week to some other county in Maryland or West Virginia.

Dr. Ton van Strien, director of the County Health Department, said Dr. Edwards will work full time in this county during July. During August and September he will be away on vacation.

Tuesday, Dr. Edwards was guided on a tour of Sylvan Retreat, the County Home and County Infirmary by Dr. J. E. McLean, who is the physician at all three institutions. They were accompanied on the tour by Dr. van Strien and Earl D. Grim, superintendent of the County Home and County Infirmary, and Clinton Rogers of Keyser and Robert J. Dawson of Lonaconing, both students at the University of Maryland Medical School.

Dr. Edwards expressed an interest in visiting the county institutions so that he will be more familiar with the facilities available for treatment of county residents. Dr. van Strien said the psychiatrist showed special interest in the two detention rooms for juvenile offenders at the County Infirmary.

The psychiatrist hopes to be able to advise the county on ways to get maximum use of the institutions. In prior years most of his work in this county was of a clinical nature.

The overall increase in the county mental health budget for the current fiscal year is about $5,000.

Arrangements have been made with Memorial Hospital for the two medical students to get special training this summer at the hospital under the direction of Dr. Benedict Skitarelic. Mr. Rogers will be there for two weeks starting July 14, and Mr. Dawson for one week beginning July 28.

Postage Hike Means Batch Of New Stamps

Stamp collecting enthusiasts will have a field day when August 1 rolls around, bringing with it an increase in postal rates, including air mail.

Thomas F. Conlon Sr., local postmaster, has received data from the Post Office Department concerning the new issues which will go on sale at stamp windows throughout the nation.

The new seven-cent airmail stamp will be first placed on sale at Philadelphia on the occasion of the annual convention of the American Airmail Society.

The central design of the blue stamp features a silhoutte view of the wingspread and fuselage of a composite jet airliner of the most advanced type which will soon be in commercial use on the nation's major airlines.

The seven-cent embossed airmail stamped envelope will be first placed on sale at Dayton, Ohio. The seven-cent airmail stamp booklet will be first released through the San Antonio, Tex., post office. The booklet is composed of two panes of six stamps and the design is identical to the new seven-cent airmail stamp.

The five-cent airmail stamp, being issued primarily for the convenience of patrons desiring to send souvenir post cards by airmail, will be first placed on sale at the post office in Colorado Spring, Colo.

Wichita, Kans. will be the place where the new five-cent airmail postal card goes on sale for the first time. The four-cent Lincoln stamp (lavender) in coils will be first placed on sale at Mandan, North Dakota. The design is similar to the four-cent issue of the regular series currently in use.

The department will issue a new three-cent postal card through the Philadelphia post office on August 1 during the exhibition and convention of the American First Day Cover Society.

However the driver had to remain at the scene until maintenance men of the company arrived to remove the broken section of the pole.

General Purnell Protests Slash In 29th Division

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The Commander of the National Guard 29th Division Wednesday described as a "great disappointment" the Army's decision to reduce the combat strength of the division.

"It appears to be part of a continuing effort by the Department of the Army to relegate the National Guard to a subordinate status in the defense establishment of the United States," Maj. Gen. William C. Purnell said.

The Army's plan, announced Tuesday, calls for building up five National Guard divisions in other states to five battle groups, each under the new pentomic concept.

The 29th and 15 other infantry divisions would be reorganized with three, instead of five, battle groups considerably under their present strength.

City Officials Talk On Budget

Four city officials spent a good deal of time yesterday discussing an unpleasant subject at City Hall—the budget for the new fiscal year.

Participants in the conference in the mayor's office were Mayor J. Edwin Keech, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, the new finance commissioner; William R. Carscaden, the new city attorney, and Arthur B. Gibson, the veteran city auditor.

Mr. Gibson devoted a good deal of time to reviewing past budgets and enlightening the newcomers on the problems they face in adoption of the budget on or about August 25.

Tuesday, Mr. Gibson reported that the tax levy of the City of Cumberland is expected to go about $40,000 over the top. This additional revenue is the result of increases in assessments used when the tax levy was set last August.
